Boardwalk Art Show Taking On International Air

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH—While discussions were underway last week between city officials and members of the Virginia Beach Art Association on who would do what toward the 1962 Boardwalk Art Show, the show was quietly slipping into a possible international affair.

A lovely watercolor painting from an unknown artist in Indonesia arrived at the home of the show's registrar, Mrs. Gordon Atwell, with a notation that it was to be exhibited in the Boardwalk Art Show.

Can't Read Name

No letter of explanation or instruction accompanied this painting and no one can decipher the artist's signature. But apparently word of the fast-growing show reached foreign shores and artists there took interest.

A similar incident happened last year. Two paintings from Turkey arrived in the same manner and though no thought had been given to making the show that widespread the pieces were exhibited. And they sold at good prices.

"If we can get free of the financial worry of the show," Mrs. John Anderson, president of the Art Association, said, "we can devote more time to promoting it. The Indonesian painting shows what a tremendous possibility we have here. Just think of the people the show would draw to Virginia Beach if we exhibited international artists!"

The show has been growing at such a rapid pace over the past six years that the sponsoring association said last week it might have to abandon it this year because of the heavy work and expenses of such an exhibit.

"The spirit of cooperation and understanding by all concerned greatly reduced the many problems we encountered in this situation, and demonstrated again the close relationship enjoyed by the officials and citizens of our community with the officers and men stationed here."

School P-TA Gets Special Wood Gavel

THOROUGHGOOD—The Thoroughgood Elementary School P-TA recently received a gavel and sounding block made of wood from the historic Adam Thoroughgood House.

The presentation came after Mrs. M. D. Cate, school grounds beautification chairman, made arrangements with the Norfolk Museum of Arts and Sciences, which has custody of the old home, to obtain pieces of the wood.

The gavel and block were made by E. E. Goldsby, a patron of the school, from a limb of an elm tree believed to be more than 150 years old. The tree was uprooted during a hurricane in 1960.

Plans were also discussed for contacting the builders for additional street lights and the location of a play area for youngsters.

home town the three times it has been presented there as well as at the two showings at the Norfolk Arena.

When the "Living Dramatization" was presented last year at the Reynolds Auditorium in Winston-Salem, N.C., it drew a record crowd of over 4,000.

The production is staged and enacted by the members of the Official Board of the Elm Ave. Methodist Church of Portsmouth. The script for the pageant, which is composed of 12 soliloquies, was written and is directed by the Rev. Ernest K. Emurian, pastor of the Portsmouth Church.

The hour-long drama is supported by several outstanding solo numbers and a choir of 50 persons.

Top Damage Award Given In P.A. Suit

PRINCESS ANNE—Mrs. Alma C. Mazingo was awarded $144,000, the largest damage verdict in the county's history, Monday by a Circuit Court jury for the death of her husband, Henry D. Mazingo Jr., who was killed in a plane crash in 1957.

The suit was filed against the estate of Mrs. Mazingo's brother, the late James N. Collier, who was piloting the plane when it crashed at Hatteras Inlet.

Also killed in the same accident were Arthur Harriman and R. L. Womack, all close friends and business associates. Collier and Mazingo were instrumental in developing Thoroughgood Estates and Collier developed Baylake Pines.

According to testimony, Collier was a private pilot qualified for visual flights only. He reportedly took off from the Hatteras beach at night, became disoriented over the ocean and crashed into the water.

The estates of Harriman and Womack settled their cases against Collier's estate out of court.

Council Votes To Seek Tie-in With HRSD Unit

Governing Body Also Approves Traffic Light at 25th Street

VIRGINIA BEACH—City Council approved a resolution Monday petitioning the Princess Anne County Circuit Court to include the city in the Hampton Roads Sanitation Commission District.

The County is making a similar request and a survey is underway to see if it is feasible to include the entire area in the District.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett indicated that it would not only be feasible but would be desirable.

If Virginia Beach is included in the District it may solve the water pollution problem since it will probably mean that the Laskin Road sewage treatment plant will either be modernized or abandoned.

The State Water Control Board in Richmond recently reported that the plant is overloaded at peak times, contributing to the pollution found in Litchford Bay.

The court is expected to set a date soon for a public hearing on the question.

In other action, the Council: Approved the Virginia Beach Amusement & Pier Co.'s franchise to operate a fishing pier on the ocean between 14th and 18th streets. They asked City Attorney George Vahos to prepare an ordinance allowing the Pier Company to replace parts of the storm-damaged structure.

Granted Mr. Dudley Cooper permission to rebuild the outdoor stage at Seaside Park, which was destroyed by the March 7 storm. They asked Vahos to draw up legal papers protecting the city in the event of an accident since the stage will be on city-owned property.

Appropriated $2,518.40 to install a traffic light at the intersection of 25th Street and Pacific Avenue.

Accepted, with regret, the resignation of C. Talmage Bagley, who will soon be transferred to another area, from the Board of Electrical Examiners.

In order to speed the final victory over cancer, the American Cancer Society must intensify its efforts to bring life-saving facts to the public, to improve the care of the cancer patient, and to accelerate its research program.

I urge that every citizen of the State observe Cancer Control Month through increased support of the American Cancer Society and by learning the facts about cancer that are vital to personal protection from this disease."

Historic Homes Open for Tour In Williamsburg

WILLIAMSBURG — Historic Garden Week in Williamsburg, which has been set for April 24 and 25, will feature six historic private homes plus two exhibition buildings in the old capital's restored area.

Private residences to be opened to the public during the two-day tour include the Benjamin-Waller House, the Allen-Byrd House and kitchen, Belle Farm, Bel-Mede, the President's House by day and the Norton-Cole House by candlelight only. The Governor's Palace and Raleigh Tavern also will be included to Garden Week visitors on a special combination ticket.

The Allen-Byrd House, open both by day and by candlelight, should prove of particular interest to Garden Week visitors. This will be the first time this imposing two-story home dating back to the early 18th century has been opened to the general public. It was recently refurbished by Colonial Williamsburg for use as a guest house of the Williamsburg Inn.

The Allen-Byrd House was first owned by Colonel William Allen, a wealthy Surry County planter, and was purchased in 1769 by William Byrd, III, of Westover. Byrd squandered his inheritance, however, and at the time of his death in 1777, the handsome home was being rented by the Rev. John Bracken, who later purchased it.

The home is distinguished by the fact that the second story ceilings are as high as the first, a rare feature among colonial homes, and by the belt course in molded brick which complements the Flemish bond pattern. A wrought-iron balcony similar to that on the front of the Governor's Palace also decorates the building.

Furnished from the extensive Colonial Williamsburg collection, the interior will be of interest to antique enthusiasts. Exquisite 18th century Chinese wallpaper in the dining room is complemented by curtains of a deep burnt-orange. In the parlor are two portraits which once hung at Westover and later at Brandon. One is of Maria Taylor Byrd, the wife of Colonel William Byrd, II; the other is of Colonel Byrd's daughter, Ann Byrd, at the age of nine. The downstairs also features a rare 18th century secretary-bookcase of unusually light mahogany.

The Benjamin-Waller House, also open for the first time since its restoration, is a gracious two-story frame house on Francis Street, originally built around 1750 as a private residence by Benjamin Waller, law teacher of George Wythe. It was also occupied by his great-grandson, William Waller, who married Elizabeth Tyler, daughter of President John Tyler. It opens into a formal English garden, which was reconstructed from a sketch drawn by Elizabeth Waller, Benjamin Waller's daughter. The home is presently occupied by Mr. & Mrs. George B. Eager.

Belle Farm, located on Indian Springs Road, was originally built during the 18th century in Gloucester County by an ancestor of the present owner, Mr. John Latane Lewis, Jr. This handsome house was rebuilt in Williamsburg in 1952 and contains some rare original woodwork and paneling. Of special interest are the arched hallway and the stairway built in three sections. It contains many rare English antiques and fine old paintings. It is the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis.

Bel-Mede is another privately owned residence which was removed from its original site and rebuilt in Williamsburg. Located on Burns Lane, this distinctive two-story brick and frame house is the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Thorne. Sports Clubbers Prepare For Fall Football Fare

By J. F. BRYANT, JR.
Va. Beach Sports Club

The topic of football is often forgotten during the summer and for good reasons. The fans interest turns to forms of entertainment such as baseball, fishing, swimming, boating and other summer sports.

Football, although forgotten by most, will be very much on the minds of the local sports clubbers. Preparations are being made for the formation of six and eight man football league in our area for the youths between the ages of 10-13.

The largest single task is finding a means whereby the money will be raised to finance the program. The club has a tentative plan at present, but until the details are worked out the information can not be released.

Uniforms must be purchased fields to play on made available, Supervisors arranged, storage space secured near playing sites, Coaches and officials obtained, and last but not least, community interest and teams. This will be a tremendous undertaking for a group as small as the Sports Club of Virginia Beach; but they feel that the good derived from the program will far outweigh the time and effort expended.

Benefit School Players

As the boys who participate grow older and move up into faster company there will be a marked improvement in the caliber of athletes turned out by our local High School.

More boys will begin to receive their training in fundamentals earlier and as a result the jobs of our local high school coaches will be made considerably easier.

Awarded the many benefits that will be derived from just participation in the league, there will be added goals that the boys will be able to strive for.

The Sports Club is in hopes of having an annual awards banquet for the winners of both 6 and 8 man leagues, an outstanding player trophy awarded in each league and an all-Star team chosen. As a climax to the regular playing season the all-Star will play the regular season champs.

A further plan has been discussed with the Norfolk Recreation Department and it has been agreed that if and when our caliber of football reaches there we will be able to have an all-Star game played between the two cities. The game will be played at Virginia Beach the first year and then alternated each year between the two cities similar to Kid Bowl that used to be played between Norfolk and Portsmouth.

The club feels that by offering these post season games and honor that interest will be stimulated both among the players and coaches.

As the season moves along I will use this column in conjunction with the league when necessary plus the weekly write-up concerning the games and their outstanding performer.

I realize that it is early in the season but anyone who is interested in the formation of the league and who would like to coach or officiate, please contact me by dropping a post card in the mail, c/o Box 299, Virginia Beach, Virginia.

King Returns From Golf Tour For Home Visit

Claude King, Virginia Beach's contribution to professional golf on the nationwide tour, returned home this week after many heart-breaking weeks on the tour. He plays in the Greensboro Open this week while the better known professionals are competing in the famed Augusta National in Ga.

Despite a decided lack of success so far on the tough tournament trail King indicated that he is not in the least discouraged and will stay with the play-for-pay boys for some time to come.

King's best showing during the winter tour was in the Tucson where he finished in the money and collected a check for $490. He also won a few dollars at New Orleans where he was only six shots back of the leaders going into the final round. He skied to a 79 there but was at the pay window.

The Virginia Beach pro has stated repeatedly that he is hitting the ball well from tee to green and that he can play with the best of the pros up to that point. He insists that his putting has been his downfall and his short game.

Observers believe King will continue to improve and if he can get his short game and putting under control he will get hot and began hitting the charmed circle of winners.

SURFSIDE '62

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

The back door of the Virginia Beach Sun-News became an improvised maternity ward last Friday morning when a grey and white cat, probably of the alley-type species, gave birth to five kittens.

Only three of the babies survived but lovelier kittens you never saw.

By mid-morning every staff member of this newspaper had privately adopted the family and between gripes of "why in the world did that cat pick us" were quietly planning to supply the new mother with food and plenty of attention.

The cat never had it so good. Over the week-end she stuffed herself with bowls of milk, cat food and the remains of two roast beef dinners ... all supplied by Sun-News personnel who were convinced no one else would think of her.

During a Sunday afternoon trip to town the Phillips brood dropped by a bowl of goodies only to find that the poor cat had more than she could eat.

Since food was not her primary concern we decided the next best thing was to make her comfortable. So we prepared a well-lit box and stuck it in an overturned garbage can to protect her from the weather.

"Mama-Kitty" would have none of this. Back she and her ones went to their cubby-hole in the wall. Monday morning the family was gone. But before I could the stricken expression of my face the boss-man stated that adoptees are now members of the A. R. Mailhes family. They comfortably housed and living the "life of Riley" in Bayway.

USING PSYCHOLOGY

Of course, there was method in the boss-man's madness—we staffers get a lot more work done when we don't have to run out the back door every few minutes to see how "our" cats are doing!

While everyone was eagerly awaiting their first glimpse of a robin, Mr. and Mrs. George Mullin of Bay Colony Drive were wondering what to do with all the red-breasted fowls dominating their front yard.

The Mullin residence had evidently been chosen as the convention site for hundreds of robins congregating in the nearby woods. Every evening just before dark they would swarm down into the Mullin yard and rudely scratch away.

This lasted for several weeks then the visiting mob disappeared just as suddenly as they had appeared. Now the Mullins rather miss the hectic chatter of the early evening bird talk.

Mrs. Harry Larson is a woman with a problem. She has been doing her darndest to get a "Horizon Club" started in this area and can't find the leaders and experienced workers she needs to get it underway.

Just in case you are as dense as I was, Horizon Clubs are composed of high school aged Campfire Girls. This is a very worthwhile project and one that will benefit the community in many ways.

A meeting will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Waldo Mowen, 306 Chewink Court in Birdneck Point, to organize the club.

Persons who are interested are invited. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Larson at 340-8343.

VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA, THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1962

James Powell Now Vice-president of Sir Walter Hotel

VIRGINIA BEACH — James M. Powell has been appointed vice president and general manager of the Sir Walter Hotel, it was announced this week.

Powell became manager of the Virginia Beach facility a year ago after serving for 10 years as manager of the Jefferson Hotel in Richmond.

Under Powell's direction, the Sir Walter realized about a 40 per cent increase in business last year. When the hotel opens April 14 it will maintain a year round schedule.

During the short time Powell has lived in Virginia Beach, he has become affiliated with many civic organizations. He serves on the board of directors of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Virginia Beach Hotel, Motel, and Cottage Association and the Virginia Beach Rotary Club. He is also on the board of directors of the Virginia Hotel Association and is a past president of that organization.

Largest Hotel
Located on a choice 250-foot oceanfront site, the Sir Walter is Virginia Beach's largest oceanfront hotel facility, offering 110 completely air conditioned rooms.

Having recently undergone extensive remodeling and refurbishing, the hotel now has several suites. These suites were incorporated to accommodate the 36 groups and conventions that are scheduled at the Sir Walter this year.

However, no group meetings

will be scheduled through July and August, Powell said, because these months are reserved for vacationers.

Catering to families, the Sir Walter offers a children's dining room and television room as well as the larger Crystal Dining Room and poolside terrace. The Cape Henry Club is the social center of the hotel. Located on the lower level, it provides late-evening snack facilities and, beginning June 5, live dance music nightly, Tuesday through Saturdays.

Adjoining the Cape Henry Club on the lower level is the new informal Raleigh Tavern where charcoal steaks cooked on an open hearth is the special feature. This room will open June 1.

The hotel is in the process of installing a 9-hole putting green overlooking the ocean.

Cox High Tid-Bits

(For our growing number of teen-age readers, the Virginia Beach Sun-News offers more high school news through the weekly school columns written by the students themselves. Appearing today for the first time is the Frank W. Cox High School column written by Karen Mattox in which she gives a "cock's tour of the new plant.")

By KAREN MATTOX

The large modern brick building with huge red, blue, yellow and white aluminum slabs above the outside windows, is open for a world of excellent education. From the wide cement sidewalk, I noticed the student benches, beautiful shrubbery, and a smooth, soft carpet of green grass. Wondering just what I'll see beyond the blue doors, I hesitate a moment before entering.

The first thing I notice after opening the door is the long hallway directly in front of me. Glancing to my left, I see a spacious office where Mr. Walter Carroll, the principal, and Mr. Joseph Dent, assistant principal, preside. Across from the office is the auditorium, quite tremendous in size. To the right is another long corridor with beige lockers pushed back against its walls, and numerous colorfully designed classrooms.

Walking down the blue brick hallway I pass the cafeteria which serves approximately 1300 students and about 60 faculty members during three lunch periods each day.

Band and choral rooms, girls' gym, another gym where the Falcons Basketball team has shown its excellent skill and sportsmanship this year, the industrial arts shops, eighth- and ninth grade students, a guidance department, and an ever-growing library are all a part of the new Frank W. Cox High School.

Cox High, named after the superintendent of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County Schools, is located on Great Neck Road, London Bridge, Va.

Despite the fact that Cox is a new school, we have organized several extra-curricular activities. For example, "The Coxswain," our newspaper, has been published since November. Also, a Student Cooperation Association was established. The officers were elected by the student body to serve this semester and next year. We have two international clubs: the Key Club and two Tri-Hi-Y's — the Kappa Delta Phi and the Sigma Alpha Beta.

Because of the large number of girls applying for membership in the Y-Teens, a branch of the YWCA, four separate clubs were set up. The purpose of this club is to gain wholesome fun, to build student leadership, and to establish service projects. The Inner Club Council, which is a council built of representatives from all organizations, was established to facilitate better relations among schools and clubs, better balanced extra-curricular activities, and working out disagreements between clubs. Our home economics department is sponsoring a chapter of The Future Homemakers of America.

Henceforth, the body of this column will be dedicated to the students of Frank W. Cox High School, and will inform all of Tidewater of the activities occurring in the coming months.

Kempville

Principal Believes Junior High Age Is Most Difficult

(This is one in a series of articles to appear each week in this paper on the men and women who serve as principals of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County Schools.)

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

KEMPVILLE — I believe our percentage of drop-outs would decrease if we had our junior high students separated from the high school level," Kempville Junior High School Principal N. W. Morris said.

"The junior high age is perhaps one of the most difficult ages children go through. They are between young adulthood and childhood and need a great deal of understanding."

"Teaching this age is difficult. They must not be treated as young children but they are not quite ready for the college-type instruction in high schools. They need a lot of understanding."

Morris has been dealing with young teen-agers for several years, having taken over the principalship of the junior high school in 1959 when it was separated from the high school.

During this time he has learned a great deal about this age and is sympathetic with its problems. The secret in working with the students, he said, is understanding, not only toward the youngsters but also in encouraging the teachers who work closely with them.

"At this age the student does not know what he wants. He is restless. And this naturally causes quite a few discipline problems. He is rebellious because he does not want to be told what to do. But I think this is true of the age we live in, rather than the age of the child."

Don't Demand
"No one wants to be told what to do. This is a Democracy where everyone has an opinion and has the opportunity to voice it. If we are going to instill this belief in our students then we, the principals, parents and teachers, must permit the child to be an individual and speak up."

"When students leave school they will soon forget much of what we have taught them. They will retain the basics, of course, but will forget much of the detail. That's why it is so important to instill this Democratic belief in them so that they will never forget it and will carry it with them all through life."

It is apparent that Morris is devoted to his work and enjoys this particular age level. He has had other principalships offered him but has declined in favor of staying where he is "most needed. He hopes always to stay in the junior high program, he said.

Morris is a person who enjoys people and has a knack of getting along with them. The ability has made his work far more pleasant and enjoyable and has promoted better understanding between him and the student body and their parents.

Living in Acredale in the Kempville community he has helped him to know the parents and students better, Morris said, and he has profited from this when problems arise.

Having lived in this area for nine years, the principal and his wife, Brownie and now their 4-year-old son, Ronnie, have embodied themselves in the community. They are very active in the Kempville Methodist Church and devote much time to church work.

Before moving here Morris lived in Charlottesville, Va., where he graduated from the University of Virginia, received his master's degree and taught school in that area.

Cattle Grower
He still owns a 165-acre farm in the mountains where he raises cattle and, when the time affords it, he and the family drive up for a quiet week-end "away from it all."

An avid sports fan, Morris enjoys participating as well as watching most any type of sport. But his main interest outside of the school is raising cattle.

"Someday I hope to have a big ranch where I can ride a horse through the pastures and watch the cattle grazing on the mountainside. That would really be living!"

Clark-Whitehill Celebrating Firm's Fourth Anniversary

PRINCESS ANNE — Nancy N. Clark, lady builder, is helping celebrate the fourth anniversary of Clark-Whitehill Corporation of which she is an active member. She gives all materials and products that go into their homes the extra special test "The Woman's Eye View."

Nancy could build a house from the ground up, fully understanding construction problems. Her trips to view construction on the job site at Kingswood Common in Princess Anne Plaza to check all details proves very beneficial. She gives extra special care to all products, and material that are used, but her extra interest is in the kitchen and bathroom area.

Estimating costs and materials are closely checked by Nancy, everything gets her "Woman's Eye View." She sits in on all discussions with the architect in planning new models four of which she will open in the Colony collection to celebrate the fourth anniversary.

Foyers, separate dining rooms, kitchens you can eat in and the attractive exterior designs are some of the must in a Clark-Whitehill home.

Nancy's husband, Barry D. Clark and Howard M. Weisberg complete the principals in this firm.

Nancy's interest extend into the advertising field as well, she writes the copy for newspaper advertising and also plans brochures for the model homes.

Her special delight is thinking up names for the new model homes. In this new Colony collection she has the ABC—Anderson House, Bedford House, Charleston House and the 4th Plymouth House. Clark-Whitehill builds homes in the price range of $14,000 to $17,000.

The Clark's have a lovely 20-months-old daughter. They enjoy boating and gardening but find little time for these hobbies.

Sandpiper producers, Angie Alexander, Wade Williams, Lee Lively, Maynard Allen and Joe Freiden have planned a well-rounded season which should appeal to tourist and residents alike. The blue and gold tent is scheduled to be raised on June 1 with the first performance scheduled for June 29, and playing continuously through Labor Day.

Anyone interested in participating in any capacity this season is invited to attend the company call April 5. Tickets for the 11-week season will go on sale May 1.

100-voice Chorus Being Presented in Civic Concert

NORFOLK — "Melodic, beautiful, and unique," is the way Conductor Edgar Schenkman describes the Oratorio which the Norfolk Civic Chorus and Symphony Orchestra will present Monday, at 8:30 P.M. in the Center Theater.

Tickets will be on sale on the day of the concert at the Civic Auditorium's Arena Box Office. From 7:30 until concert time, tickets will be sold at the Auditorium's Center Theater Box Office. For reservation, call Mrs. Pierre Schmitz, MA 2-2231.

The 100-voice Chorus, made up of Tidewater citizens who enjoy singing, has been rehearsing the descriptive and imaginative pastoral music of Haydn's "The Seasons" all year with Conductor Schenkman.

Three soloists will appear with the Chorus. Joseph Soper, young lyric tenor from Baltimore and New York who has won critical acclaim for his leading operatic roles, will sing the part of Lucas. He has appeared as soloist with many Symphony orchestras and is winner of the Enrico Caruso Award of the National Federation of Music Clubs for 1960. He is known to millions via the "Voice of Firestone," and other radio and TV programs. The other two soloists are leading Tidewater musicians. Jane Paxhia, lovely local soprano who has starred in the "Barber of Seville" and other Opera Workshop productions, will sing the role of Jane. Robert Young, Associate Professor of Music at the Norfolk College of William and Mary, will sing the recent Opera Workshop production, and in the baritone soloist for the annual recent Opera Workshop production, & is the baritone and soloist for the Epworth production of the "Crucifixion." Mr. Young and Mrs. Paxhia both sang with distinction in the Christmas production of the "Messiah" by the Civic Chorus and Orchestra.

Opportunities to hear productions of this last great composition of Franz Joseph Haydn's are rare, but always audiences respond with delight and enthusiasm to this moving pastoral composition which was the forerunner of Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony. The music sweeps melodically from springtime gaiety and songs of praise to the hunting and drinking songs of autumn and the peasant dances and winter snows which round out the seasons. The orchestra supplies realistic sounds of frogs and crickets, quail and rooster. Dramatic highlight is the fishing summer storm when all the fierce destructive power of nature rings out from 150 voices and instruments.

This last concert of the Symphony Season offers Tidewater audiences a wonderful opportunity to delight in the power and beauty of great music. Tickets for service personnel and students are specially priced at one dollar, and good seats are available for the concert.

Space Capsule Will Tour For Bond Campaign

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Three Project Mercury manned spacecraft — replicas of the famous "Freedom 7," "Liberty Bell 7," and "Friendship 7" which carried America's first astronauts into space — will tour the country for U. S. Savings Bonds during the Treasury's Freedom Bond Drive in May and June. The public will be invited to examine at close range the entire spacecraft, including the interior of the capsule.

The tour, which is made possible by the cooperation of McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis and the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors Corp. of Detroit — two of the nation's best promoters of the Treasury's Payroll Savings Plan — was announced by William H. Neal, national director, U. S. Savings Bonds Division.

The McDonnell Corp., which designed and built the Mercury capsules for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, is now making the three full-size replicas for the Freedom Bond Drive. The spacecraft will be lent to the Treasury Department for the bond drive period, and returned to the company after touring the nation.

Chevrolet will provide as a public service three trucks and trailers on which the spacecraft will be mounted, as well as drivers, display signs and public address systems.

The mounted space capsules will tour 150 major cities during the drive and serve as a nucleus around which community Freedom Bond promotions will take place. In addition to these cities where the capsules will have formal showings they will pass through hundreds of other cities and towns enroute — so that millions of citizens will be enabled to see them.

"It is appropriate that these spacecraft be exhibited in connection with the Freedom Savings Bonds Drive," Mr. Neal stated. "Our explorations in space over the years will require substantial sums of money. The extent and success of this program ultimately rests upon a strong and growing economy. The continued sale of Savings Bonds — and extra sales during this Drive — is an essential ingredient of a healthy economy."

"Millions of Americans will be able to see and examine spacecraft similar to the ones that were manned by Alan Shepard, Gus Grissom and John Glenn in their pioneer flights — and which will be used by the other astronauts in future trials. At the same time, they will be receiving a timely reminder that, as our Drive slogan puts it, they can help keep freedom in their future through the regular purchase of Savings Bonds."

Include Tea In Family Supper Menu

Supper's on the table — a country-style omelet, asparagus spears and a pot of hot, refreshing tea.

On nights when you've had a big meal midday, remember the merits of an omelet for supper. It's light and nourishing, is simple to prepare and can be varied endlessly to suit your family's taste. Serve it with a Spanish sauce if they like spicy things, spread with jelly if they have sweet tastes, or country-style, with diced potatoes folded inside, for heartier fare.

Remember, too, the merits of hot tea as the mealtime beverage. Tea is light and refreshing is an aid to digestion and has the happy faculty of leaving you relaxed — and at ease. Because of all this, coaches and trainers have long included tea in the menus served to athletes... a tip that family meal planners should remember. Experts insist though that tea must be properly brewed to extract its beneficial qualities and fine flavor. They recommend that you always use a teapot, whether you're making the tea with teabags or loose tea; that the water be freshly drawn and brought to a full, rolling boil; that you use one teaspoonful of tea or one teabag for each cup being made and, last but not least, that you brew the tea for three to five minutes to let the leaves unfold and release their flavor and pick-up qualities. Made this way, tea may well gain a permanent place on the family supper table.

Going back to the subject of omelets, here's a recipe for the hearty country-style omelet made with diced potatoes. Serve it with asparagus spears and the meal's complete.

Country-Style Omelet (3 servings)
1 cup diced cooked potatoes
1/4 cup melted butter
6 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt

1/4 cup milk
2 tablespoons chopped chives
2 tablespoons butter
Brown potatoes in melted butter. Beat eggs until light and fluffy. Stir in salt and milk. Fold in browned potatoes and chives. Heat 2 tablespoons butter in a large skillet until moderately hot. Pour in egg mixture. Cook over low heat, lifting the omelet very gently with a spatula as it cooks on the bottom, and tip the skillet so that the uncooked mixture runs under. When bottom is browned and omelet is firm throughout, fold in half.

TEA VARIATIONS
Hot Cinnamon Tea
6-8 cups
4 cups boiling water
8 teaspoons tea
1/2 cup sugar
2 lemons
2 oranges
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
4 whole cloves
Make tea by pouring 4 cups boiling freshly boiling water over tea. Dissolve sugar in a little water. Add the juice of lemons and oranges, a few shreds of peel, cinnamon and whole cloves. Pour tea over other ingredients. Serve hot. Garnish with a slice of lemon speared with a clove, if desired.

HOT TEA PUNCH
4 cups boiling water
4 tablespoons tea leaves
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup water
1 two-inch stick of cinnamon
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 1/2 teaspoons, grated oranges rind
1/4 cup fresh or frozen orange juice

Princess Anne Happenings

March went out like a lamb and left to the students of Princess Anne High behind acute cases of spring fever!

If you are looking for some good entertainment this week end, come see the faculty of Princess Anne present the award winning play, "You Can't Take It With You." It promises to be sensational!

This past weekend, P.A. students had the opportunity to see "She Stoops To Conquer" presented by the Norfolk Little Theater. All who saw this mid-Victorian, epic thoroughly enjoyed it!

College Bound
Congratulations are in order for Mitchell Brody! Mitchell, an outstanding Princess Anne senior, was accepted to Massachusetts' Institute of Technology (MIT).

A firm pat on the back for Tim Barrow! Tim was awarded a DuPont scholarship to the University of Virginia. Good luck, next year!

As springtime comes each year, so must new spring fashions. The Coronet Tri-Hi-Y is presenting their fashion show April 18 in Princess Anne's auditorium at 8:00 p.m. The fashions which will be from Rose Hall and Terry's Men Wear will be modeled by Vernell Heusel, Elaine Thornton, Johanne Burroughs, Ruth Bryns, Carolyn Danner, Sandra Hammerick, Bonnie Payne, Betty Martin, Patsey Fox and Betty Santil.

Bid on "Slaves"
PA Girls, have you had any odd jobs that you haven't had time to do? Well, if you missed Semper Paratus Hi-Y's slave auction last week, you passed up an ideal opportunity to get those jobs done. Yes, the Hi-Y boys were auctioned off to the highest bidder, for three hours to do whatever their "owner bids." The most slave was Jim Miller, PA senior, who went to Miss Roxanne Dark, senior English teacher, for $4.50.

The juniors of Princess Anne are planning a field day on May 16. As the prom this year is exclusively for seniors and their guests, the juniors decided on a field day which will be held at the Jewish Community Center. Any junior class member may attend but as the junior class is so large, only juniors may attend.

Congratulations to Carol Eason who was awarded an annual for three poems she submitted to the literary magazine, Cavalier Folio.

Claudia Frias and Beverly Andrews have been elected to represent Trinity Tri-Hi-Y at the YMCA retreat which is going to be held in May. The girls are in for a week-end of fun.

The first week of the magazine campaign of Princess Anne has ended with the total sales at $1,760.63. The sophomores are leading the classes with their total at $1,021.00. The juniors follow with $550.00 and the seniors are trailing with $179.00. The quota has been set for the school for at least $9,000. Come on Cavaliers, let's make up for the lost time and go up and over the quota.

The SCA is presenting their annual Bunny Hop April 18 at 8 P.M. in the Princess Anne gym. The dress is to be casual.

It's "tennis time" again. Here is the Cavalier schedule: April 6; Norview, April 10; Wilson, April 13; Suffolk, April 24; Churchland, April 27; Great Bridge, May 4; Ferguson, May 8; Eastern District, May 11-12.

The style show for the Sewing Contest was held following the morning business session & Mrs. Michael Henry, member of Ocean Park Woman's Club and also District Sewing Contest Chairman, gave the commentary. The three winners in the general sewing contest were awarded ribbons following the show.

This year, due to the postponement of the District Meeting which was originally scheduled for March 7 and which was flooded-out, did not have the usual turnout. It could be because the arts and craft exhibit was not repeated. The arts and crafts were judged prior to the March 7 scheduled meeting and the winners have already been announced.

Victim of War

Our generation is fortunate to have an accurate rendering of the interior of the five centuries-old church of Saint Laurence in Rotterdam, for the original structure was completely demolished during World War II. A 17th century Dutch artist, Anthonie de Loe, executed this painting with such accuracy that the effect is almost photographic. Purchased with income from the Adolph D. and Wilkins C. Williams fund, it is seen today in the Dutch Gallery of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in Richmond.

FOOD FOR YOUR FAMILY

Since your family is unique, made up of unique individuals, your food plan must be suited to your family. Each member has different nutritional needs and different likes and dislikes for food, even appetites are dissimilar. As you grow older your food requirements change as do your husband's and adjustments should be made especially in the quantity consumed. Children follow individual patterns of growth, some are fairly steady growers, others grow by spurts, allowance must be made for their changing needs and appetite demands.

As the wife and mother in the family your decisions about food buying, storage, preparation, service—are the important ones. Of nearly equal importance is the meal time atmosphere you create which shapes attitudes towards food, its acceptance or rejection.

You are the target of most information about food and consequently are bombarded with recipes, nutrition claims, time-saving hints, money-saving offers. Selecting ideas which will help you in feeding your family better as well as more economically is frequently confusing.

Today's convenience foods make coping with irregular meal hours, special diets, packed lunches and other problems much less time-consuming. They demand, however, that you familiarize yourself with dozens of new items — how to store them, how to serve them, what nutrients they contribute and in what amounts.

The best advice to those who want to be well-fed is first to select a varied diet, including the nutritionally valuable fruits and vegetables, the whole grain and enriched cereal products, the lean portions of meat, and enough milk, and then to follow the keyword, "moderation" in the use of sugars, fats, and un-enriched grains.

Include four or more servings for each family member in each day's meals of fruits and vegetables. Size of portions will vary, small servings for the youngest members, larger servings for teenagers and adults. Fruits and vegetables are a very good source of Vitamin C, and this vitamin is needed every day for healthy gums and body tissues. A few fruits and vegetables which are good sources of Vitamin C are: grapefruit, oranges, Cantaloupe, Guava, strawberries, (raw), Broccoli, Green pepper, and sweet red pepper.

Vitamin A is needed for growth, normal vision, and healthy condition of skin and other body surfaces. Dark-green and deep-yellow vegetables are good sources of Vitamin A. Also: Apricots, carrots, collards, Kale, spinach, sweet potatoes, Mango, winter squash and Persimmon.

You will wish to consider the foods which are customarily referred to as "the whole grain and enriched cereal products". Include four or more servings for each family member in each day's meals for worthwhile amounts of protein, iron, several of the B-vitamins, and food energy. Count as one serving for teenagers and adults: 1 slice bread, whole grain or enriched; 1 ounce ready-to-eat cereal, whole grain, restored or fortified; 1/2 to 3/4 cup cooked cereal, cornmeal, grits, macaroni, noodles, rice or spaghetti, (check labels to be sure these products are whole grain, enriched, or restored). Allow smaller servings for little children. There are many ready-to-eat cereals on the market today which are good sources of these vitamins.

Milk is our leading source of calcium, which is needed for bones and teeth. It also provides high-quality protein, riboflavin, and other nutrients. For each family member 2 to 3 cups of fluid milk daily may be an adequate allowance, depending on age and activity.

If you wish to know more about the food you should serve your family, write or call the Extension Service Office, at Princess Anne, Virginia, and request the bulletin, "Food For Your Family," and we will be happy to send you your free copy of this bulletin.

SHOOT FOR COLLEGE

Whatever your plans are in life, shoot for a college education. "The average income for a high school graduate during a working life of 40 years is $165,000," says George W. Fischer, acting dean of Washington State U. "Income of college graduates for that same period is $268,000." That's over $100,000 more. Put another way, more than $200 is tacked onto every monthly pay check you'll get for the rest of your life.

Still another way of determining how much college is worth to you is to put it in terms of the time and effort it takes to get a degree. During 4 years of college, a student spends 720 days in classroom activities and studying. This divided into the $100,000 advantage shows that for every day you spend earning a degree, you add $140 to your lifetime income. And, $140 a day is pretty good wages for going to school!

An Idea of College Costs

A study was made last year of how freshman students spent their money. Some got by with less. A few spent more. But here's the breakdown on the average costs:

Room—$340
Meals—$560
Fees—$230
Books—$92
Personal—$181
Travel—$59
Other—$18
Total—$1,480

The amount of financial help students got from home depended on their parents' income. Parents with incomes below $5,000 contributed an average of 30% of the total. Parents with over $10,000 paid over 80% of the total. But the point to remember is this: More than one-third of the freshman students whose parents had less than $5,000 income received no financial help from home.

You'll spend $6,000 for 4 years of college, more or less. That sounds like a lot of money. And, of course, it is. But almost anyone can get a college education, if he wants it badly enough.

There are summer jobs, part-time work while you're in school, and hundreds of scholarships and loans to help you get a college education. It may take some figuring, and extra effort—but anyone can go to college.

A Part-Time Job

Many college students work part-time in college to earn extra money. Generally, it's better not to do much outside work the first semester you're in college.

The usual rate for student work is about $1 an hour. For about 10 hours work a week (which is all most students should carry with a normal study load), you can earn $300 or so a year. Many earn more by working extra on weekends. Students who shoulder all their expenses schedule lighter loads of classwork, and plan on an extra semester to graduate.

Build Up A

Summer Cash Reserve

You'll have 3 summer months to build a cash reserve of several hundred dollars before the start of each school year.

Take Advantage of Scholarships & Loans

Colleges and universities offer 2 types of direct financial help:

1. Scholarships. Some scholarships are awarded on the basis of high academic achievement alone, but in most consideration is given to character and financial need as well. Make application for scholarships early in your senior year. Your high school principal will have application blanks. Write to the college you're interested in and ask what scholarships are available.

2. Loans. Colleges also offer student aid funds and loans. A few loans are available, interest free. Interest rates on others are very low. Short-term loans to meet financial emergencies that arise during the school term are usually repaid by the end of the term. Longer term loans, up to several hundred dollars, are paid back in reasonable payments after graduation.

Virginia has some of the oldest and finest colleges and universities in the entire country. If you want more schooling after high school, you can choose from the best right here within your own home state.

One of the most important steps towards college is in selecting the right college or university to attend. "Which College For Me", a circular from VPI, was assembled specifically to help you make the right selection. If you would like a free copy of this circular, write or call the Extension Office at Princess Anne, Virginia, and we will be happy to send you this circular.

NOW! NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE PAYS 3% "PLUS" DAILY INTEREST ON SAVINGS ACCOUNTS!!!

A new day for Tidewater savers is here! Now National Bank of Commerce pays 3% interest compounded semi-annually payable each and every day to savings account customers.

YOU GET "FULL" INTEREST

No more "interest periods!" Every day is sure as the sun rises, you receive interest on the daily balance of your savings account. You receive interest on every dollar you deposit even if it remains in your savings account for only one day.

WHAT THIS MEANS TO YOU

National Bank of Commerce realizes that savings accounts are "reserve funds" to be used when needed. By paying interest every day, you are not penalized when you make a withdrawal and lower your savings account balance during an interest period. Instead, your savings account balance continues to earn interest each day at the same rate.

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE

Suppose you are a regular saver depositing $25.00 a week. National Bank of Commerce pays you interest on that $25.00 the first day it is deposited, and on every day thereafter until you draw it out. In addition, your 3% interest is compounded semi-annually.

IMMEDIATELY AVAILABLE

Your savings account funds are immediately available upon presentation of your passbook at any of the 17 convenient National Bank of Commerce offices.

Open a savings account today at your nearest Bank of Commerce office and start earning interest daily!

THE CORNATION OF SUFFERING
By GENE HARTSELL, Minister
Kala Church of Christ
Matthew 27: 29-50

I. SEE WHAT SIN DESERVES

The Master has nothing but ridicule for its folly because sin is only temptation, you may or may not invite it to stay. After all, God always provides a way out. He has only scorn for its pretensions, even if we claim it to be alright to continue in such. Sin deserves shame for its audacity. Christ has no pleasure in one who continues so bold in sinful acts. Paul tells us in Romans 6:23a that: "The wages of sin is death." Judgement is retained until after death, then we are held accountable.

II. SEE HOW LOW YOUR SAVIOUR STOOPED FOR YOU.

God in His Divine wisdom before the foundations of the world planned that Christ, His Son, would be made the substitute for the foolish, sinful man and be treated as such. Looking back over the record of His suffering, the question comes to mind, could I take the Master's place in suffering for sinful man? I dare say that none could nor would, but Jesus loved us so much that He stooped that low for the foolish and sinful man.

Becoming our substitute, He was scoffed at by the soldiers of the meanest grade. The Roman soldiers were known for their inhuman brutality. God's chosen people gave the Son of God into their hands. There He was, the Son of God wearing the crown of thorns with dignity, but in the human form, was suffering the pain of embedded thorns in His tender flesh. Not only that, but the brutality of the soldiers striking Christ on the head. Each time they drove the thorns deeper and thereby aggravating the sore wounds! Tenderness was forgotten on the King of Kings.

This wasn't the end, the Saviour was made a puppet for men to play the fool. They put on Him a scarlet robe and a reed in His hand for His scepter and then mocked the Son of the most High God.

III. SEE HOW YOUR SAVIOUR LOVED YOU.

In this pain He bore the immeasurable contempt in silence to the bitter end. Not once did He cry out against His tormentors, instead, for man He remained meek and gentle. No greater love can be found. Love that goes even unto those whom despitely treated the Saviour of the world. Our minds goes back to the night before, being in agony in the Garden. He prays for strength. He also prayed if possible there might be some other way to accomplish His mission. So hard did He pray that the sweat was as great drops of blood. Love so great that He was willing to suffer that and I may be free men from sin and live with Him in that Holy City.

Look at the scourging—Ederheim states, "The scourge of leather thongs was loaded with lead, or armed with spikes and bones, which lacerated back, chest, and face, till the victim sometimes fell down before the judge a bleeding mass of torn flesh." Stripped of his clothes, his hands tied and back bent, the victim would be bound to a column or stake in front of the Praetorium. Then the cruel beating took place on the

IV. SEE THAT YOU LOVE CHRIST IN PROPORTION TO THIS SHAME AND MOCKERY

Let it not be a short season that you think of His suffering, but let it be every day that He grants us this life. Let us truly become His servants and live the life He has commanded us to live.

WILL JESUS ACTUALLY RETURN TO THE EARTH?

Saviour. Could we love our enemies enough that we would allow one of our children to be treated as such? God loved us that much. What unsurpassable love.

See the love expressed on the cross. When the soldiers had finished their fun, they went to crucify Jesus. He was forced to carry His cross with no regards whatsoever of the torn, wounded body, and the bloody crown of thorns. Weak and exhausted, He fell under the weight of the cross. On Golgotha the nails tore the flesh of the Saviour as they fastened Him to the cross and left to die. No words can truly express the love of God for us.

IV. SEE THAT YOU LOVE CHRIST IN PROPORTION TO THIS SHAME AND MOCKERY

Countdown time . . . 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, ZERO. America's heart skipped a beat. We held our breath through hours of suspense. And finally, the rescue. Mission accomplished.

Immediate reaction: "Thank God!" This was the cry of America, the mighty prayer which rose from its heart in a spontaneous flash of gratitude. THANK GOD.

It was pride we felt, pride in our skill and our scientific knowledge. But there was something more. There was FAITH. When man travels into the unknown, he needs the hand of God.

A new age has begun for mankind. Many more great days of exploration are ahead. Man will need the best products of mind and hand to conquer space.

But through every accomplishment, he will continue to need faith. Always from his heart will rise a fervent prayer, knowing that Divine help must be with him.

Notes from Your COUNTY AGENT

NO TROUBLE

In a gay mood, a man telephoned a friend at two o'clock in the morning. "I do hope I haven't disturbed you," he said cheerily. "Oh no," the friend replied. "I had to get up to answer the telephone anyway."

MINIMUM CORN TILLAGE HOT SUBJECT

Corn producers are showing remarkable interest in a new way of producing corn. The new way is called Minimum Corn Tillage, or Wheel-Track Planting. Last week two meetings were held at Princess Anne for our county producers, and sixty of our leading corn men were present to find out it could be done.

Reduction in Cost
Minimum Corn Tillage means exactly what it says. In this method we eliminate as many different practices as possible and yet maintain equal yields with those we have obtained by producing corn in the conventional manner. From $5 to $15 can be saved per acre by this method.

Under Minimum Corn Tillage, the first thing that is done is to broadcast all of the fertilizer. If you wanted one recommendation to cover a lot of situations, I would say about 1000 pounds of 3-9-18, broadcast prior to plowing would be about as ideal as you could get. The second operation is plowing. The third is planting. The fourth is spraying for weed control; fifth, sidedressing with nitrogen; sixth, harvesting.

Plowing
Since the corn is going to be planted on the plowed ground without any further disking or preparation of the soil, it is therefore extremely necessary that a good job of plowing be done. This means that all dead plant material or green cover crop be turned under completely. This can be done by putting small, inexpensive attachments on your plows. In addition, a better job of plowing can be had if you plow deeper.

Planting
Planting is where we really begin to talk crazy, and maybe it even looks more so when we actually get out and start to plant corn on land which has been plowed and not prepared. However, we are going to prepare the land where the corn is to be planted simply by running the tractor wheels over it. Here is the way it looks:

We separate the tractor wheels to 72 or 80 inches, depending upon whether you want 36 or 40 inch corn rows. We also separate the planter wheels and runners to run directly behind the tractor wheels. Therefore, we get the name of Wheel Track Planting, because we actually plant the corn in the compacted area where the wheel has packed the soil. By alternating the planting or straddling one of the planted rows, it is possible to plant on 36 or 40 inch rows. It is essential that the planting operation follow as closely behind, even within hours, the plow as possible. We need to plant before the soil moisture has escaped. This will allow for a softened area between the rows which retards weed growth and also allows for a better water intake when we have a heavy rainfall.

Chemical Weed Control
The next operation and as close behind the planting as possible is Weed Control. When we talk about Minimum Corn Tillage, this more, precisely means no cultivation; and to grow a crop of corn without even once cultivation, means what we have to apply our weed control just as soon as possible, and we also must use a good material. Now, the best material which we can recommend this year is 2 lbs. of Atrazine in 20 gallons of water per acre. This is a wettable powder, and therefore we must use more water than we used to use with 2-4-D. Atrazine will give a thorough and dependable job of weed control. It will control practically all grasses and broad leaf weed, including crab grass and morning glories. It also does a very effective job from planting time through harvest. Therefore, it is not necessary to cultivate.

Sidedressing
We must apply from 80 to 100 lbs. and maybe even more in some few incidents of nitrogen per acre, and this should be done in the regular manner, whether it be a dry material, a 30% liquid, or a 27% liquid, regardless whether you hire it done, or do it yourself. Even after applying the nitrogen, it is not necessary to cultivate, or to hill out the corn as some of us refer to it.

Harvesting
Harvesting takes place in the usual manner. By the time harvesting comes around, the rough areas in-between the rows has been leveled by the many rainfalls of the season, and the land is in rather smooth condition for harvesting, and it shouldn't be difficult to stay on top of the bouncing combine. The result is about the same yield or even a little bit more so.

Results
What we have actually done is to produce the same amount of corn that we normally do. We will probably sell it at the same price we usually do, but we have made from 5, 10, 12 or 15 dollars more net profit per acre, because we have not put as much work into it as we usually do. Even with this much savings, there are still other advantages, because when we are not working on our corn, it allows us free time to be engaged in some other operation. This, in itself, is a major advantage.

The Future
I believe that this method is going to take over in coming years. I think that this year many farmers should try it out to see how it will work. I might repeat a statement which I have made before: I think that progressive farmers should try to figure out with their own ingenuity how it will work, how it can be made to work on their own farm, rather than figuring out how it will not work. The important thing is to try it out.

FRANK W. TARRALL, JR.

VIRGINIA BEACH — Councilman Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., announced today that he would not seek re-election to the Virginia Beach City Council, subject to the June election.

Tarrall's announcement came at the same time as a trio of candidates announced for the three seats. Two of these are incumbent Councilmen Edward T. Caton III and W. Hugh Kitchin. The third is businessman L. Stanley Hodges. The trio has formed an Organization-backed ticket.

The announcement and decision by Tarrall not to run again for council came as a surprise to many observers. He had been a stalwart member of council and has served on that body since 1954. His fellow councilmen noted in their announcement of candidacy that Tarrall had rendered valuable service to the community and that they had enjoyed the association with him.

The complete text of Tarrall's announcement follows: "I have decided that I cannot be a candidate for re-election to the office of City Council in the election to be held in June of this year.

I have had the privilege of serving on the City Council for eight years. I have seen our City continue to grow, have had a part in bringing about its merger with Princess Anne County, and on January 1 we will be

P.A. Resident Dies in Fire

PRINCESS ANNE—Raymond Smith, 40, died early Tuesday in a trailer fire on old Kellam Rd. near Kempsville Golf Course. He was alone at the time of the blaze.

Patrolman C. D. Hathaway Jr., who investigated, received the call shortly before 4 a.m. The blaze, which destroyed half the trailer, was put out by the Kempsville Volunteer Fire Department. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Junius Bell Funeral Home, Seatack, is making funeral arrangements.

County Turning To State for Drainage Aid

PRINCESS ANNE — The Board of Supervisors decided this week to seek help from the State Highway Commission in solving the serious drainage problem at North Virginia Beach.

They voted Monday to ask Richard S. Holland, recently appointed highway commissioner for the Suffolk District and a resident of North Va. Beach, to help them get action on the matter. The Suffolk District includes Virginia Beach, and Princess Anne County.

County Planning Director Mason Gamage made a study of the drainage problem last month and turned it over to the State Highway Department engineers. The study was made at the Department's request.

"No Funds Available"

Early this month D. B. Fugate, assistant chief engineer for the Department, wrote Gamage that he knew of "no funds that could be made available for a more adequate drainage system."

Although the county maintains pumps and drains to keep the highway clear of water during heavy rains, the Highway Department has not contributed to solving the flooding problem.

In the county's study they offered highway officials two solutions: one was for drainage lines along Atlantic Avenue; the other for a concrete ditch along the parkway west of the highway.

The party will leave the Air Station by helicopter about 20 minutes after arrival for Atlantic Fleet headquarters in Norfolk. They will then form a motorcade along Hampton Blvd. to the Norfolk Naval Station, a distance of about 1 1/2 miles.

Boarding the command ship Northampton, the President and other officials will proceed up the North Carolina coast where they will watch a Navy-Marine beach-assault demonstration Saturday.

Oceana Air Station will be open to the general public from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday. Instructions on the viewing area and parking facilities will be provided at the gate.

Several secret service personnel have been at the base this week making arrangements for the President's visit. A dress rehearsal for the entire proceedings was held Tuesday.

McCHESNEY ELECTED

VIRGINIA BEACH — R. R. "Buddy" McChesney has been elected president of the Shadow Lawn Civic group, according to an announcement made today. He was elected at a meeting of the group held Monday night.

Other officers include: Mrs. Norma Orr, vice-president; Mrs. Alfred Gregg, secretary; and John Knowles, treasurer.

The petition requests that Virginia Beach be included in the sanitation district's boundaries. The County has made a similar request.

PAVAB First

Beach, County Scout District Rated Tops Throughout America

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Princess Anne-Virginia Beach District of Boy Scouts of America was recently named the top district in America, according to Scout Executive Winifred M. (Bill) King.

PAVAB showed a gain of 13 units and 918 boys during 1961, the largest increase in the nation.

In January the district placed first for achievements in Region Three, which consists of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, parts of West Virginia and North Carolina and Washington, D.C. In six months time they jumped from 52nd place to sixth place and by the end of the year were first in Region.

Following a "Can Do" theme, the 1961 movement was spearheaded by District Chairman Fred Isaacs and District Commissioner Don Hunt. The theme was named after a World War II Navy program in which an aircraft carrier and five destroyers sank a great number of German U-boats.

Isaacs, Hunt and King were presented plaques at the Council Executive Board meeting in recognition of their leadership in putting the PAVAB District in top place. The presentation was made by Olaf Slostad, Deputy Regional Executive, on behalf of Chief Scout Executive Joseph A. Brunton, Jr.

The PAVAB District is one of 2,800 districts throughout America and its 50 units are among 130,000 units chartered and operated through church or syna-

Material and Equipment Begin Boardwalk Work

VIRGINIA BEACH — Bulk head material arrived here Monday and heavy equipment is expected daily to start repairing the storm-damaged boardwalk.

A contract to commence the first part of the emergency protection project was awarded last week to Lockwood and Sons of Hampton in the amount of $500,359.

This contract is for the construction of about 5,200 feet of timber and sheet piling bulkheading in front of the boardwalk from 20th to 29th Streets, from 33rd to 35th Streets and for several locations from 35th to 46th Streets.

According to the contract, work is to begin immediately and is to be finished within 45 days. The work will be performed simultaneously on five sections of the boardwalk and damaged wooden seawall.

Separate contracts will be awarded for the replacement of concrete sections where the bulkhead is to be built.

Sand From Park

The State Board of Conservation and Economic Development in Richmond Monday authorized the dredging of sand from Seashore State Park to replace beach sand washed away by the storm. The work will be done by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Virginia Beach will be permitted to dredge the sand from not more than 10 acres of the park. It is expected that between 250,000 and 500,000 cubic yards of sand will be removed through a pipe about a mile long.

It is estimated that the work will take about two months. When it is completed the deep hold left by the excavation will be floated from a nearby lagoon.

Surf Queen Crowned Amid 'Enchanted Forest' Theme

VIRGINIA BEACH — An enthusiastic group of teen-agers entered an "Enchanted Forest" Friday to watch the crowning of the 1962 Surf Queen at Virginia Beach High School.

When the magic hour of 10 p.m. arrived the gymnasium became charged with excitement as the court assembled before a backdrop of green foliage and a garden scene depicting the "Enchanted Forest" theme.

Principal James M. Helmer was handed the envelope bearing the name of the girl who had been chosen by the entire student body to wear the crown of 1962 Surf Queen.

Impatiently awaiting the final word were the three senior contestants, Debbie Chappell, Becky Parnell and Louise Rainey.

Hodges Joins Caton, Kitchin In Council Race

Tarrall Will Not Seek Re-election In June; Three Offices Up for Vote

VIRGINIA BEACH — Two incumbent councilmen and a newcomer to local politics have joined together to form an Organization-backed city council ticket for the June election here. The trio issued a joint statement of candidacy here today.

The three men making up the council ticket are Edward T. Caton III, W. Hugh Kitchin and L. Stanley Hodges. Caton and Kitchin are seeking re-election while Hodges is entering the political arena for the first time.

At the same time City Councilman Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., who would be eligible to seek re-election, announced that he would not be a candidate for the office he has held since 1964.

In addition to the council election a trio of constitutional officers are to be voted on, but merely as a formality since these positions will cease to exist on January 1, 1963 when the present City of Virginia Beach and the County of Princess Anne officially merge into a single City of Virginia Beach.

However, the present constitutional officers of the City of Virginia Beach announced that they would offer for re-election in June. These include City Treasurer Lewis E. Smith, City Commissioner of the Revenue William H. Phillips and City Sergeant R. R. "Buddy" McChesney.

Five Year Terms

Ordinarily the term of a city councilman would be four years, but this year's election to council would mean a term of slightly more than five years according to the new charter of the City of Virginia Beach. The three councilmen elected in June would take office on the present city council next Sept. 1, and then on January 1, 1963 the terms of the three councilmen elected in June, 1962, would continue until September 1, 1967.

All of the announced candidates noted in their statements the fact that retiring Councilman Frank Tarrall would be missed and expressed their gratitude to him for the great service he had rendered the city and its people during the years he served as a member of the city council.

Caton will be seeking his second term on city council. He was first elected in 1968. Caton is a Virginia Beach attorney and resides with his wife and family at 418 22nd Street.

Kitchin was appointed to city council in October, 1959, to fill the unexpired term of John Fitzgerald, who resigned because of ill health. Kitchin is a restaurateur and co-owner of the Beach Umbrella Service here. He resides with his wife and family on Cavalier Drive.

Newcomer Hodges is a businessman with varied interests. He is president of Allied Petroleum Company, a gasoline and oil distributing firm; president of Jackson Transfer and Storage Company, and a partner in Rowe Distributing Company.

The 64-year-old Hodges is vice-chairman of the Budget and Finance Committee, a member of the Masonic Lodge, Cavalier Club and Cavalier Beach Club. He is a member of Galilee Episcopal Church here. He resides with his wife at 4001 Holly Rd.

The following are the statements of the candidates: "We wish to be elected to the city council to represent the people of Virginia Beach and to work for the betterment of our city."

SPORTS

Plans For Six and Eight Man Football Move Ahead

By FLETCHER BRYANT

The proposed 6 and 8 man football league is well on its way to becoming a reality. It is estimated that it will cost approximately $25 per uniform and we are figuring on approximately 112 uniforms. The uniforms will not be assigned to any particular boy instead the uniforms will be issued prior to each game and collected following the ball game. It is felt that by this system we will be able to keep a closer check on the equipment and in addition more boys will be given an opportunity to play. The Sports Club will furnish helmets, shoulder pads, pants, and jerseys.

Last Thursday the finance committee met and laid out definite plan whereby the money could be raised to run the league for two years. If we are successful in our fund raising campaign we are in hopes of purchasing 112 uniforms—the cost of which will be $2800. The officials and other incidentals will run in the neighborhood of $700. The finance committee has set its goal at $5,000 and by next week we will be able to give our readers an indication as to the progress of the committee. To date we have received from 3 sources donations amounting to $1500. The donations that we are seeking will come from individuals, firms, and civic clubs that see the need for such a program. The persons that make contributions will receive no advertising whatsoever on the uniforms. It is our belief that if we get into uniform advertising we will be defeating the purpose of the league, however as teams are formed the subscribers to the league may adopt a team and help them in whatever way they see fit.

The equipment that is purchased this year will be retained each year and as a result our initial cost will far exceed subsequent years since once the original equipment is purchased any repairs will have to be made and add pieces of equipment purchased.

Interest in the program is beginning to grow and I hope that it will continue. We need this program badly and the sooner it is initiated the better off we will all be.

I have been approached by various groups with regard to information on this subject and if there is any way I could help others—I would be more than happy to furnish you with what ever information is desired.

During 1961 Bell System Companies increased their telephone nearly 2,450,000 for a total of 63,178,000 phones.

THUNDERBIRD BOWL

Thunderbird Major League

With but four weeks remaining in the league the contenders become fewer. Sealy Posturepedic continues to lead the pack with Virginia Beach Transfer making a strong move. Team No. 3 and Chix are mathematical possibilities.

In a make up match prior to regular league, the Va. Beach Transfer boys took 3 pts. from Chix Restaurant. New addition Bob Stumpf continued his torrid bowling by racking up a 642 series. He received plenty of help from Phil Hendy with 592 and Jim Wolcott with a 550.

In regular league play the Trunkers continued their winning streak by again taking 3 points. This time from Kelly Supply. Bob Stumpf was again high for the winners with a 597 aided by Paul Holder's 543. Raymond Speight was high for the losing Kelly Suppliers with a nice 561.

Coaches got in on the continuing decline of Tasee Freez by whipping them 3 pts. Jim Johnson was high for Coaches with a fine 572 set including a big 236 game but was trailed by Ray Dixon by only one pin with a 571. For the losing Tasee Freez Lee Amundson had a 560 and Walt Pool a 551. Unless Tasee Freez starts showing some of their old power it looks like they'll be a pushover in the Championship roll-off.

Chix Restaurant recovered from their early loss to the Trunkers by taking 3 pts. from Team No. 8. Led by Tom Moore with a 585 and Dick Long with 551. For Team No. 8 Jim Essex was high with a 565.

Sealy Posturepedic and Team No. 3 battled to a draw, each team taking 2 points. Glenn Holloman continued his climb up the average ladder by rolling a big 584 for the bedding peddlers. No big sets for Team No. 3 but all hands pitched in to hold the league leaders with in catching distance.

The Metro Group looks very good for the eBPAA Handicap Elimination Tournament coming up on week end of April 14, 15 and 21, 22.

George Baier visited Thunderbird for a nice practice session last Saturday night. George dropped in to roll a set, joined one of our new bowlers Bob Kenyon. Kenyon was shooting fair games 190, 205 and etc. George knocked out three nice sets before he called it a night. First set 672, second 704 and third 695. Many open bowlers visited the control center to ask Al Fender who the pro was. We have a young man hitting the pro circuit in golf, Claude King. It would be nice if we could get a young man in the pro bowlers association. Just in case you have not heard Don Carter is predicted to break the $200,000 mark this year.

Thursday midnight marks the deadline entry date for the BPAA National Handicap Elimination Tournament to be held at Thunderbird.

Oceana Officers Wives League Friday's Gift Shop took all the honors this week beginning with the team captain, Evelyn Byran, who rolled a 199 game, and a high set of 502. Fridley's also had total pins, 2,892, and high game of 746. Mary Tucker on Tuttle's Appliances team had second high game of 177.

LOCAL PISTOL COMPETITIONS HUGE SUCCESS
The Princess Anne R. & P. Club's 1st Annual Pistol Match last Sunday proved to be very successful. A wide field of competitors fired two relays in the 1800 Aggregate match through a mixture of fog, rain, and sunshine.

Fort Eustis Teams captured every team trophy with a fine showing of excellent shooting. In the individual field, Sewell took 8 trophies, seconded by Colonel Worth who won 7 trophies. Third and fourth were taken by Dennis and Andrews who also captured 7 trophies. Colonel Worth, of Langley AFB, is also the Club President.

The next pistol competitions will be held during the weekend of May 13, and many more entries are indicated. All members and guests are invited to participate.

Seashore State Park Sand a Logical Source of Supply

The decision of the Virginia State Department of Conservation and Economic Development to permit Virginia Beach to draw on the Seashore State Park as a source of badly needed sand for the beach here is, in our opinion, and good and logical decision.

Everyone should be in agreement on this arrangement, even the Conservationists and those who hold the park near and dear. There is plenty of sand in the Seashore State Park and the arrangement, as we understand it, only involves about 10 acres of the more than 3,000 acres that make up the park.

The decision on the part of the State agency will not be setting a precedent and this was emphasized by Director Marvin M. Sutherland. He said, according to his statement when it was announced that Virginia Beach would be permitted to tap the State Park sand supply source, that he was "firmly of the opinion that this action should not be construed as setting a precedent."

It is good that this single step will not set a precedent for the park is a natural wonderland of beauty and the sand has aided materially in bringing about this beauty. The withdrawal of sand from this small area should have little, or no effect on the park, itself.

The emergency created by the storm of March 7 and the dire need for sand replenishment here makes the State's decision concerning the park a wise one. The area will benefit from that decision and no one should be hurt. It is a logical source at this time and we commend Mr. Sutherland and his agency for making the decision.

An Energetic City Councilman Decides Not to Run Again

The announcement today by City Councilman Frank D. Tarrall, Jr. that he would not seek re-election in June has come as somewhat of a surprise and brings a measure of disappointment to those who have watched him perform his duties so faithfully and well during the past eight years.

Mr. Tarrall has served this community with distinction and his decision to step out of public life at this time is regrettable. He has been an invaluable member of the governing body of Virginia Beach and his devotion to duty and indomitable spirit will be missed.

Two of Mr. Tarrall's associates on City Council who are seeking re-election noted in their statement of candidacy that they were sorry to learn of Mr. Tarrall's decision. They also praised his service to the city.

Mr. Tarrall issued a formal statement concerning his decision not to offer for re-election to city council in which he stated that "business and other interests will not permit him to do so." He expressed his deep appreciation to the people for the support they had given him in the past.

Mr. Tarrall is leaving City Council but it is nice to know that he will be available to the city for any service he might render. He is that type of citizen.

The City of Virginia Beach has made great strides during the past eight years and we believe this community is aware of the important part Mr. Tarrall has played in that advancement. He can look back with pride to those eight years. His contributions to Virginia Beach are well known by her people.

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

It really isn't fair. Those teachers and principals just should not do it. All that talent and creative ability displayed at the Book Festival makes we adults feel insecure, inferior and just plain dull! It continues to amaze me what fascinating work youngsters can contrive with their busy little hands and creative young minds. Educators see their progress daily but it takes something like the Book Festival to awaken parents to the art of children. That is why this annual affair is so valuable.

All you had to do was watch the proud young faces as they squealed "I worked on that" and see their parent's amazed expression and it was obvious the festival was a huge success. It is the only time during the year that the public has an opportunity to see what goes on within the tiled halls of all the schools and the interest it stimulates is well worth the effort.

Parents are not the only ones who benefit, however. It is just as valuable to teachers who pick up many ideas that can be adapted to their own classrooms.

The Book Festival is a wonderful idea. The Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County School Librarians are to be congratulated for giving we parents the opportunity to feel insecure, inferior and just plain dull. It's nice to be suddenly aware of what clever, talented young citizens we have produced.

IT'S ALL OVER!

For the past 24 weeks I have been privileged to visit every school in the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County system as I pursued a weekly series on the school principals. The last story appears today.

I am most appreciative to this fine group of people for opening their schools and private lives to me. They were, without an exception, gracious, patient and cooperative despite my time-consuming meddling.

The series was designed to familiarize the citizens of this area with the excellent personnel we have in our school system through the individual principals. I hope it succeeded.

Leave it up to John Hoey to come up with something different. And what he is planning now will be one of the most unusual and exciting entertainment spots in this area. I'm honor bound not to tell much about it yet but, believe me, it's a "lu-lu." That Rathskellar is like crazy, man.

Have you noticed our new look? The Sun-News has been doing some pretty fancy remodeling and if you think that boarded-up front door means we've left town, you are, oh, so wrong. We have a brand new glass front door adjacent to John Senter's, with bright gold lettering telling you we are going strong, and a big, spacious front office for classified and display advertising. The bookkeeping and executive offices are in the newly expanded upstairs and the news department is way-a-back of the composing room. Why don't you drop in and see us sometime?

Members of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce are in for a surprise and a treat this week-end when the new membership plaques will be delivered. Replacing the old blue and silver cardboard-type plaques are bright, sparkling gold ones that will flatter any wall displaying them. Since the new plaques are of more permanent material, the date may be changed each year simply by inserting a printed tab in a slot at the back. It also features the City emblem, the Freedom 7 capsule.

speaking a foreign language so that should the need arise the Chamber could call on a linguist to translate for a visitor.

This idea was only one of many advanced at the regional conference. Others included creation of an International Visitors Council, development of tours and a program to provide an opportunity for foreign visitors to meet Americans in their homes.

The local Chamber of Commerce has issued a plea to those interested and those qualified to call the Chamber office at GA 8-1922 and give their name, address and telephone number.

Board Approves Loan to Build Sewage Plant

PRINCESS ANNE — The Board of Supervisors have authorized a loan of $123,263 for a sewage treatment plant near the court house and are considering the possibility of another plant at Kempville.

At Monday's meeting the board agreed to sign a contract with Carter Contracting Co. to build a $99,663 plant to serve the court house and the new Kellam High School. The remaining $23,400 of the loan will be used to buy land.

The facility will be operated by the Princess Anne Water and Sanitation Authority. If the county's request to be included in the Hampton Roads Sanitation District is granted the plant will be operated by HRSD.

Supervisor Swindell Pollock told the board that sewage collection and treatment is needed in sections of Kempville where septic tanks are now used.

The possibility of creating a sanitary district in that area is being studied by the board.

Individuals wishing to tap on to the court house system later may make financial arrangements with the Sanitation Authority to pay a proportionate share of the cost.

The firm of which I am a partner has been engaged by Princess Anne County in making many studies. Some of them are not complete and will not be completed for sometime, and for this and other reasons I cannot afford to be a candidate for re-election.

I want to express to the people of the city my deep appreciation of the support which they have given me in the past. To my fellow councilmen my appreciation of the cooperation which I have always had. I shall continue to be interested in its welfare and its success and will always be willing to offer my services in the advancement of the city and its people.

I regret that it is impossible for me to continue to serve on the Council at the present time; my business and other interests will not permit me to do so.

SBA Approves Home, Business Loans Locally

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Small Business Administration has approved eight home loans totaling $59,800 and 17 business loans totaling $147,600 resulting from the March 7 storm. C. Raymond Shaw, manager of the emergency SBA office here, said last week.

Twelve other loans amounting to $543,600 have also been processed and forwarded to the Richmond office for action.

To date the office has received 377 inquiries and given out 313 applications.

There have been 56 business loans requesting a total of $1,359,834 and 24 home loans requesting $156,890 received from the Virginia Beach, Hampton and Nags Head areas, he said.

Persons wishing to apply for these loans are asked to do so as soon as possible, Shaw said, since the emergency office, located at 19th Street and Arctic Avenue, will only be open as long as there is a demand. The applications are being processed as quickly as possible.

WARREN HULL

PRINCESS ANNE — The Easter season at Princess Anne Plaza will be headlined by the Easter Bunny, a Mad Hatters' Contest and a special hour-long television remote Friday, April 20th.

Peter Cottontail is holding court daily in a specially constructed habitat in the shopping center's parking lot. Like his Christmas counterpart, Santa Claus, he listens to children's requests and gives out candy. Photographs of children with the bunny are available.

The women of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach have been requested to compete for prizes in a Mad Hatters Contest. They are to make up hats from garden or kitchen utensils or anything around the house.

The women are to bring their crazy hats to the Shopping Center parking lot at 12 noon Friday April 20th. There they will be judged over television by Mildred Alexander and Warren Hull and other judges yet to be announced over an hour-long remote telecast from 1 to 2 p.m. have also been planned.

YES, WE HAVE NONE

Clerk: No, madam, we haven't had any for a long time.

Manager (overhearing): "Oh yes; we have it, madam, I will send to the warehouse and have some brought in for you." (Aside to Clerk): "Never refuse anything. Send out for it."

As the lady went out laughing, the manager demanded: "What did she say?" Clerk: "She said we haven't had any rain lately."

JUNIOR STEER & HEIFER PROJECT MEMBERS PARTICIPATE IN FITTING AND SHOWING WORKOUT

All the 4-H Club members enrolled in the Junior Steer and Heifer Project participated in an all-day demonstration at the farm of Mr. Ralph Frost, learning to properly fit and show their animals. Under the direction of County Agent, E. R. Cockrell, the Club members were taught every step that is necessary to prepare an animal to go into the show ring, and after going through each of these steps, the 4-H'ers had an opportunity to actually compete with each other in a practice show.

The Annual Portsmouth Jr. Steer and Heifer Sale will be held Wednesday, May 9, in the Portsmouth area. On this date all the 4-H Club members participating in the Junior Steer and Heifer project will have their calves on display to be shown in competition between Norfolk and Princess Anne Counties and to be sold at public auction.

JUNIOR STEER & HEIFER SHOW TO BE HELD MAY 9

Everyone is invited to attend this colorful event, and see the progress that is being made by the Club members in Norfolk & Princess Anne counties. Approximately 40 animals will be on display, shown, and sold. The animals will be judged by a VPI livestock specialist; they will be graded by a State Livestock Grader, and a professional auctioneer will be on hand for the sale. The calves will be sold to high bidder, and a calf may be obtained by anyone who is interested.

4-H PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST TO BE HELD THURSDAY, APRIL 12
The County-wide 4-H Public Speaking Contest will be held at the Frank Cox High School, at 4:00 P.M., on Thursday, April 12. All 4-H Club members interested in public speaking and participating in this contest should notify the County Agent's Office in order that his name be included in the program.

The public is cordially invited to attend this public speaking contest, consisting of many 4-H Club members giving approximately 5-minute speeches on topics of their choice. The winners of the Public Speaking Contest will participate in the District Contest, which is to be held on April 14, in Petersburg, Va.

COURTHOUSE COMMUNITY CLUB SEE CD FILM STRIP

Club members from the Courthouse Community 4-H Club observed and actively participated in a discussion on a Civil Defense. This particular film strip is designed chiefly for rural people and gives many helpful ideas as to the best Civil Defense measures to take to protect humanity, livestock, and crops.

I have this film strip on hand, and it is available for anyone to use at any meeting in which it would be appropriate whether it be adult or youth. The film strip is of excellent caliber for any age group, and gives many pointers in which our public needs so desperately to be informed. If you would like to use this film strip, contact me and I will be most happy to make it available to you.

KEMPSVILLE ELEMENTARY PLANT PINE SEEDLINGS

The Kempsville Elementary School 4-H Club, with Forestry, as their club project, have made an excellent contribution to the conservation and beauty of their school grounds.

On Tuesday, April 3, all of the 4-H Club members in this Club, pitched in and planted approximately 250 pine seedlings around the school grounds in needed areas. In doing this, not only did the club members learn how to plant pine seedlings, but they learned why pine seedlings are planted, and the many benefits which can be obtained from the pines. Included in this instruction was the soil conservation value of pines, wildlife conservation, their value as a wind-break, as a sound-barrier, as a monetary value when used as a crop, and in this particular incident, their value in adding beauty and cutting down on undesirable views of the school grounds.

The Club should be congratulated on their all-out effort to improve their school grounds conditions. Along with the pine seedling planting to beautify the school grounds, they have delegated committees who are responsible for helping to maintain attractive school grounds at all times. These committees ascertain that no paper, trash and unattractive objects are permitted to accumulate.

4-H DISTRICT CONTESTS TO BE HELD APRIL 14

Saturday, April 14, is the date of the 4-H Club District Contests. All the winners from the County Contests at this time will compete with other counties in the Southeastern Extension District to determine delegates for state competition. Going to this contest will be a Junior and Senior Livestock Judging Team, a Land Appreciation Team, the winner of the Public Speaking Contest in the County, and possibly the winner from the Share-the-Fun Contest. Report on MGA

This past weekend, 660 students, representatives of Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y clubs from all over Virginia, met at the state capital in Richmond to convene the 1962 Model General Assembly.

The purpose of the Model Assembly is to give political training and experience in the theory and practice of determining public policy. Through MGA, the youth of Virginia received a clear understanding of the processes and procedures in the state government. Youth legislators were given the opportunity to present bills concerning existing problems in Virginia which are discussed in committees, the senate, and the house.

The assembly convened Thursday night in a joint session of the senate and house beginning with an address by Joel Vickers, III, the 15th youth governor of the Model General Assembly. Youth Governor Vickers outlined the theme of MGA as "To Betterness Through Togetherness". He catforded the bills in three groups: Highway Safety, Higher Standards of Living and Education.

Youth Governor Vickers listed the "Most Outstanding Bill" as that of Kappa Lambda Tri-Hi-Y's request for the purchase of a Virginia District Y.M.C.A. flag to fly during M.G.A. to distinguish M.G.A. from all other conventions. He later vetoed this bill because of the lack of time for organization and planning for the enactment of the bill.

Senator E. E. Willey, chairman, extended greetings to the one interested in information on the contest in Petersburg should contact our office.

4-H CREED—To Make the Best Better.

youth representative, then swore in the youth officers and legislators.

As the reporter from Princess Anne High School, I was able to sit in on the second reading of the bills and resolutions during the Friday session.

The only acute difference I could see between this assembly and the regular General Assembly was the age difference between our legislators and the regular ones! The debates and discussions on the part of the junior senators and delegates were so professional that it was very difficult to remember that these senators and delegates were high school students and not "senior politicians".

Latter Friday evening, Lt. Governor Mills E. Godwin, Jr., gave an impressive speech on "Leadership of the Future and the Past" to a point assembly of the house and senate. Following his speech, the election of the 1963 youth officers were held in the Lyric Theater.

Those elected were James (Pete) Pendleton, youth governor; Sue Lee Hunt, president of the senate; Barbara Lee Rarrot, president of the senate pro tempore; Linda Sue Calhoun, speaker of the house; Robert Howell, floor leader of the senate and Donald Schelshneider, floor leader of the house.

Perhaps the most exciting moments of the assembly were those of Saturday, when the youth Governor announced which bills he signed or vetoed. Vickers signed bills concerning proof of the age of marriage applicants, establishment of penalties for neglecting to file personal property tax, regulation of tractor traffic on highways, compulsion of attending coin operated machines in public establishments, unification of traffic signals and signs and several other bills concerning public safety.

Departing time came all too soon, for everyone had had a thoroughly rewarding experience.

It is these youth who will be the leaders of our country tomorrow. Benjamin Franklin after drawing up our national constitution remarked, "We have given you a republic, it is up to you to keep it." And these youth will.

Garden Week Tour April 24th Through Princess Anne

By EILEEN BOUSH DAVIS

PRINCESS ANNE — On Tuesday, April 24th, the Princess Anne County Tour of Historic Garden Week will open, for the time, homes and gardens which are a part of the charming rural community and Court town of Princess Anne.

Here, under ancient oaks, court has been held since 1824.

On this date, the courthouse was moved from Kempsville to a new site nearer the center of the County called "Crossroads." The name was changed to Princess Anne, but to most county people it is simply "the Courthouse."

When the court moved here there were many fine old homes at the crossroads and one of these was the Daniel Whitehurst house with the date "1773" etched on the chimney. It is now the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Buffington. This house with its gambrel roof, large outside windows casts a spell. This is an old house, a gentle house and a well loved house.

All the hardware, doors, paneling and materials (there are four of them) are original. The locks are enormous, measuring five by eight inches, and have keys to match. Almost all of the glass window panes downstairs are old. The floors, upstairs and down except for one small bedroom, are the original heart pine, random width floor boards, many over a foot wide and tongue and grooved by hand.

Built-In Ghost

This house even has a friendly ghost; you know it could have no other kind. James Howard Whitehurst, a descendant of the builder, is reputed to be the only man at the Courthouse who joined the infantry instead of the cavalry during the Civil War. In his later years he became something of a hermit. He loved children but shunned all adults. He died in 1920.

Nine years ago, when the Buffingtons moved in they were warned that they would see and hear many strange things. Little Anne Buffington, then almost three, began talking about her friend who looked like Santa Claus and came to play with her. It was after this that they learned Mr. Whitehurst was a man with a long white beard.

An interesting story is that the upstairs windows in these gambrel roof houses were not counted as windows, but as supports for the roof. It is said that the early settlers were taxed by the number of windows in the house. Hence by building windows into the roof, tax on upstairs windows was eliminated.

KELLAM HOUSE

In the heart of the "Courthouse" is the home of Judge and Mrs. Richard B. Kellam and Mr. Robert Kellam. This is a gracious white house set among fine old trees on a rolling green lawn. This house is interesting because it has grown and changed with the families that have lived here. It has the charm of the unexpected.

The house was actually built in three stages. The original old part of the house, the library and bedroom above, was built in the 1700's. Two more rooms, the den and upstairs bedroom, were added in the early part of the 19th Century. The date 1824 is etched in one of the old panes of glass found in the window of the den. The land was sold to the Kellam family in 1900. The rest of the house was added at this time.

There is beautiful paneling of heart pine in the library and the den. This is from the old Ives house in Blackwater which was built in 1772. The paneling in the dining room is a copy of that in the Raleigh Tavern in Williamsburg and was added in 1950.

Throughout the house are many lovely and interesting antiques; some collected and others a treasured part of the family heritage. An interesting example of the latter is a spinning wheel, complete to the smallest detail, which belonged to Mrs. Kellam's great grandmother. Seven different kinds of wood have gone into its making.

In the afternoon, from 2:30 to 5:00, refreshments will be served at the Kellam house.

Across the road is the site of the Ruben Lovett house which was the twin of the Daniel Whitehurst house and until it was demolished, was the oldest house in this vicinity. A spacious house of Colonial design, surrounded by a colorful informal garden, now occupies the site. This is the home and garden of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kellam. Only the garden will be open.

Near the Courthouse, on Holland Swamp Road, is "Rollingwood" set on a knoll above waving meadow grasses and bordered by split rail fences. The deep woods behind and on either side seem to hold the house with affectionate arms. This is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maury Riganto.

This "typical Tidewater" house with its gambrel roof is of frame construction, clapboard and cedar shakes all held in place with hand made nails. The house is set on heavy heart pine timbers that are eighteen inches square. All the windows and doors are set in with wooden pegs. The chimneys, like those of the Whitehurst house, are the early type that go up away from the house with wide deep throats.

Entering, one passes through the original double doors which still bolt from within. As if that were not enough, one door still retains its small brass lock with the crest of the King of England. The painstaking care and pride that went into building this house almost two centuries ago is evident in small elegant touches—doors with raised cut away panels, the dainty Adams mantel in the dining room and the delicately pleated mantel in the library, the small Queen Anne staircase and the Jeffersonian arch holding the wide center hall.

"Rollingwood" is furnished with many beautiful and unusual antiques. The oldest piece of furniture in the house is the walnut corner cupboard of the Jacobean period which was taken from an old fortress on the Rappahannock River. The original lock still remains and it is unbelievers. The Revolution ended this and in 1824 there was no church next door to the courthouse.

Nimmo Church Featured

A few miles from Princess Anne at a fork in the roads stands Nimmo Church, one of the oldest churches in continuous use in American Methodism. Of frame construction with white clapboards it is a simple but lovely Colonial Church with a slave balcony, walled and gated pews, and original pine floors. The land was deeded to the Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church by Anne Nimmo in 1791. It is believed that the church was built shortly thereafter.

Lunch will be served here.

Leaving the "Courthouse" & Nimmo Church the Princess Anne Tour would not be complete without a visit to the gardens of "Sea Breeze Farm" on the Lynnhaven River, the home of Miss Evelyn Collins Hill.

This was the Glebe land of the Lynnhaven Parish Land devoted to the maintenance of the minister of the Church of England. It is believed that prior to 1640, court was held here. The acres of gardens are a profusion of azaleas, camellias, hollies, roses and many rare and beautiful trees and shrubs.

The Adam Thoroughgood House and garden will be open the entire week. The house is one of the oldest in America. It was built between 1636 and 1640 on a branch of the Lynnhaven River and has been restored to its original appearance. The garden was reconstructed by the Garden Club of Virginia through funds from Historic Garden Week. It is an authentic 17th Century garden and a joy to behold. The owner is the City of Norfolk.

P.A. Teacher Gets Fulbright Grant

PRINCESS ANNE—Wayne K. Nunn, a French teacher on leave from Princess Anne High School, has received a grant under the Fulbright Act to attend a summer seminar at the University of Paris in France.

Nunn is now doing graduate work at the French Institute of Emory University in Atlanta under the National Defense Education Act. He is under contract to return to Princess Anne High in September.

The local teacher's grant for summer study is one of about 450 which the U.S. Department of State is providing for the 1962-63 fiscal year in its educational exchange program.

C&P Company Cited by Bank With '62 Award

RICHMOND — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia will be awarded The Bank of Virginia's 1962 citation in the bank's fifth annual Salute to Virginia Industry.

Herbert C. Moseley, bank president, said today that the citation will be presented on May 3 at a dinner honoring the company and to be held at the Commonwealth Club in Richmond.

J. Rhodes Mitchell, vice president, will receive the award for C&P and the organization's 9,600 employees.

Virginia's Governor Albert S. Harrison will address the dinner gathering.

The company is being cited, Moseley said, "in recognition of outstanding business enterprise and significant contribution to economic progress in the Commonwealth."

"As the largest of the 45 telephone companies serving Virginia, this company has provided essential and useful communications for Virginia and her people for more than 50 years. Today it is the daily 'voice of industry' for a wide and growing area."

Begun in 1938, the bank's annual Salute to Virginia Industry program is two-fold, Moseley said. It emphasizes the role of industry in jobs, payrolls, taxes and development of a balanced economy for Virginia. It recognizes the contributions of particular companies as "examples of industrial and business enterprise."

Shelton Park

Principal Believes Ancient History Is Lacking in Schools

(This is the last in a series of articles to appear each week in this paper on the men and women who serve as principals of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach Schools.)

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

BAYSIDE — Today's school curriculum stresses state and world history but sadly neglects ancient history — a fact Miss Patricia King, principal of Shelton Park Elementary School, would like to see changed.

"It only makes sense that history," she said, "After all, that was the basis of our modern civilization and children should know more about it."

Make It Interesting

"The way it is taught is important. It can be a very dry subject if only dates, battles and individuals are stressed. But if more emphasis were put on the interesting happenings of that period the children would love it. Look how interested they are in the movies about ancient times. They could be just as interested in the school subject."

Ancient history, especially that of the Middle Eastern areas, is one of Miss King's main interests. She has done extensive research on it, having made many trips to the library at Williamsburg because it is more complete, and hopes someday to write a book on her findings.

She especially wants to do a book for children on the more interesting events of the period.

Adding to this knowledge, Miss King has traveled extensively in Europe and once had we should teach more ancient

month trip around the world.

Her greatest disadvantage in research during her travels, however, was the language barrier.

But just visiting the areas were

Battle Against Time

She has been working on this research for about eight years and has acquired a small li-

the books translated from the early writings are gradually disappearing and she is now fighting a battle against time to get her work completed.

"One of the last books I got from Williamsburg had been sitting on a back shelf for years.

I was the first person to check it out in four years. Libraries can't afford to keep such obsolete volumes on their shelves indefinitely and I know that eventually I won't be able to find the information I need."

A native of Norfolk but a resident of Princess Anne

County since 1948, Miss King has been principal at Shelton

Park for three years. Before that time she taught at Bayside and was assistant prinincipal at Little Creek before it was annexed by Norfolk.

After receiving her BA degree from the University of North Carolina and her master's from the College of William and Mary in Norfolk she went into the banking business.

But this field was not fast-moving enough for her tireless energies so she took a substitute teaching position on a trial basis.

She soon found that the challenge of teaching young children was just the stimulation

she needed and has been de-

Miss King resides at Virginia

Beach and enjoys reading and oil painting in what little spare time she has away from her school duties and research work.

As to future ambitions, she hopes someday to do "a great deal more traveling."

Mrs. Thomas B. Petty Takes Gavel Of Chesapeake Beach Woman's Club

By VIRGIE HUDSON
CHESAPEAKE BEACH—The Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach held its regular monthly meeting last week at the Shore Drive Inn. The meeting was held one week early, due to the convention of the State Federation beginning on April 10th. Following a film entitled eleven Summer Festivals which have become well-known throughout the County.

The Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach holds tight to its reputation of never giving up on any project which has proved worthwhile to their Club and Community. So with 21 years behind them of a heritage for which they are justly proud, the members are looking for a new home. And the new officers are already involved in this new search, while still working on all the old projects.

Mrs. Thomas B. Petty, new President, is a quiet, petite person who has worked in every department in the Club and on every project since she became a member. She was awarded the Club's Outstanding Citizen Award some years back for her Welfare program, which included the Red-Cross Blood-mobile work. She sews a "fine seam", as has been evidenced by her awards in the Club's annual Sewing Contest, and is active in the "Golden Circle" group for the aged and incapacitated. Having a well known fisherman and hunter for a husband, Orion has become an expert on how to properly freeze all kinds of fish, wild fowl and meats. She resides at Chesapeake Beach.

First Vice President, Mrs. Colon L. Powers, resides with her husband and young daughter, Challie, in Lakeview Park on Lake Smith. She is active in P-TA, Home Demonstration and Church work. She has been Ways and Means Chairman for the Chesapeake Club for the past two years, and has done an outstanding job. Kathryn is noted for her cooking and as she says her "cooking shows." She is also an avid antique collector.

Mrs. Roy M. Harksen, Second Vice President, is a transplanted Yankee from upper New York state, and according to Club members, a true example of the "best things coming in small packages." Her school and church activities are never ending, and she also does the office work for husband, Roy, who is in the Automotive Parts and Equipment business. Both are active members of the Bayside Presbyterian Church. They live in Thoroughgood.

"Homeless" But Undaunted!

The "new look" for the club must come about due to the recent sale of the Chesapeake Beach Community Center, which was "home" to the club ladies. It was here they staged all their money-making efforts, including

Mrs. George M. Robbins, new Club Secretary is also a transplanted, having come from the state of Maine. Ellen has been tagged by her club as having creative ability enough for two people. She lives in Thoroughgood with her husband, George and daughter, Patty.

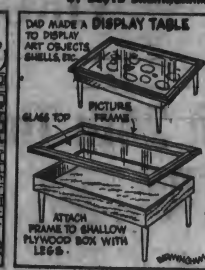

The treasurer, Mrs. Ronald K. Irving, is beginning her second term on the Club Executive Board. Helen is the wife of Capt. Ronald K. Irving of Little Creek. His activities in Navy and Bayside Civic life are well known. Capt. Irving's beard keeps him much in demand for dramatic work, and it falls Helen's lot to contrive the proper costuming for all the periods designated in the parts he plays, such as Capt. John Smith. Helen and her husband have been in this section for 14 years, leaving once once to go as far as Fort Monroe, for a tour of 3 years. They live at Chesapeake Beach, and recently became grand-parents.

As Mrs. Petty says, "With this group, how can we lose?" Which thought has probably never occurred to the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach in its entire existence anyway.

Book Festival Attracted Thousands During Two Day Run

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH—The second annual Book Festival drew thousands of youngsters and parents as well as librarians from neighboring school systems during its two-day run last week at the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center.

Fourteen representatives from 22 publishing companies displayed over 4,000 volumes of every type book and subject. The majority were slanted for the elementary age level but there were also many professional and teen-age books.

The Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County Public Library sponsored a special display of popular and informative volumes.

Students Displayed Talent. But the real highlight of the affair was the vast expense of exhibits from all of the white schools in the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County system.

Covering almost every inch of wall space, the student-made projects illustrated nearly all subjects offered in the school curriculum.

The great variety of display subjects and the creativity of their construction made the festival a show of art.

To select a few out of the many thousands seems unjust, since all were outstanding, but the following notations were made merely to typify the variety:

Kempsville Meadows—a display of styrofoam dolls made by the 4th grade featuring such famous personalities as George Washington, Robert E. Lee and many others.

Kempsville Junior High—an unusual and informative weather project with a boxed cyclone scene by Geoffrey Ludford and a log ranger station by Clifton Flowers.

Kempsville Elementary—exhibits carrying out the various book titles such as a "Kon Tiki" raft by David James and "Rumpelstiltskin" by 3rd grader Holly Serrell.

John B. Dey—shoebox scenes from favorite children's books and student-made storybook

Creeds—hand puppets used in classroom projects and unusual leaf art.

Cox High—a neat display on health, geography and other subjects and an outstanding book on interior decorating by Star Anderson.

Court House—a castle made of painted cardboard; a "First Grade Theatre" with rolling film; and a big hand-painted mural claiming "We Like Dr. Seuss."

Bayside—a large wooden bound "Our Magic Trip Book" that opened with a big red key to expose giant-sized pages.

Aragona—"I Want To Be A Librarian" display by Lori Hurlds and Patty Marino and a clay exhibit of "Children Around the World" by Miriam Troop.

W. T. Cooke—a large poster of the Civil War Battlefields in Virginia by Mrs. White's fourth grade and artistic wire sculpture.

Woodstock—hand-made books with cloth covers and printed stories by Mrs. Field's 5th grade; and a lovely "Tournament of Books" with floats carrying out book titles by Mrs. Shaffer's 4th grade.

Virginia Beach High—a meticulously made newspaper of Ancient Roman times featuring advertising, maps, society and sports events by Carol Etheridge; a Roman dwelling by Susan Ball; Civil War battlefield mounted on a lighted board; and the Roman Colosseum of sugar lumps by Pam Crutchfield and Nina Rambo.

Thoroughgood—ranch and farm scenes and children's versions of the big city; and three meals-a-day display of paper mache food.

Thalia—books written by the students and a lovely array of paintings.

Shelton Park—the African nations displayed on a molded continent by Nancy Stalner and very talented paintings of school activities by 2nd grader Susan Felton.

Plaza—original writings such as "The Day I Saved Ft. Sumter" by 2nd grader Ricky Lehner and the science fiction thriller on how 3rd grader John Nesbitt was eaten by a moon monster; and a weather map display by 5th graders Mark Marchbank and Warren Willoughby.

Princess Anne High—beautiful paintings by Mary Anne Baker and Marilyn Cole; an imaginative, if somewhat gory "Scene from the Arena" by Sharon Ward; a tediously built cardboard Colosseum by Buddy Treake; and a Roman siege tower by Richard Nolan.

Louise Luxford—a display following a "Through the Years with Books" theme using dolls and scenes from the most popular novels.

Linkhorn Park—a lovely barren and pasture scene from "Black Beauty" by Carol Matthews, Doty Watts and Susan Washburn; unusual "Welcome to Booksville"—Population: Unlimited—display by Mrs. Hawthorn's 5th grade; Abe Lincoln's cabin by Margaret Addenbrook; and an outstanding assortment of books and research pamphlets by Mrs. Pendleton's 7th grade.

King's Grant—a near life-sized paper mache lion; hand-painted tapestry of "Virginia-Mother of Presidents"; a photographic story of "Library Magic" by Jacques Seaman and Debbie Roughton; and a display of the solar system using red rubber balls and wire by Vann Sutton.

The event was sponsored by the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County School Librarian Mrs. Lurline Tuttle and Phillip Meekins were in charge of arrangements.

CUTEST couple in Hollywood these days are starry-eyed Brenda Lee and Bobby Vee (now there's a name combination for you)... First and puppy love and it's cute as can be... Mark up that Jayne Mansfield escapade on the high seas to that ever-important publicity factor... Amazing what stars will go through to get their names in headlines... Now that the Sandra Dee-Bobby Darin baby has arrived do you suppose columnists will let up for a while on pushing that marriage on the rocks?

Strange setup between Cary Grant and third wife Betsy Drake... They have been separated for years now, see each other frequently but neither makes any move to either divorce or reconcile... Must be a case of not being able to live with or without each other... Dick Clark is really getting around now that he's loose and fancy free again... Pretty Ann Margaret was crushed over losing the lead opposite Elvis Presley in "Kid Galahad"... She adores the singer.

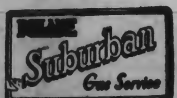

THE RECORD WHIRL
CAPTIVOL—Vic Damone comes back strong after too long away with a slightly terrific album called "Linger Awhile with Vic Damone" and he makes lingering very easy thing to do... Swinging in a tender mood, he does such favorites as "Linger Awhile" (natch), "Change Partners," "Deep Night," "Soft Lights and Sweet Music," "Close Your Eyes," "One Love," "In the Still of the Night" and "There I've Said It Again." Addicts of Broadway hit songs will have a rare treat in "Broadway Swings Again" featuring the Jonah Jones Quartet... Songs cover musicals both old and new.

Cox High Tid-Bits

This past week has proved to be both interesting and industrious. The results of the Nov. Sequential Tests of Educational Progress (STEP Tests) and School and College Ability Tests (SCAT), given to the 9th grade students, will help each student to realize his strengths and weaknesses.

On April 4th, the 8th grade held an assembly to get acquainted with the nominees for class officers. During this assembly, Mr. Carroll, our principal, presented awards to the spelling champions.

Excitement ran high when the Student Cards arrived. The requirement of membership for Cox students in the Student Co-operative Association was to pay fifteen cents for the cards. These cards will be made use of through the year of '63.

The Kappa Delta Phi Tri-Hi-Y has been kept occupied these past few weeks. With the assistance of the Inner Club Council, they provided the school with safety posters displayed in the corridors. Notes from Your COUNTY AGENT

By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

These are uncertain times and a fellow has to be a contortionist to get along. Even if your back is to the wall, you MUST keep an ear to the ground as well as putting a shoulder to the wheel. Then with your nose to the grindstone you MUST keep a level head and at the SAME time KEEP both feet on the ground. And by ALL means have your head in the clouds SO you can LOOK for the SILVER LINING.

WHY SETTLE FOR LESS

100 Bushels Per Acre

Why settle for 40 bushels of corn to the acre when you can grow around 100 bushels? It costs you just as much to plow, harrow, plant, and cultivate to grow 40 bushels per acre as it does to grow 100 bushels. Generally higher yields of crops mean higher profit per acre.

On a typical farm, labor, tractor, and machine use, seed cost, plus land rent, will total about $35 for each acre. With the addition of a light fertilizer application, the cost would increase to around $42.50 per acre. If the yield of the field is only 40 bushels per acre, the cost per bushel is $1.06. By applying $20 to $25 worth of fertilizer, most producers can grow around 100 bushels of corn per acre in a good season. This reduces the cost per bushel to 55 to 62 cents and increases your profit. Due to variation in soils, previous treatment, and other factors, results may vary from these figures.

Following are a few suggestions which should help you get into the 100 bushel-per-acre corn class.

Choose Good Soil
Corn does best on fertile well-drained soils. Soils that are moderately well to somewhat poorly drained may be used for corn if properly drained limitations.

Lime Your Soil
Your soil should test between 6.0 and 6.2 pH. Have soil tested to determine lime needs. You can get soil boxes and instructions for taking a soil sample from our office. Be sure to take the soil sample correctly.

Preparation of Seedbed
A poorly prepared seedbed is the forerunner to a poor stand and poor crop. A firm seedbed in the row is important for good production. Land should not be worked more than is necessary to prepare for planting. Continuous packing with machinery tends to cause less desirable soil structure.

Fertilizer Guide

Corn is usually grown in a rotation with other crops. The amount and analysis of fertilizer applied will depend largely on the amount and analysis of fertilizer used on other crops in the rotation, the quantity and quality of manure used, whether or not a legume crop immediately preceded and was turned under before corn, and the fertility level of the soil.

You cannot expect high yields unless your soil has an adequate supply of available plant food.

How Much Fertilizer To Use—

What Kind

Apply 100 to 120 pounds of nitrogen, 60 to 100 pounds of phosphate and 100 to 120 lbs. of potash per acre. This can be supplied by using 500 to 1,000 pounds to the acre of a complete fertilizer such as 5-10-10, 3-9-18, or 3-18-18, or equivalent, plus nitrogen as needed.

The principal methods of placement of fertilizer on corn are (1) all fertilizer broadcast, and (2) part broadcast and part in-row.

Use Adequate Nitrogen

The amount of nitrogen needed will depend upon (1) the nitrogen level of the soil, (2) the amount and analysis of fertilizer used, (3) what crop was plowed under, (4) whether or not manure was used, and (5) on sandy soils the amount of rainfall after application of fertilizer. For a 100-bushel corn crop, there must be available approximately 140 lbs. of nitrogen when it is needed during the growing season. A general recommendation would be to apply 80 to 120 pounds of nitrogen per acre, depending upon the soil need.

Use An Adapted Hybrid

Plant a variety of corn hybrid adapted to your farm. Adapted hybrids are available in the early, medium and full-season groups. We can supply you information about corn hybrid varieties.

Use High Quality Seed

Check the tag on the bag to see that you are getting high quality seed of the variety adapted to your locality. The analysis tag should show a germination of 90% or better. If germination is below 90%, the planting rate should be adjusted accordingly. High quality seed is dry, well graded and treated with a fungicide. The label should also show seed size, seed analysis, date of germination, and name of seedsmen or producer.

Plant Thick

For a full-season hybrid, plant at the rate of 14,000 to 16,000 kernels per acre. For an early variety, plant at the rate of 16,000 to 18,000 kernels per acre. The final plant stand is expected to be 10 to 20% less than the number of seed planted.

40"	8½"

Use Right Planter Plate

Use the right planter plate for the grade used so that the kernels will drop the desired distance apart. Make a trial run to see that kernels are dropping properly.

Plant at Proper Depth

Avoid deep planting. From 1 to 2 inches deep is sufficient. Seed should be placed in contact with warm moist soil.

Watch Speed of Planter

Speed of planter can affect the planting rate. If planter speed is too fast, kernels will not drop regularly.

Presbyterian Choir to Present Program on Palm Sunday

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Senior Choir of the First Presbyterian Church of Virginia Beach will present selections from Parts II and III of Handel's "Messiah", on Palm Sunday afternoon, April 15, at 5 p.m. in the church sanctuary, 36th and Pacific Avenues, Virginia Beach. Altogether the "Messiah" consists of three parts, but because of its length, it is rarely performed in its entirety. Local audiences are familiar with the Christmas section, Part I, which is frequently heard at Christmas time. The Presbyterian Choir has sung Part I for the two previous Advent seasons.

The Palm Sunday presentation of Parts II and III will be the first for this choir, and it is believed to be the first performance of these parts of the "Messiah", by a choir at the Beach.

Part II is devoted to the sufferings, death and exaltation of Christ, and develops the spread and ultimate triumph of the Gospel; while Part III is occupied with the declaration of the highest truths of doctrine—faith in the existence of God, the surety of immortal life, the resurrection, and the attainment of an eternity of happiness.

Parts II and III contain music which is familiar to the layman. Two well known choruses, "The Hallelujah Chorus," and "For Since By Man Came Death," are found in these sections; also the aria for soprano, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," and the aria for bass, "The Trumpet Shall Sound."

Soloists for this performance will include: sopranos—Carroll Shoemaker, Alice Compton, and Ann Davis Bonney; altos—Hallie Moore and Juanita Winecoff; tenors—Dwight Moore and R. Gene Doyal; and bass—Joseph R. White, Jr. The Choir will be under the direction of the minister, the Rev. Henry Morgan for this performance, and the choir director-organist, Mrs. Irene A. Korte, will accompany at the organ.

Oceana Revival Was 3-Day Meeting

OCEANA—The First Assembly of God Church at Oceana held a three-day revival meeting last week with the Rev. D. A. Lewis, vice president of Audio-Visuals, conducting the services.

Film strips on prophecy and its fulfillment were presented at each service and the opening service Friday featured Communism and Russia in Bible Prophecy.

Education Tests Scheduled For May 17 in P. A. County

The certificate is in lieu of the high school diploma. Some colleges and industry accept this certificate in place of the High School Diploma.

In order to take the examination the applicant must satisfy certain requirements. The minimum requirements are:

(1) The applicant must be 20 years of age. Under no conditions may the applicant be permitted to take the test prior to the time that he would have graduated had he remained in school.

(3) The applicant shall have

Plaza Chapel Votes to Set Organization

PRINCESS ANNE—Reverend Wentz J. Miller announced today that the members of the Presbyterian Chapel in Princess Anne Plaza had voted to petition Presbytery to authorize organization.

The action took place during a congregational meeting following the Chapel's regular family night supper Sunday, April 1.

The Chapel was formed last October under the Ministry of Rev. Miller, Home Mission Field Representative of the Norfolk Presbytery.

Sunday Services are now being held in the Plaza Elementary School with the Church School meeting at 9:45 a.m. and Worship Services at 11 o'clock. All interested persons are cordially invited to attend. A complete Church program is offered.

Today's longer life expectancy calls for more social security insurance, pensions, annuities, and U. S. Savings Bonds.

resided in Virginia one year prior to applying for the battery of tests and must reside in the school division through which he makes application.

(4) The applicant must attain a passing score on the complete battery test provided by the State Department of Education.

People who desire to take this test should make application to F. E. Taylor, Secondary Supervisor, Princess Anne County Schools, Princess Anne, Virginia. The deadline for submission of applications is Wednesday, May 2nd. The test will be administered at the School Administration Building in Princess Anne, 9:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

Catholic Group Aids Storm Victims

VIRGINIA BEACH — Victims of the Ash Wednesday storm which swept the east coast have received aid from the newly-formed Virginia Beach Court of the Catholic Daughters of America.

Quantities of food and clothing, collected by the organization, were turned over to local Red Cross officials this week for distribution to families displaced by the flood waters which inundated much of coastal Tidewater Virginia.

Court Stella Maris 1881, Catholic Daughters of America was instituted March 3 in Star of the Sea Parish, Virginia Beach. The group is headed by Mrs. Anthony Thomas of 203 Belle Haven Drive, Lynnhaven.

There are now more than 1,100,000 Americans alive today who have been cured of cancer. Twenty-five years ago there was only 160,000.

CROSSES ONE CANNOT SHRUG OFF
St. Matthew 27:32

It is interesting to note that our happiness can be destroyed or severely limited by someone or something which doesn't lend itself to blending with our approach to life. In other words, we may very well think one thing about ourselves, about our abilities, about our worth to society, and our neighbors, and so on; and someone else may have a different idea concerning us. All of us have had experience in this area, and we know that this is one of the many crosses from which there is no escape. The problem becomes, then, not that such a situation will exist, but how we behave when we become aware of it. Remember the ancient Biblical story of Haman and Mordecai?

Haman had immense and rapid success. He had climbed so high that he was one of the greatest men in the Persian empire next to King Xerxes himself. And every day brought some new token of power to Haman, every day gave some new evidence of his royal favor. He could boast of how he had been advanced above all his rivals, above all the princes and servants of the king.

But human nature is contrary. There seems to be always something else that is necessary to make the cup runneth over. One other dignity, one extra pleasure or possession. There is always a black spot in the sunshine that so bothers a person that he cannot see the golden rays. Haman's pride had been wounded by the neglect of a man named Mordecai, who refused to bow down before him and do him reverence. Now Haman could easily have crushed Mordecai with a command, yet the insult had so mortified his pride that he could not be content with merely punishing him. Haman would involve the whole race of Mordecai.

Now Haman received another sign of his greatness. He and he alone had been invited with the King to Queen Esther's banquet. Haman had come home with a singing heart to tell the great news to his family and friends. But there at the gate was Mordecai! Now it wasn't only when he came out of the palace and saw the patient Mordecai, that choked Haman with anger. He took it home with him. It had become a mote in his eye, and look where he would, the mote was there. There was no sun, no stars at night, no comfort of him life, no blessings at all, so deeply had Haman's pride been hurt.

How might a man be happy with such good fortune! Yet all the splendor of court favor, the richness of the king's gifts, could not take away the silent insult that Mordecai had not bowed down to him. This took all the sap out of his pleasure. He had everything, but one little thing, one man did ruin everything. "All this availeth me nothing so long as I see Mordecai the Jew sitting at the gate."

Haman. Poor wretched Haman!
He hurt himself more by his hatred than he could possibly hurt Mordecai. He lost perspective, lost his sense of values.

So, would it not be wisdom to bear our crosses stoutly; otherwise they will crush us to the ground.

The Christian ethic of LOVE, of a suffering love for other people, can supply us with a buoyancy that will equip us with the strength to carry any cross.

"Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God, our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power both now and forever."

The story of the Palms

There were hundreds of trees along the Bethany Road. But no one noticed them. People were hastening over those last few miles, bound for Jerusalem to celebrate the feast.

Then the King passed by. A gentle Galilean with kind, sorrowful-eyes — riding to His coronation.

People cheered and shouted Hosanna. Some laid cloaks on the dusty roadway. And then, someone discovered the trees . . . beautiful palms that had stood unnoticed. Their graceful branches became the carpet of the King!

And when men sought a name for that triumphal Sunday, they named it for the palms. It is a day for discovering the spiritual beauty God has planted along the road of life — a day to worship our King.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four vital reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

TID-BITS

By DARLA SUE DESKINS

Friday evening, April 6, saw the annual Surf Queen Ball once again gracing the beach gymnasium. The theme for the dance was "Enchanted Forest." Needless to say the queen looked enchanted as she reigned over her subjects. Miss Louise Rainey was the lovely queen who was chosen by the entire student body. Other girls up for the royal office were: Tobe Falconer, Judy Brown, Cheryl Erhard, Billi Carol Sawyer, Becky Parnell, and Debbie Chappell. The field was narrowed down to the three possibilities, Becky Parnell, Louise Rainey, and Debbie Chappell. No one knew who the queen would be (except those who counted the votes) until the night of the big dance. Much twisting, and plenty of rock and roll were provided by the Princess Anne band, The Rondells. The dance was a huge success and the queen was indeed very lovely. Congratulations to Louise Rainey the 1962 Surf Queen!

The Seniors are working furiously in preparation for the Blackouts. Plenty of whispering and note passing have been noticed by the underclassmen, but all are aware of the difficulty in keeping a secret as big as the Blackouts. So far word hasn't leaked out, but it's hard to imagine our Seniors holding a secret 'til May 18th. That's the date to circle so you will remember to attend the '62 Blackouts at V.B.H.S.!

There are ten living persons with accurate information on the theme of the Jr. Sr., but these ten just aren't talking. These mighty ten will head the committee for the big dance to be held May 5th at the convention center. Applications for bids will go in at the beginning of next week. Pity those souls who have not provided sufficient funds for the treasury — they should have paid their dues!

Darla's Darlin': Make your goals high not low. Then you will have to reach instead of stoop.

The MIXING BOWL...
IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food fads and fables... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

The creative woman accepts the planning of Lenten meals as a challenge to her ability and ingenuity. She may be a young and inexperienced cook or an older woman with years of cooking to her credit, but regardless, she likes to use her imagination in preparing food. And her imagination is never more needed than during these meatless days. She knows, of course, that the first step in planning the main dish is the selection of a suitable substitute for meat.

Here, the principle requirement is high protein content in order to supply nutritive needs and provide a feeling of satisfaction as well. Fish, eggs and cheese are good choices because they are high in complete protein. Other protein foods may be used, but need to be supplemented with milk or cheese to give high quality protein.

The next step is to add other ingredients which will enhance the flavor of the basic ingredients to make an appetizing dish. And last, the choice of ingredients and arrangement of them must result in an attractive appearance. One ingredient that can be counted on to contribute flavor, texture, food value and attractiveness is pickles.

A wise cook always has a few jars of different kinds of pickles in the cupboard to meet emergencies. She knows that pickles are necessary accompaniments to many foods; however, more and more in recent years pickles are being used as important ingredients in many recipes. In addition to all their other qualities, pickles are economical.

Pickles can be especially helpful in perking up meatless meals. Here are two pickle ways to try during Lent.

Tuna Burgers with Pickles
(Makes 8 servings)
2 7-oz. cans tuna, drained
1 1/2 cups chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped sweet gherkins
1 1/2 cups mayonnaise
Salt and pepper to taste
8 hamburger rolls, split in half
1/4 cup water
1 10 1/2-oz can condensed cream of mushroom soup.
Diced sweet gherkins
Combine tuna, celery, chopped pickles, mayonnaise, and salt and pepper; mix well. Top bottom halves of hamburger rolls with tuna mixture. Bake bottom and tops of rolls in a moderate oven (350°) 10 to 15 minutes. Combine water and condensed soup; mix well. Cook over low heat to serving temperature, stirring occasionally. Garnish top of buns with diced gherkins. Serve mushroom sauce with tuna burgers.

Cheese-Pickle Souffle
(Makes 4 servings)
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk
3 egg yolks, beaten
1 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
1/2 cup diced sweet mixed pickles
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
Melt butter or margarine; blend in flour, salt and pepper. Gradually add milk and cook over low heat until melted. Slowly stir in a small amount of sauce into egg yolks. Add to remaining sauce. Add pickles. Whites. Pour into 2-quart casserole. Make in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven (350°) for one hour, or until set.

Club Tuna Loaf
1/2 lb. wide noodles (broken) (4 1/2 cups)
6 hard-cooked eggs
2 7-oz. cans Tuna, coarsely flaked
1 cup sauteed fresh sliced mushrooms
1/2 cup minced onion
1/2 cup pickle relish
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup flour
About 2 teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons meat sauce (any bottled sauce that is thin)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups canned chicken broth
2 cups milk
1 5-oz. pkg. crushed potato chips or cracker crumbs
Cook noodles in salted boiling water. Cook uncovered, stirring often with fork until tender about 10 minutes. Drain, rinse in boiling water. Drain. To them add eggs, tuna, mushrooms, onions and pickle relish gently. Mix, set aside, while you melt butter in saucepan, now add flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Blend in and slowly add broth and milk stir until thickened. Add sauce to tuna and gently toss to mix well. In a greased pan 13x9x2, spread thin layer of potato chips, rest of tuna and top with rest of chips. Bake in moderate oven (375°) for 45 minutes. It can be made the day before you serve it, just store in refrigerator, remove just before baking time. Serve with lemon wedges. Serves about 12.

The Friendly Genie

This muscular gentleman might be mistaken for a main event wrestler if he were wearing trunks instead of flowing drapery. He is, however, a Chinese "Guardian King" or "Lokapala" of the sixth century A.D., a figure which guarded the four points of the compass around Buddhist caves and temples. Although friendly to worshippers, he had the power to terrify the bravest of evil spirits. This Lokapala from the caves of Lung Men may be either the Guardian of the North called "One Who Hears Much" or the Guardian of the West called "Large Eyes." He now watches over the Oriental Gallery of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in Richmond.

Do Doctors Dodge House Calls?

No physician will ever refuse to visit a patient who should not be moved, but most doctors today prefer to see people in their offices, if the patients are able to come in. Why is this so? Here is a report on the reasons why you may be having trouble getting your doctor to come when you think you need him.

Harry Golden on Reading ... page 12

Harry Golden is one of America's best known and most beloved wrist slappers. This month he explores the world of books in honor of National Library Week. Reading, says Mr. Golden, is a partnership; like any other, you get as much out of it as you put into it. And, he adds, once you've formed this partnership, you can never again be poor.

A Bid for Happiness ... page 16

"Husbands and Wives Can Play Bridge Together," say famous partners Tobias Stone and Al Roth—if couples will only learn how to speak to each other in "bridge," a new language. The authors outline some of the basic principles all married people who play bridge together should know and end with a quiz for reconciled (they hope) partners.

The Twain Do Meet ... page 18

What is it like to include a stranger in your intimate family life for a year? The William Averys of Glen Ellyn, Illinois, are finding out. They are hosts this year to Sharaf Rahman, a high-school exchange student from Karachi, Pakistan. Sharaf is learning much about life in the United States from the Avery family, and they, too, are finding the experience enriching and one that they will never forget.

Laura Joan Allen

The very young lady our cover artist, Miss Allen, depicts is engaged in one of a girl's earliest pleasures. After all, what is better than watching the drops stream down the windowpane and you inside, snug and warm, waiting for the rain to stop and for dolly to wake up from her nap so the two of you can go out to play?

GETTING AROUND

... to Our Pleasant Places and People

IN HONOR of the occasion—and it won't be long now, will it—the local tax people in Mesquite, Texas, have put up a notice by their parking lot that reads hospitably: "Reserved for Taxpayers—Unloading."

Right around this time, in Woburn, Massachusetts, future first-graders take part in a program that has done quite a lot to ease the fright and confusion many children go through on their first day at school. The children visit the Woburn elementary school in the spring, well before their moments to complete, was, says Mr. Shaw, a pleasant change from transcribing trials. He's going to present the three-volume work to the New York Public Library for its shorthand section.

For the benefit of everyone who has been puzzled by it, our Doraville, Georgia, correspondent looked into the matter of the sign reading "Beware of Woman." "Woman," reports our Mr. Earle Grant, greatly relieved, "is the name of the dog that lives in the house."

The First National Bank in Loveland, Colorado, set out a bowl of small coins where hurried bank customers could make their own change for parking meters. After two weeks, the bank counted the money in its bowl. It was one cent over.

A sign on a church in Shelby County, Tennessee, reads: "Trespassers will be forgiven."

Mrs. Florence Blanchard, of Duxbury, Massachusetts, writes to tell us about a recent trip to the zoo with nine-year-old Nancy. Nancy was enjoying the excursion very much until they came to a cage labeled "Rhino." She stopped, took a good, long look, and scowled at the lethargic animal. "You," she said bitterly, "if it hadn't been for you, I would have got 100 in spelling yesterday!"

September registration, go on a tour of the buildings, watch their older friends in classes, and stay for lunch. The bell-ringing system is also explained. The program, says Miss Bertha Bane, supervisor of elementary education, saves time, tears, and tantrums in September.

Nobody believed the speed offender in Santa Monica, California, who said his name was "Safety First," but sure enough, there it was on his driver's license—Mr. Safety First, aged 67.

Mr. James Shaw, court reporter in Warren and Morris Counties, New Jersey, has recently finished transcribing the Bible into Pitman shorthand. This stupendous job, which took him 10 years of spare

Near San Mateo, California, there's a young man who insists on marching in any picket line, no matter what the cause, carrying a big sign that simply reads, "Shame." "I figure that covers everything," he says, "and it gives me a feeling of belonging."

"Women don't hire help any more," muses Mrs. C. L. Dahlstrom, who lives in Forest Park, Georgia; "they marry it."

We hear there's a St. Bernard named Sam in Boulder, Colorado, that insists on catching the dog catcher. Three times in two months Sam hopped into the front seat of the dog-catcher's truck, and wouldn't budge till they got to the pound: Each time he got a new owner.

The Long Island Rail Road is once again opening its "Splashing Commuters' Umbrella Bank" for those who ride back and forth these April days from Nassau and Suffolk Counties, New York. The umbrellas, all of which were lost on trains during the previous year, are racked up in front of the information booth at the line's Jamaica station and may be borrowed by anyone caught out in the rain. There are more than 500 available on easy terms: "No notes to sign, no interest to pay, just help yourself, but return someday."

Although some of our best-known artists live in the Greens Farms, Connecticut, area, it is the creative work of the town's children that was represented in the International Art Show recently held at Bulawayo Teachers College in Southern Rhodesia. At the college's request, Greens Farms' art teacher Burt Chernow selected more than 100 of his pupils' best paintings and drawings to represent us in southern Africa.

A filling station near Suffern, New York, has an emergency truck which bears the legend, "Call us at any hour. We are always on our tows."

Here's a tip from an Oak Lawn, Illinois, reader that makes the best sense in the world to us. She writes about Mr. Vernon Y. Leach, who narrowly escaped death twice in as many days—once in a plane crash and once in an automobile accident. The first time, engine trouble forced Mr. Leach to land his plane in an orchard. The plane was damaged, but he walked away uninjured. The next day, he swerved his car and jammed on the brakes to avoid an accident. The car flipped over, but Mr. Leach crawled out without a scratch. Both times, says Mr. Leach, he escaped because he was securely strapped in by a seat belt. We think no moving vehicle should be without them.

Calories Don't Count!

News about a revolutionary reducing plan, based on biochemical research, and now available for the first time in a new book

UNBELIEVABLE — but true! Eating fat can make you slim — it isn't how many calories you consume that matters, but what kind of calories. The inclusion of polyunsaturated fatty acids in your diet is the essential step toward loosening the body's long-stored fat. It is the key to your losing only excess fat rather than vital body tissue.

In his just-published book, CALORIES DON'T COUNT, Dr. Herman Taller explains the principles behind this new theory of the body's chemistry — and tells you in full detail:

1. How to eat three full meals a day and lose weight safely
2. Why you must never leave the table hungry if you want to be slim
3. How you can eat heartily while those extra inches disappear
4. Why you may eat fried foods every day and keep slim — what kind of fats to fry them in
5. What foods (this includes the greatest surprise of all to people who have suffered through calorie-counting diets) you should avoid
6. Why large portions of meat, fowl, or sea food are essential to your slimming program
7. Sample recipes including pot roast, fried chicken, cheese cake and mayonnaise

The story back of Dr. Taller's radical new method for losing inches without starvation

Dr. Herman Taller is a gynecologist and obstetrician who became interested in theories of obesity for personal reasons when he himself weighed 265 pounds. After hungry years of unsuccessful experimenting with standard calorie-counting diets he happened to take part in an anti-cholesterol experiment which involved adding a specific kind of fat to his diet. To the astonishment of Dr. Taller and the researchers involved, he found himself fastening his belt on a tighter notch, discovered that his clothes were becoming too big. He found himself adding calories and losing weight. Was this some fluke? Would it work for others?

With mounting excitement Dr. Taller began spending all his spare time in the medical libraries, reading everything that existed on obesity and metabolism. He discovered no clues, until one day he came upon an article by the late Dr. Alfred W.

Pennington which contained the first glimmer, the first specific evidence to explain what was happening to him. He determined to proceed from Dr. Pennington's beginnings to work out a program that would solve the "diet problem" once and for all.

After painstaking research he put his program into practice on a group of 93 problem dieters with extraordinary success. Today patients from all over the country come to Dr. Taller for treatment. And his principles have won ever widening interest in the medical field. In the preface to his book he writes:

"The concept this book advances is revolutionary. Perhaps all I need say in support of my new nutrition principle is that it works... This new principle is based on new knowledge — a medical breakthrough, so to speak. Before proceeding, I think it is wise to warn you that this breakthrough is so dramatic that it will probably invalidate all you know, or think you know, about the cause and the treatment of obesity."

Eat steak, french fried potatoes, and lose weight safely

Revolutionary indeed. Following Dr. Taller's 14-point plan, you will be free from the discouragement — to say nothing of the danger — of the endless chain of diet-gain-diet-gain. And you will be free from the crash diets that more often than not result in a gaunt face (easier for the calorie-starved body to break down vital tissue than hard long-stored excess fat) while anaesthetic bulges remain.

With Dr. Taller's new plan — specifically directed at breaking down and burning excess fat, you eat well (even piecrust and french fried potatoes) — never know the pangs of hunger, and lose not just pounds but, specifically, the bulges you want to lose in order to be pleased with your image in the mirror and the fit of your clothes. And you stay slim.

It is a simple plan. But its rules, though easy to follow, are specific. They are clearly outlined in Dr. Taller's book, CALORIES DON'T COUNT. Read it and liberate yourself, once and for all, from both starvation and overweight.

Are Suburban Doctors Dodging House Calls?

BY JOHN DRIVER

Or if patients today are able to drive or be driven, are there sound reasons for them

DR. NEWMAN had just risen from his 7:30 a.m. breakfast and was reaching for his little black bag when the telephone rang.

"Doctor," said the worried caller, "my husband just had some kind of seizure. He looks like death, and he can hardly breathe. Can you come right away?"

"I'll be there in 15 minutes, on my way to the hospital," said Dr. Newman, after asking a couple of quick questions. "Keep him still, and don't give him anything."

Before the doctor got the front door open, the telephone shrilled again.

"Doctor," said the worried caller, "Betsy is sick. She threw up her breakfast, and her temperature is over 100. Can you come right away?"

"Give her a little warm milk to replace the lost breakfast," said Dr. Newman, after asking a couple of quick questions. "Then, about 10:30, wrap her up warmly and bring her down to my office. I'll see her as soon as I get in from the hospital."

Why did Dr. Newman visit one patient and not the other? Since that identical question is bothering a lot of people who've had recent experience of illness in the household, I thought I'd put it bluntly to the man best able to answer it. Word for word, this is what Dr. Newman (for ethical reasons, he won't let me use his real name) told me:

"From the first woman's answers to my questions, I suspected that her husband had had a dangerous heart attack. As it turned out, he had. The other woman's answers told me that Betsy probably had nothing worse than a mild upset, and indeed, when I saw her at the office later, she'd almost recovered."

"You're saying, aren't you, that not all house calls are necessary, doctor?"

"I'd rather put it a little differently," said Dr. Newman. "Most people who ask for house calls think they're doing the right thing. But whether they are or not is a matter of medical judgment. If a child's running a temperature, it's natural for his mother not to want to take him out if it's raining. And, to an adult with aching bones and a splitting head, lying down and waiting for the doctor is a much more attractive proposition than getting the car out and driving to the doctor's office. But here at my end, I happen to know that the trip will be harmless and that I can help both patients sooner and better at the office than I can at their homes later in the day."

Suburban patients at a disadvantage

Many people, though, believe that the issue is simpler than physicians will admit. They think doctors dodge house calls. They think, moreover, that in the suburbs patients are at a special disadvantage. City people, they say, are used to going to doctors' offices. They're plentiful and close at hand. Manhattan has a doctor to every 250 inhabitants, San Francisco one to every 374. "Whereas," says a Nassau County, New York, resident with a touch of resentment, "we have one to 800. And I've read that in many small towns in the South and the Midwest, it's one to 1,200 or more. With us, it's not just a matter of taking the elevator down to the ground floor of the apartment building where we live. The round trip to my doctor's office takes all of 30 minutes."

Here are a few of the complaints I've heard in recent weeks:

■ "When I told my doctor my son had a temperature of 104 degrees, he said: 'Give him a couple of aspirins and bring him in!'"

■ "The doctor just flatly told me he didn't make house calls. He said that if I got to his office by 5 o'clock he'd see me. But at 5 sharp, he said, the door would be locked. I did finally locate a doctor who agreed to come. And he did—at 10 o'clock that night."

■ "When I asked him to visit my wife, the doctor said: 'It sounds like flu. Tell her to stay in bed and take plenty of hot drinks. If she doesn't feel better tomorrow, run her down here and we'll see if a shot will help.'"

■ "I explained to the doctor's nurse that I was over 60 and didn't have a car. She said: 'All I can suggest is that you call a cab.'"

■ "My son gashed his knee badly on the garden swing. The doctor told me to drive him round to the hospital emergency room. 'I have an office full of patients,' he said, 'and your kitchen is no place for surgery anyway.'"

It's only fair to report some contrasting complaints I've picked up from the doctors:

An overworked pediatrician was called at three in the morning by a woman who said her 18-month-old son had swallowed a coffee-can key. "I was just rolling out of bed," he said wryly. "When I asked: 'What was he doing with a coffee-can key at three a.m.?' She answered: 'Oh, he off by Dr. Phoebe Hudson, a pediatrician who has a suburban practice in Westwood, New Jersey.

In his office, the doctor has better equipment than he can carry in his bag to help a sick child.

"House calls, for the most part, are as outdated as the horse and buggy," wrote Dr. Hudson in Medical Economics, a journal circulated to doctors only. "They're a leftover from the days when most people didn't have cars. Nowadays, they're just a bad habit that more physicians should break."

Dr. Hudson backed up her opinion with these arguments:

For one thing, she said, a house call is often a waste of the patient's money. In many cases, he still has to come in to the office later. If he'd come in the first place, he'd have saved money.

Furthermore, house calls waste the doctor's time. "As long as patients come to me, I hum along on schedule," she noted.

Doctors of two minds

The clincher, in Dr. Hudson's view: House calls are medically unwise. "I can do a much better job in my office," she wrote, "where I can use my laboratory facilities, take an X ray if necessary, and even call in my partner for a free consultation."

Was Dr. Hudson teeing off on patients—or, since she's a pediatrician, on parents? Not a bit of it. Her bolts were aimed at fellow physicians!

"It's doctors," she charged, "not patients, who propagate the house-call tradition. Many M.D.s like to think of themselves as old-time practitioners—the type usually pictured stumbling through the snow to save a life. Any other image, they're afraid, will strike patients as too cold, too efficient. What these doctors don't realize is that most patients are pretty well-adjusted to modern times. And most of them wouldn't expect house calls if their doctors took time to educate them instead of answering every summons with 'I'll be there.'"

Support for the embattled baby doctor was soon forthcoming. A Westchester, New York, doctor told The New York Times: "In my office I can see four, maybe five, patients in an hour. A house call can take me an hour and a half. Does it make sense, unless there is some reason why the patient shouldn't be moved?" And in the same newspaper on the same day, a physician in Fairfield County, Connecticut, said he believed "75 per cent of house calls could be treated, and probably better, in the office."

Among the comments from other doctors:

"I've cut down on house calls since I discovered that many of my house-call patients—even the elderly ones—were having no trouble getting to dinner, to church, or to visit their friends."—Dr. R. J. Lovett, Syracuse, N.Y.

"When a parent gripes about the trip, I use this argument: 'If I decided your child had to be hospitalized, you wouldn't question my judgment, would you? Why question it about a house call?'"

"You take your car to the garage because that's where your mechanic has all his best facilities. Why not bring the patient where the doctor has all his best facilities?"—Dr. T. J. Albertowicz, Richland, Wash.

Not that those agreeing with Dr. Hudson had it all their way. Plenty of doctors said she was off the beam. Dr. S. M. Papperman of Paramus, New Jersey, wrote to his local paper, the Bergen County Record: "I have found that patients by and large are a pretty well-educated group and will ask for a house call when the patient is pretty darned sick and cannot go to the office easily." And another suburban doctor of long experience looked at it this way: "If you get a distraught mother on the wire and she thinks her child is terribly ill, even if you know he isn't, there's only one thing to do in my opinion—go."

As the doctors went their busy ways, the battle raged on. Two of the more outspoken critics of Dr. Hudson's thesis wrote: "If more doctors would learn to use their five senses instead of calling for laboratory tests and consultations, they could do a good job even above the din of the average household. What's more, a doctor can learn a great deal about the patient by observing him in his home."—Dr. Julius H. Manes, Bennington, Vt.

"Let's face it. Personal comfort and financial gain are the only things that stop most doctors from making house calls. The excuse that you can't examine a patient properly in the home is a lot of malarkey."—Dr. Frederick M. Walsh, Long Beach, Calif.

Dr. Spock's view

It was inevitable, perhaps, since the ruckus was triggered by a pediatrician, that the most famous baby doctor in the entire U.S. should be called in to umpire. A call went out to Cleveland Heights, Ohio, for the views of Dr. Benjamin Spock, author of the 13-million-copy best seller Baby and Child Care. Said Dr. Spock, in part:

"There are sound reasons for seeing children in the office. But in the world their mothers grew up in, it was considered the right of a sick person to stay in bed and be seen there by his doctor. And mothers certainly expect this right for their children, whose protectors they are. The time to discuss the house-call issue with a mother is not during what she thinks is a crisis, but in the course of one of her first routine visits to the office. An overwhelming majority of people will respond quite reasonably to reasonable explanations."

As a suburbanite, a parent, and a patient, I'd say the good Dr. Spock had summed up the situation correctly—and not only for tykes but for teen-agers, young marrieds, and older patients, too. The doctor does know best, but, if he's a wise man, he'll choose the right time to blow the whistle on you for calling him out.

When you get to the heart of the matter, that's what most family doctors actually do. Even Dr. Hudson, who admits: "Sure, I make some house calls. Croup, convulsions, and certain types of accident bring me on the double. Sometimes I go out just as a favor to a special patient."

So for all the argument, house calls are still being made, even in the far reaches of the suburbs—but only on doctor's orders.

to come to the office instead?

swallowed it yesterday afternoon. But I've been lying awake thinking, and I guess something ought to be done about it."

Again, a doctor ruefully tells of visiting a new patient and noticing six bottles of medicine beside the bed. All had been prescribed by another local practitioner. The sick man said: "Sure, Dr. Jones was here just this afternoon. But I felt it might make sense to get another opinion."

"Two years ago," reports a Los Angeles physician, "I answered an urgent call to a man who said he was in great pain. When I got out of my car at the address he gave me—in a quiet, and dark, residential street—I was knocked senseless. When I came to, I found my bag had been ransacked. Checking things over later, I realized that my agonized caller was a narcotics addict desperate for morphine."

Drawbacks of house calls today

From La Jolla: "I was once the fifth doctor to respond to a call to a pregnant girl said to be dying. She'd fainted from the pressure of a girdle she was too vain to leave off. The neighbors were extra helpful in rounding up medical aid."

A doctor in Newton, Massachusetts, recalls: "My father practiced the last 20 years of his life wearing a spinal brace. He was driving home half asleep in the small hours when he smacked his car into a tree. A lifesaving journey? Oh, no. The patient had just had too much to drink."

Doctors themselves are sharply divided on the pros and cons of house calls. Last summer, a headline-hitting debate on the topic was touched

How to Open a Book—and Why

Author of "Ready in America," "For Big Plain," "Enjoy, Enjoy."

A great reader discusses bad reading habits and tells, with relish, what to do about them

EDITORS' NOTE: We've got a surprise for Harry Golden.

"Why don't Americans read?" he wants to know. Our answer is, "We do—in the suburbs." (In a recent survey, one third of the suburban families interviewed belonged to book clubs!)

Here, for National Library Week, April 8-15, is a favorite author's tribute to books, and for us readers especially, it's good to hear him tell it.

READING IS A JOY, but not an unalloyed joy. Books do not make life easier or more simple, but harder and more interesting.

Reading is a partnership. Like any partnership, you get as much out of it as you put into it. Some partnerships are profitable, some just dead horses. Unlike most partnerships, however, reading is not the sort of joint venture which must show profits nor does it even have to chart its volume. One book a year is sufficient—provided it is the right book; and by the right book I mean a book the reader understands and assimilates.

I would like to consider why we Americans do not wish to enter into the partnership. The truth of the matter is, we do not read books. Take the case of Boris Pasternak's "Dr. Zhivago," one of the most popular books of the last decade. In America it sold over half a million copies. Those sales were a foregone conclusion—and I mean no disrespect to either the publishers or to Boris Pasternak—because the book was a psychological break in the cold war, a novel which recreated the deterioration of moral life under the Soviet regime; and Khrushchev made a public-relations mistake in condemning it. But once bought, a good portion of those half-million American copies of "Dr. Zhivago" simply decorated coffee tables until they were consigned to the shelves.

It is true we publish more books than ever before, but this is not an encouraging sign, considering the books. Half are "self-help" books dedicated to teaching people how to feed a husband, set a table, play bridge, or turn a neurosis into a profitable occupation, and another third are "nothing" books, memoirs of the personality or starlet who is "hot" at the moment.

As Jimmy Durante would say, "These are the conditions that prevail," and I think it is worthwhile to understand them.

There are several reasons why we do not read, and chief among them is the fact that we are poorly educated. For too long we have been trying to educate our children on the charity of underpaid teachers, and, as a consequence, our teachers are no better than they have to be. Teachers do not find time to deal with the world of literature, only with the required reading list on the absurd daily-lesson plan. Even our colleges rarely produce bilingual graduates the way every grammar school in Europe does.

Another reason advanced for not reading is that we haven't time. Translated roughly, this probably means that science has overcome us with the affliction of gadgetry and the economy with the affliction of compulsive buying, both of which do consume time and conspire to keep the better part of ourselves from influencing the poorer part. Not having time is a meaningless excuse since it is obvious that we prefer idleness to improvement.

NEITHER the English yeoman nor the Midwestern pioneer had much time or schooling. Both, however, could quote chapter and verse from the Bible. Once every Jewish peddler knew every gloss in the Mishnah. But few Jews and few Christians today know their Book. If the Old and the New Testament were not read during services in synagogue and church, most people would have no idea of prophecy or revelation.

Which, of course, reveals the overpowering reason why we do not read: basically we are losing faith in the future and in ourselves.

Please do not confuse my cynicism with my own love of books and, I might add, my understanding of the role books have played in the progress of our civilization and in our daily lives.

Reading is the discipline which leads to self-thinking. What we absorb by reflection becomes part and parcel of our mental processes. Our history has shown that the bookish men have given us the best government, beginning with Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, who were two of the most widely read men in the English-speaking world of their day, or of any day for that matter.

I was fortunate to have acquired the habit of reading when still a very little boy. And once you acquire this habit you begin to absorb words the way a sponge takes water, and the results are just as refreshing.

To acquire some of the culture of our civilization we must read the Bible above any other book; and a few of Shakespeare's plays—"Hamlet," "The Merchant of Venice," "Macbeth," "A Midsummer Night's Dream"; "Don Quixote" by Cervantes; Plutarch's "Lives"; and Hugo's "Les Misérables."

I agree that if you are a student you should have some knowledge of Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," Lecky's "History of European Morals," and Hume's "History of England," but do not let the snobs frighten you. Just dip into the footnotes of these books or, better still, get a copy of Henry Thomas Buckle's "History of Civilization in England," which I consider of particular value.

Keep Emerson's "Miscellanies" at your side, and Carl Sandburg's one-volume "Lincoln." Then there are a few novels and other works. But buy your own inventory, too. Once you've formed the partnership, you can never again be poor.

Husbands And Wives Can Play Bridge Together

BY AL ROTH AND TOBIAS STONE

It's a simple matter of communication, these famous

DOES YOUR HUSBAND yell at you when you don't return his suit? Does he frown on your becoming declarer at no-trump contracts? Does he growl when you fail to lead through strength, or when you forget "second hand low, third hand high"?

Well, if it has reached the point where you are underbidding to compensate for his overbidding, where you shake with fright at the thought of leading from an honor, where you keep your head buried in your cards because, if you look up, you just know he'll be glaring at you, then it's pretty sure that you and your husband are no longer playing as partners in your regular bridge games.

It is our firm belief that bridge is a partnership game, and we also believe that husbands and wives can and should play bridge together. There!

So first and foremost, there must be a fresh outlook, a new attitude toward bridge. You can't treat it like a game of gin rummy or poker. In these games you're on your own, every man for himself, whereas in bridge everything is a question of teamwork, of cooperation with your partner in all phases of the game. Forget the past. Start fresh as equals. And let neither man nor wife pull rank at the bridge table.

Some hard cases may scoff at these ideas, saying (or anyway thinking) it's all a beautiful dream and that marital bliss and success can't go this far. But in our world of tournament bridge, we know there are many outstanding husband-and-wife pairs that rank with the best and have had remarkable tournament success.

OUR OWN Roth-Stone partnership developed over a period of 20 years. Our system went through numerous changes before it reached the stage where it covered all our present bidding conventions and partnership understanding. Naturally, a husband and wife cannot expect to learn overnight all the facets of the complex game of bridge, but the development of their own partnership through trial and error can create a new field of interest. There'll be no room for boredom.

TO MOST, bridge is like a new language. When people converse in different tongues, misunderstandings arise, and the same goes for bridge. This new language is one of agreement. When you and your partner achieve this understanding, all bids and plays will be self-explanatory, regardless of inflection or demeanor at the table. No longer will it be necessary to whisper or shout your bids, depending on the weakness or strength of your hands. In fact, to quote the Proprieties and Laws of Contract Bridge, they say, in part:

"A player should refrain from calling with special emphasis, inflection or intonation or passing or doubling with exceptional haste or reluctance."

Needless to say, in helping you to launch a new partnership it would be in-partners explain

appropriate to give you too many rules and conventions. Our feeling is that confidence in your partner is the backbone of the game, so we'll suggest only a few principles in which we strongly believe, to help you and your mate along the road to bridge success:

1. Sound opening bids. On the basis of A=4 points, K=3, Q=2, J=1, opening bids of one in a suit should include at least 14 points, of which there must be a minimum of 11 in high cards. (In other words, never count more than three points for distribution—singletons, voids, etc.) Any hand that does not include a minimum of either one ace or two kings should not be opened. The discerning reader will sense that we are stressing the value of aces and kings and playing down queens and jacks. This is exactly the way we feel, and as you gain experience you will begin to understand the reason behind this evaluation.

2. Five-Card Major Openings. An opening bid of one heart or one spade guarantees five cards or more in the suit bid. One of the main goals in bridge is reaching good major-suit game contracts, and for these contracts to be sound and playable at least eight cards in the suit should be held by you and partner. An immediate awareness of a proper trump suit is important. The responder to the opening one-heart or one-spade bidder now has an advantage. He can handle even weak hands with greater confidence. Players—even experienced ones—who open four-card majors have their problems. The responder always has doubts during the auction as to his proper bid—whether to raise his partner at some point, bid no trump or a new suit. The more doubts that can be eliminated, the more confidence you will acquire in your playing.

If, then, a hand qualifies for an opening bid of one in a suit but contains no major suit of five cards or longer, it must be opened in a minor suit—if necessary, a three-card minor, preferably headed by an honor.

3. Lower-suit Response at Two-Level to Partner's Opening Bid. For example:

Partner	You	Partner	You

For this two-level response you should have a minimum of 10 points in high cards. This is probably very similar to what you have been playing.

Where we differ is in our second and perhaps more important requirement: The two-over-one responder, whether a passed hand or not, guarantees that he will bid again (unless opener bids game or slam directly). Here again we feel the strength of this rule lies in the confidence it inspires. No longer does the opening bidder have to make unnatural and unwarranted jumps and forcing bids in fear that partner may pass in the middle of the auction.

4. Overcalls. We advocate sound overcalls, based on: (a) the equivalent of opening bids; (b) five-card or longer suits. (These requirements should be increased or reduced slightly depending on the vulnerability and the level of bidding. However, at all times the overcall must be made with a game in mind, and it must be able to stand an invitational response by partner.) (c) Overcall an opposing suit bid with one no trump when you have the equivalent of an opening one no-trump bid, with strength in the opponent's suit bid.

5. No-Trump Openings. These require 16-18 high-card points in a balanced hand, i.e., a hand distributed 4-3-3-3 or 4-4-3-2 or 5-3-3-2 with stoppers in at least three suits.

As additional help, we'd like to pass along these tips to help communications:

Plan your second bid before you make your first bid. The opening bid is generally the easiest; the rebid may present problems. If you choose wisely at the start, partner's responses should leave you with a convenient rebid. Try to anticipate partner's likely response and decide on your first bid accordingly.

Too many bids spoil the broth.

Don't be slam-happy. The majority of bridge players, and specifically husbands, get their greatest thrill from bidding and making a slam, especially a grand slam. Indeed, the temptation is so great that far too many slams are bid.

DON'T BE a declarer hog. Good partnerships seek the best contract, regardless of who plays the hand.

Part-scores are important. When the opponents have a partial, players go to great lengths to prevent the conversion of that part-score into a game. It is far more intelligent to compete against the establishment of that part-score, i.e., not to let the enemy make two clubs or the like simply because "they're not bidding game, and you don't want to take the slightest risk with a bid of two spades, or whatever." By competing properly your side will often buy the hand and make the partner score for yourselves, or perhaps drive the opponents overboard.

No bridge article is really complete without a quiz. We think it may be fun for reconciled (we hope) partners to score themselves on the following questions, based on the points introduced in this article.

Answers: 1. (a) Pass. Only one king; no aces. (b) One diamond. No choice. (c) One no trump. Hand has 17 high-card points, stoppers in all suits, balanced distribution. Note that if you open with one club, you have no satisfactory rebid. (d) One spade. Length before strength, allowing for a rebid in hearts. (e) One spade. Has all the requirements—One ace and the point-count.

2. (f) Pass. Too weak for an overcall. (g) One no trump. Describes the hand perfectly. (h) Two diamonds. A full opening bid, with a good suit. (i) Pass. A good suit, but no opening bid in the hand. As you gain experience you will find that you can bid three hearts with this type of hand, as a "weak jump overcall," but this is a specialized bid, and let's walk before we run. (j) Double. If you were stuck, it's not your fault—we didn't discuss this general situation. The double we are recommending is the "take-out" or "informative" double, asking partner to bid his best suit, and the example hand is perfect for this action.

Why longer-lasting Agrico Grass Food gives you a good lawn without making you a slave to it

Your own common sense tells you that a thick, healthy lawn will give you less trouble with crab-grass, weeds, bare spots and other time-stealing problems.

You'll be able to grow a satisfying lawn that's easier to care for by using longer-lasting Agrico Grass Food. Here's why:

First, Agrico Grass Food contains up to 30% more lawn food per bag because it's a Full-Weight fertilizer. It takes this much more plant food to grow a lawn that's not just green, but thick and resilient...supported by deep, vigorous roots.

Second, the nitrogen used—the most important ingredient—is 60% organic. This organic nitrogen in Agrico Grass Food feeds your lawn longer, keeps grass green, healthy after ordinary fertilizers have run out.

Also, there's no danger of burning when you use Agrico. And it's specially formulated to meet your local soil and climate conditions.

Make the sensible choice. Let Agrico Grass Food give you a thick, green lawn that's easier to care for. It goes through any make spreader; settings are on the bag.

Agrico Grass Food and other Agrico Lawn Plan products are available where garden supplies are sold. Made by The American Agricultural Chemical Company, New York 7, N. Y.

SPRINGFIELD, OHIO

Sharaf shows her American "sister" Midge Avery how

Our "Daughter"

The Averys of Glen Ellyn, Illinois, are finding that an exchange student makes a delightful addition to the family

BY EVELYN LAUTER

"TO MY SECOND wonderful family on the earth. This little gift of mine is just to remind you of me in the near future. Your additional member of the family, Sharaf R."

The card that accompanied the delicate oriental fan was written by the 18-year-old Pakistani "daughter" of the William Averys of Glen Ellyn, Illinois, a member of the family they are not likely to forget.

When she came from Karachi to Glenbard High School at the start of this school year, Sharaf Rahman, her luminous dark eyes set deep in a lovely oval face, brought with her the mystery of a far-off land. What she takes back home next summer will be influenced largely by the warmth and understanding of the Averys, with whom she lives as an American Field Service-sponsored student.

The story of how Sharaf came to stay with the Averys dates back to March, 1961, when Mary Madge Avery, called Midge, came home from school with the news that families who wanted a foreign student for the following year could register within the week with the local AFS chapter.

That night the Averys decided to apply. Soon after, a home-finding committee called on the family. They interviewed Mr. Avery, a trade-journal editor; Mrs. Avery, a part-time teacher; Bill, Jr., a sophomore at nearby Elmhurst College; and Midge, 16, a junior at Glenbard.

A warm, closely knit group greeted the investigators who watched for certain signs: Was the Averys' teen-age daughgirls in Karachi wind their beautifully embroidered saris.

ter shy or socially unsuccessful? Was this request for a foreign student a bid for help in that direction? Was family prestige a factor? What did the Averys read? Was bigotry or prejudice apparent anywhere? The complete dossier went on to AFS headquarters in New York, and in June the Averys learned they could have a student.

Through the Kiwanis, the Junior Woman's Club, and the Jaycees, the community raised $650. This fixed cost for every community goes into the general AFS scholarship fund. Some foreign families pay the entire expense; others give what they can. The total includes medical bills and other small expenses.

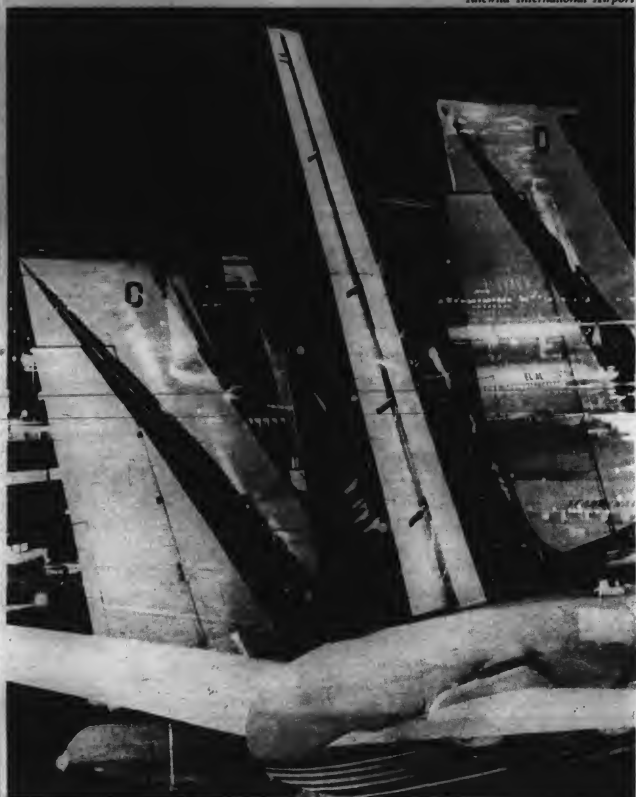

Sharaf arrived in Glen Ellyn before the start of school, and the Averys settled her in a comfortable room on the first floor of their small brown house.

Third eldest in a family of four girls and four boys, Sharaf is the daughter of a Karachi judge and plans to be a lawyer. She lives in a household run by five servants, one of whom works solely for her father. There is, of course, an ayah, the children's nurse, now quite elderly but retained forever as part of the family. At 33, Mrs. Rahman has a 20-year-old son.

THE AVERYS' entire staff consists of a cleaning woman who comes every two weeks. Would this present a problem? It was made clear to the interviewers that Sharaf would be expected to do her share of the chores. She makes her bed and helps with the dishes. When Mrs. Avery brings home an armload of groceries, Sharaf is there as often as Midge to give her a hand. The sight of the cleaning woman driving up in her own car, though, still staggers the visitor a little.

What normally is regarded as discipline Mrs. Avery prefers to call suggestion. As she put it, "We would use real discipline only if the child were in danger of hurting herself. So far we have needed none. We only suggest what is the custom here or what is a good rule to follow. For one thing—that she go to bed at a reasonable hour. At first Sharaf would stay up far into the night, writing letters or watching TV. We suggested she go to bed, and there was no rebellion."

"Brother" Bill Avery, Jr. teaches Sharaf ping-pong.

Daughter

No rebellion, perhaps, because in Karachi the parents are in complete authority. Sharaf says, "At home I am a college sophomore. We finish high school there at 14 or 15. It will take me five years more to become a lawyer."

In Glen Ellyn Sharaf has been allowed to date in a limited way. She has gone to school dances, double-dating with Midge and driving to school with a lad known to be a careful driver.

At home, of course, Sharaf never has had a date. "When a boy sees a girl out in society somewhere he tells his parents, 'I want to marry that girl.' The boy's parents approach the girl's parents and submit his qualifications, details of his work, and his activities. Even though the girl never meets the boy before the wedding, there are very few divorces in Pakistan."

MRS. AVERY SAYS, "Conceivably, foreign students could be spoiled here. Because the students don't know what things cost here, they are not always properly appreciative. In Pakistan, for example, a rose costs a penny. When Sharaf spoke to a Brownie troop here, the little girls gave her a small bouquet. Sharaf didn't realize the cost of it until it was explained to her."

When Mr. Avery is away on business, Sharaf is noticeably subdued. This they attribute to the fact that in Pakistan the strong position of the father provides a sense of security when he is at home.

Sundays the Averys, who are Unitarians, take Sharaf to visit the different churches in the community. There is no mosque in Glen Ellyn, but they took her to Chicago, where there is a Muslim congregation.

The rewards of this year will be many for all the participants. Sharaf says, "I am learning so many things—how the United States government works, how you teach in your schools, how the country looks. Most wonderful of all, though, is the close contact with the family."

As for the Averys, they have learned to eat curry and pilaf and kabobs. They don't have pork or shellfish often because Sharaf may not eat it. "This experience will change our entire point of view," says the head of the house, who dotes on his new daughter. "We will be different after this year. We'll never be insular again."

Keep an Eye on Spring

Beware of siren or bird song, of bee buzz and April rain—it's heady stuff, says this seasoned commuter BY GEORGE OLLIN

SPRING, when it comes to the harassed suburbanite with an income of $8,750 annually and three and one-quarter children, presents something of a problem. In summer it is too hot and muggy to do much of anything but let your money gather interest in the bank. In winter it is too cold for enterprise. Autumn presents an in-between kind of time when one merely waits.

Spring, however, seems to come with a sudden rush to the head; a giddy excitement and a feverish yearning to DO something. This must be fought firmly. Modern man with his lack of physical exercise, his talkative wife, his unfinished bomb shelter, and his serious inflation is in no position to yield to the siren song of spring.

The April rain whispers of deeds to be done, accomplishments to be accomplished, new starts to be made, and old failures to be dissolved. Pay no attention.

Start painting the house if you want to, against my advice. You will never finish it. It just looks easy because it's spring and everything looks easy. All nature conspires to fill you with dry sherry and soggy thinking. The house didn't need painting in the winter, did it? Why should it now? And even if it did, you forgot about it, didn't you? And suppose your wife does nag you about it. If you should ever, by a miracle, get it done, she'll find something else to nag you about, won't she? You can't possibly do all the things she wants you to do this spring. Why start on any of them?

Then there's the car. Runs all right. Wouldn't win any cups in Europe or on the Salt Flats. But it runs. Spring isn't satisfied with that. Spring says you could take it apart and put it together again so that the motor sounds like an electric watch. Dizziness enters the mind. Spring's flattery is seductive. With a "hey, nonny, nonny!" you may well start tinkering. You'll regret it. You are no more capable of improving your car now than you were last summer. You're not even as capable. You're older. Let it be.

It is true the young lady across the fence begins to take her shivery sun baths in interesting bikinis. A mild flirtation certainly seems the order of the April day. And the girl who rides down to work with you many mornings when you pick her up at the bus stop—she seems more congenial, and she looks almost like a new-sprung daffodil. The new secretary seems as promising as the burst of forsythia and will be gone as soon.

Somewhere in your head there commences the notion, prancing and dancing and luring you on . . . the notion that it would be gay and heart-warming to indulge in a bit of harmless friendship with these young things. Beware! These girls are no different from what they were in winter. You are getting the business from taunting spring. Look in the mirror. Outside of that gleam in your eye, you are still the guy who waltzes to a cha-cha and doesn't even dance cheek to cheek with someone who wants to. Give it up.

ANOTHER THING that snares the average man in spring is the problem of new foliage and finery. He sees the Red Emperor tulips bursting forth. He sees the maple in new dress. He regards the beauty of the mountain laurel. So he starts thinking of how dashing and captivating he would look in a new-model suit. After all, the old one is aged three. Take another think. The new suits won't fit you. They're too tight. The lapels are too narrow. Ten years ago, maybe. Not now. Your old suits are good enough. It'll be hot in a few weeks, and you can switch to your drip-dry dacron and cotton. You'll never look as good as a maple tree in fresh leaf or a mountain laurel newly blooming. Not a chance. Quit when you're ahead. All nature is on the side of trees and flowers. All nature is directly opposed to homo sapiens.

A phase of spring dreaming that can be devastating is the illusion brought on by bird song, bee buzz, April rain, lovely sunsets, storm-washed skies, and newness all about. The illusion is that you are young again, capable of great adventure and daring; that you are free and the world is singing your song. I hate to spoil your party, but this is a narcosis due to the natural change in the blood's zippity-do in spring. It is a leftover from the time when man was an animal and frolicked freely in green pastures with centaurs and satyrs, in spring.

You have outgrown the ability, leaving you with only the dream. You are civilized, middle class, patriotic, faithful, and stuck. It has its compensations. (They keep telling me.) On the other hand, you cannot gambol lightly like the lamb or mate casually like the robin. No, no, no.

Finally, there is the adrenal secretion spring stimulates in the middle-class, comfortable-income, slightly portly gent. This chemical reaches his brain on a certain morning in April or May, and it makes him take a solemn oath that his wife is going to have dinner on time for a change, that his children are going to start minding promptly, that his secretary is going to be more efficient, and that he is going to ask for, and get, a raise.

Ignore this ignition of the frontal lobes. Pretend it is as if you had too much at a New Year's Eve party. You are not yourself. You are spring-sodden. You are drunk with flowering almond and Japanese cherry blossoms. Your wife is not going to have dinner on time. She is always going to be tied up at the last hour with telephone calls and visitors and gabby neighbors.

YOUR CHILDREN are not going to run at your bidding. They have hormones, too. If they did not snap to attention in winter, in spring they will be as defiant as the scarlet flowering crab. Nor will your secretary be more efficient. She will be less efficient. In spring she will be dreaming of giving up her dull, tiresome, unromantic job, tied down to an uninspired boss, and trading it for a dull, tiresome, unromantic job being tied down to an uninspired husband. (She doesn't know that's what she's dreaming. She is as tricked by spring as you are.) And you will not get the raise. The boss is cagey enough to know that a springtime demand for a raise is as fleeting as the life of the first butterfly. He will smile and promise to consider it. He knows by June you will be happy to settle for a choice of vacation in August instead of October, which you had to take last year.

No. Beware of spring. Listen not to her honeyed voice. It will all pass, and you will be contented and serene again. Look the other way. Your wife is not so bad. The kids are fun at times. Your secretary does get her work done. You'll get a raise eventually, and you wouldn't know what to do with the bikini wearer if you caught her.

Nothing is going to happen no matter what spring says. This is a law of the universe. Spring has always whispered of impossible happenings, just to foul you up. If you can't fight city hall, how can you fight the universe? Just sit it out, watching the birds and thinking. And be careful not to think of anything in particular.

It will all pass, and you'll be normal in July.

THE DAY LILY

*Blooming anywhere, late and early,
it fills the awkward spots with beauty*

BY JOHN BRIMER

THE DAY LILY is Hemerocallis to botanists and a true friend to gardeners. It is easy to grow, remarkably free from pests and diseases, adaptable to almost every climate, and lovely to look at. It has great color range, beauty of form, and an astonishingly long blooming season. Its habit is to produce from five to 35 or more buds on a stem, with one or two opening each morning and lasting through the day, so the blooming goes on for weeks. Choosing early and late varieties, you can have day lilies in bloom from May (April in warm climates) until early autumn. Heights vary from a bit over a foot to over five feet, with blossoms in many forms and sizes that range from two inches to over 10 across. Some are delightfully fragrant.

Crossbreeding has extended the blooming period as well as introducing a greater range of colors and types. We now have a choice from deepest golden yellow to palest creamy lemon; light apricot or melon hues to deep orange; rich glowing reds to pastel coral-pink; purple that is nearly black, through red-violets to pale orchid pink; and even buff and brown. The newest hybrids may sell for $5 or $25, if stock is scarce, but dependable and beautiful older varieties may be bought for a dollar or less.

Of late years, an increasing number of day lilies have been offered which might better be called "night lilies," since they open late in the day and last into the evening. They are excellent for planting beside a terrace which is used in late afternoon and evening and also for cut flowers for evening parties. Some—for warm climates—are evergreen.

Although day lilies do best in sun or light shade, some flowers will be produced even in heavy shade. If the soil is excessively sandy or all clay, it should be dug out and replaced. In all cases, dig a hole a foot deep and 18 inches wide, filling around the root with a mixture of $\frac{1}{2}$ peat moss to $\frac{1}{2}$ good garden soil, adding a generous pint of dried cow manure or a couple of handfuls of commercial plant food to the mixture. Place the root so that the junction of brown root and greenish leaf base is one to two inches below soil level, with clumps spaced 18 inches to three feet apart.

Water well after planting and thereafter as needed—often in dry climates, but in moist ones only during droughts. From the time the first buds open till blooming is ended, water generously once a week in all regions to produce vigorous plants and large blooms.

Feed, too, just before bloom time and again just about at the end, scratching in a handful or two of commercial plant food around plants and watering it in. If a sprinkler is used, flowers may water spot. Therefore, a soaker or late-day watering is a better method.

Day lilies may be planted at any time from spring onward until about a month before the soil freezes, so you can buy them and pop them in at any time, then wait for results next season. First-year plantings will produce only one to three stems, each with five to more than a dozen buds according to variety, but as the roots increase each year you'll have more stems, more and larger flowers of proper, mature size. Time of bloom varies with the climate, of course; those which bloom in Texas in May will yield flowering a month or more in the northern tier of states.

Because of their vigor and beauty, day lilies are a godsend for awkward spots like turnarounds and roadsides that are usually hard to plant.

We recommend them without reservation as all-season flowers with a more than satisfactory record everywhere in the United States.

Better Ways

Lighting the landscape is more fun than ever—and

THIS SUMMER, more than ever before, you'll be able to enjoy your terrace and garden round the clock. By borrowing some of the techniques used to light and beautify public parks, lighting engineers have now also achieved remarkable results in private exterior decoration by night.

Whether these new lighting plans are adapted to your own back lawn or to the 50 acres of a public park, they are providing more widespread and dramatic effects than anything we have had up to now. For instance:

Few of the hundreds of visitors strolling through Queen Victoria Park in Niagara Falls, Ontario, last June 21 had ever seen the kind of beauty that suddenly enveloped them when the big electric switch was thrown. They had been walking in darkness relieved only by a few stars, the old post lamps along the walks, and the glow of the powerful floodlights playing on the falls in the distance. Then invisible lights flickered on and gradually increased in intensity, and in a moment the visitors found themselves in what appeared to be brightest moonlight. They could see other people walking far off. The towering trees became a luminous, soft-green canopy above them. Flowers were clothed in their own colors. The water of a quiet pond turned into a dark mirror sparkling with images of the surrounding foliage.

The mile-long scene was a breath-taking example of what light, artistically used, can do to make our landscape as beautiful and usable at night as in the day. An increasing number of comparable small-scale examples can be found in gardens throughout North America.

In Connecticut, a cousin of mine illuminates a granite cliff behind his house with four small floodlamps. On a dry spring night, the rock is a great grey bulwark spotted with a few flowers and evergreens. In an autumn rain, it glistens dark and phosphorescent where the lichens creep. In winter, the snow forms patterns in its fissures and along its craggy crown.

In an Ohio garden an old apple tree bathed in soft light casts moving shadows on the lawn. The iris outside a Washington house gleam yellow and violet under the low, hooded light set behind them. A California flower border glows bright around the edges of an indistinct lawn, while near the terrace a small fountain sends streams of sparkling water toward the dark sky.

LIGHTING THE LANDSCAPE is an old idea which has begun to catch on again in the past few years. No census of lighted gardens has been taken, but activity within the electrical industry reflects the growing public interest. For instance, in 1952 there were only five companies which made garden-lighting equipment; now there are dozens. One of the larger equipment manufacturers reports that its sales of fixtures for decorative lighting have risen more than 300 percent in the past three years, and it anticipates an even greater increase in the three years ahead. In many parts of the country, utilities have set up programs to help their customers plan landscape-illumination systems.

Why are these things happening?

One obvious answer is the popularity of modern architecture, with its installation of picture windows and glass walls for indoor-outdoor living. Seen from inside a lighted room more effective—with the new techniques at night, these are black, ugly mirrors, but when the yard beyond is lighted, the glass resumes its daytime transparency.

Another reason is that even the relatively subdued light used in illuminating the landscape makes for greater safety. To city officials, lighting which brings out the beauty of trees, shrubs, flowers, and pools means increased public use of parks and greater park revenues. It can also reduce crime.

Suburban business concerns find that landscaped and illuminated grounds not only catch the public eye, but also meld the large buildings into the surrounding scene and thus help mollify homeowners who object to their presence.

Finally, lighting the landscape is fun for everyone who tries it. There are few happier or easier ways to give vent to the creative urge than to shine a light into a dark tree or on an invisible clump of flowers and see what happens.

The man who is one of today's most far-ranging and stimulating landscape illumination practitioners is a tall, bespectacled Texan named John Watson. He designed the Queen Victoria Park lighting and the equally spectacular lighting for a Dallas historical amusement park. He has also lighted the gardens of homes and commercial buildings in various parts of the continent. To see any one of these—and several millions of people did last year—is to be inspired to duplicate it in a small way yourself.

WALKING THROUGH Queen Victoria Park on a summer night, for instance, you are exhilarated yet relaxed—in another world. Even in winter, the park is magnificent. You are mesmerized by the trees, coated in glistening snow and ice and shrouded fitfully by the bright, billowing fog. It is as if you were suddenly transferred to the center of a giant Wagnerian opera set.

Watson's home-garden scenes have a similar, but less overpowering, effect on the visitor. His usual practice is to fill a garden with cool, bright artificial moonlight that picks out interesting tree trunks, silhouettes others, and creates a network of shadows. Then he injects a few dramatic accents. He spotlights a small statue from two or three sides, or places an oriental pagoda lantern in a prominent position and fits it with a low-wattage light that looks like a flickering flame. In one recently lighted garden he hung hundreds of "fireflies" in the trees.

The first thing Watson does with prospective clients is to invite them to his own home in Dallas. There, in the 50-by-50-foot back yard which he has turned into a Japanese garden, he has installed more than 100 lights, four miles of wiring. Sitting at a switchboard which resembles a church-organ console, he demonstrates the difference between ordinary flat floodlighting and what he calls "planned aesthetic illumination." He turns the lights up high for games, down low for conversation; switches to red for theatrical effects and to apricot to enhance complexions. He can light the entire garden or any feature of it.

Later, when a prospect becomes a customer, Watson makes a detailed study of the landscape to be lighted. The plan he then draws on paper is so carefully worked out that the lights can be installed entirely in the daytime. Only a few minor adjustments need be made after dark. His installa-bee's knees!

Back in the 20's, that remark was a laudatory expression that might be paraphrased in the vernacular of the 60's as —the most! These two modes of expression have nothing in common. But —30's or 60's —there's one cocktail that's common to the cognoscenti and connoisseurs of both eras. Today—as in bygone days—everybody's buzzing about that bonanza of the bar: The Stinger.

The Stinger

1½ oz. brandy, 1½ oz. Cointreau White Creme de Menthe. Shake vigorously with cracked ice and strain into cocktail glass.

The Stinger is only one of many popular, palate-pleasing, present-day cocktails made with Cordials by Cointreau—drinks such as the Side Car or the White Lady. For other fascinating food and drink recipes for entertaining the modern way, write for your free copy of "Courmet's Guide" to Dept. 74

GLAZED CANAPÉS

The glaze on these canapés serves three functions: it is the mark of a professional, it helps retain the freshness of the canapés, and it adds eye-appeal. If the glaze is omitted, the flavor of the canapés will be equally good.

CLEAR GLAZE.—Sprinkle 1 tablespoon (1 env.) unflavored gelatin over ¾ cup water in a bowl. Let stand 5 min. to soften. Pour 1 cup boiling water over softened gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved; chill until slightly thickened.

HOW TO GLAZE CANAPÉS.—Place canapés on cooling racks over large shallow pans. Working quickly, spoon about 2 teaspoons of slightly thickened gelatin over each canapé. Have ready a bowl of ice and water and a bowl of hot water. The gelatin may have to be set over one or the other during glazing to maintain the proper consistency. The gelatin should cling tightly to canapés when spooned over them. Gelatin may be scooped up and reused as it drips from canapés into pan.

WHIPPED BUTTER.—Whip chilled firm butter using an electric mixer at high speed just until butter is fluffy and of spreading consistency.

PROSCIUTTO

Whip ¼ cup spiced peach sirup and 2 tablespoons sieved spiced peach into ½ cup whipped butter. Spread peach butter onto toasted bread diamonds. Top with thin slices of prosciutto ham and garnish with a pimiento-stuffed olive slice, sprinkled with minced parsley. Glaze and chill.

SMOKED SALMON

Mix together 6 sieved hard-cooked eggs, ¼ cup cooked salad dressing, 1 tablespoon tomato paste, 1½ teaspoons lemon juice, and 1 teaspoon salt. Spread onto toasted bread ovals. Top with a thin strip of smoked salmon, rolled and sprinkled with minced parsley, and a pimiento-stuffed olive slice topped with sieved hard-cooked egg white. Glaze and chill.

ROAST BEEF-OYSTER

Whip ½ cup whipped butter, 2 teaspoons crushed tarragon leaves, and ¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper until just blended. Spread onto toasted bread squares. Top with a thin slice of roast beef. Place an olive slice at one corner, sieved hard-cooked egg yolk at the opposite corner, and a slice of smoked oyster in the middle of each canapé. Glaze and chill.

ANCHOVY

Spread toasted bread triangles with whipped unsalted butter. Cover surface with anchovy fillets and top each canapé with half of a pimiento-stuffed olive and a small piece of pickled cauliflower. Glaze and chill. Just before serving, pipe a ribbon of cooked salad dressing over the olive.

DANISH HAM

Whip together ½ cup whipped butter and 2 tablespoons finely chopped pickled walnut. Spread onto toasted bread triangles. Top with a thin slice of Danish ham, a white asparagus tip with a tarragon leaf, and an olive slice. Glaze and chill.

WINE-CHEESE

Whip together ½ cup whipped unsalted butter and 4 teaspoons Roquefort cheese. Spread onto toasted bread rounds. Whip 2 3-oz. pkgs. cream cheese with 2 tablespoons sauternes. Pipe a swirl of the mixture onto each canapé. Roll edges in minced parsley. Top with olive slice and a sprinkling of paprika. Glaze and chill.

GINGER BEEF

TO PREPARE: 10 MIN.

(allow time for marinating)

Boneless beef (tenderloin, sirloin, or rib), cut into 4-in. thin strips ½ cup soy sauce
3 tablespoons honey
1 clove garlic, crushed in a garlic press
2 tablespoons finely chopped crystallized ginger

1. Mix thoroughly the soy sauce, honey, garlic, and ginger; add the meat strips and turn to coat evenly. Marinate at least 30 min., turning meat occasionally.

2. Remove meat strips from marinade. Lace each strip onto a bamboo skewer (soak skewers in water before using). Keep well chilled. To serve, stand the threaded skewers in attractive steins or mugs and set alongside the living-room hibachi so guests may do their own grilling.

FLASH UN KAS

These melt-in-the-mouth morsels of flaky filled pastry claim a Pennsylvania Dutch heritage.

TO PREPARE: 30 MIN. TO BAKE: 8-10 MIN.

(allow time for chilling pastry)

1 cup butter, softened
8 oz. cream cheese, softened
2 cups flour
Filling, goose liver pâté or ground ham (see recipe)

1. Cream butter and cream cheese together until well blended. Add the flour and mix until smooth. Chill pastry thoroughly (overnight if possible).

2. Using a small portion of pastry at a time, roll pastry about ¼ in. thick on a lightly floured surface; cut out rounds with a 2-in. cookie cutter.

3. Spoon a rounded one-fourth teaspoonful of filling onto half of each round. Fold dough over filling and press edges together with a fork. Transfer to baking sheets.

4. Bake at 400°F 8 to 10 min., or until lightly browned. Serve hot.

About 9 doz. appetizers

FILLING—Mix together 2 oz. goose liver pâté and 1 teaspoon each Worcestershire sauce and steak sauce. Or mix together 2 oz. ground country-style ham and 1 teaspoon each steak sauce and catsup. (Each filling is enough to prepare about 4½ doz. appetizers.)

Note: This pastry will keep for several weeks if wrapped tightly in moisture-vapor-proof material and stored in the refrigerator. The appetizers can be prepared a day in advance and refrigerated; flavor is best if the appetizers are baked just before serving.

Earphones and a dictating machine—such as used for foreign languages—make reading lessons easy for Mrs. Anne Loushin's first-graders in Redwood City, California.

She's making a recording of her reading. Her teacher can listen to her mistakes.

IN A SUNSHINE-FILLED CLASSROOM in Redwood City, California, 18 six-year-olds, like thousands of other first-graders across the country, are busily learning to read. However, unlike typical beginners, who sit and listen as the teacher explains the written language—either phonetically or by sight reading—these youngsters are among the first in the country to use the new electronic classroom technique to learn their ABCs.

Originally designed for the study of foreign languages by pupils three times the age of first-graders, the new system was adapted by the Redwood City educators for teaching reading. Their reasoning was that if the electronic classroom is successful in teaching a foreign language, it would be even more successful in teaching beginners to read their own language.

From lightweight headsets the youngsters receive the recorded sounds of the language—vowels, consonants, diphthongs, and various combinations of sounds that sometimes confound the first-grader. "Fa-ther," says the pre-recorded lesson. Simultaneously, in a book on their desks, the youngsters see a picture of the word, the letters that form it, and the correct position of the lips in making the sound. Thanks to the new electronic system, which has been welded on to the old phonetic method (once again in favor in many school systems), the teacher is freed from the necessity of reading the lesson aloud. It enables her to rove the room, giving individual attention to those of her pupils who need it.

THE DEVELOPER of the new method is Dr. Helen Burke, Director of the Reading Clinic in Palo Alto, California, and a consultant to the nearby Redwood City school system. Dr. Burke designed her program for electronic equipment that could be adapted to the needs of the elementary grades. The program is unique in that it divorces phonetics from the direct teaching of reading and instead combines it with the teaching of writing, spelling, and oral-language skills. The first-graders of Mrs. Anne Loushin's class at the Benjamin Franklin Elementary School pioneered the new program.

Be immaculate—she said! White gloves, white shoes must always be spotless!

Be dainty—she said! No perspiration stains, no smudged make-up. Just a light touch of perfume to enhance rather than conceal.

And she told me about Tampax, too. (She's been a Tampax user for ages!) Tampax helps you feel immaculate, dainty, spotless. It's worn internally. No one can know, nothing can show. There's no chafing, no odor, no bulges, no belts, no pins, no pads—nothing to worry you.

My friends agree with me that Tampax does so much to help a girl feel like a lady. It's a very important part of good grooming!

their classroom with 16 receiving positions and a standard office dictating machine. Fifteen-minute lessons were prepared by Dr. Burke on red plastic belts and were placed in the machine. Pupils receive the lessons through their individual headsets. They're aided by a specially developed instruction book, "Phono-Phonic Fun," to see what they hear.

The first part of the school year is devoted to the mastery of consonant sounds; from November to June vowel sounds—19 in all—are taught with emphasis on the mastery of long and short vowel sounds in words that range in difficulty up to those usually taught in the third grade. Last May, during the first year the program was tried, most of the class was so fluent in the sounding, spelling, and writing of monosyllable words that the last few weeks of the year could be devoted to the mastery of multisyllable words.

THE Redwood City first-graders wound up by reading with ease such words as salamander, magazine, peppermint, spaghetti, and octopus. And they didn't even stumble over barbecue, porcupine, decorate, cucumbers, daffodils, microphone, and astronaut.

"A child learns to unlock unknown words quickly," says Mrs. Loushin in sizing up the merits of the new system. And Dr. Burke adds, with satisfaction: "The real benefits became apparent as time passed. The pupils showed spectacular gains in their ability to sound out, write, spell, and use words in sentences. The time formerly devoted to the teaching of spelling and writing was greatly reduced."

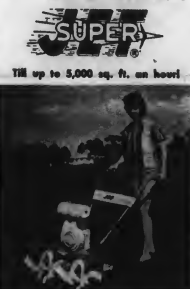

Wire Johnny for sound, apparently, and he can learn to read—and spell!

Light Your Grounds

tions are expensive, but he happily admits that after-dark charm can be given a small garden by any homeowner for less than $50.

"It just takes a little imagination and experimenting with the selection and placement of the lights," he says. "But a few basic rules should be observed":

Make the lighting secondary to the garden. In other words, feature the things you are lighting, not the lights themselves. To do this, avoid using lights of too great intensity (150-watt bulbs are about as large as you need, and in many cases smaller ones are better.) Conceal the bulbs so that you cannot see their direct glare. You can hide them in shrubs and trees, shield them with ornamental fixtures or simple reflector hoods much like those used in photography.

You can even use household bulbs in ordinary weatherproof sockets and put them in tin cans or flowerpots to create an invisible source of light.

Stick mainly to white light. It brings out nature's colors best. Unless used expertly, colored light does weird things to flowers and foliage, produces a carnivallike atmosphere.

Light the garden more or less evenly from above. This creates a more natural, restful effect than if the lights are focused on scattered plants and too many of them are aimed upward from the ground. Placing the lights high in trees and on the house also attracts the bugs away from people sitting on the terrace.

Avoid monotony. Lighting everything head-on produces a dull, flat picture. Silhouetting plants that have interesting, open structures adds variety.

Play safe with the wiring. Use only weatherproof wire, outlets, switches, and fixtures. Don't install the wiring when the ground is damp; and even when it isn't, turn off the electricity for good measure.

NO ONE in the electrical industry or out is making firm predictions about how far we shall go in illuminating our enormous landscape. But the consensus of those most directly involved is that what we have done so far is only a good beginning.

One final word. When you discover how easy it is to extend your enjoyment of nature's beauty long after sunset, don't, in your enthusiasm, forget that the house next door will have a different view of your grounds. Be sure your lights don't shine in your neighbor's windows.

New Universal dress form, perfected by former Hollywood dress designer, provides many work-saving short-cuts

First Dress Form with Full Length Skirt adjusts to "gain" or "lose" when you do. Being bendable and flexible, dresses slip on and off without opening seams. You save needless hours of sewing time. Custom fit is guaranteed or no cost.

The only full length dress and skirt form you can use together or separately. You can hold the upper section right in your lap to fit a blouse.

For fitting belts and skirts, you need use only the belt and skirt section. Special feature allows you to measure hems without the aid of a hem marker.

New Type Adjustable Dress Form Gives A Full Length Skirt Form And Hem-Measurer! ONLY $3.98

By DOROTHY WARING, Fashion Editorial Writer

RECENTLY I saw an eye-opening price demonstration of the new 1962 Universal Dress Form. I saw it provide sewing shortcuts and do things I never dreamed a dress form could do. Women who swear by the previous model — and over half a million bought one — will have cause to be really enthusiastic when they see this one!

Skirt Form and Hem-Measurer

First of all, this dress form is the only one I've ever seen that gives you a full-length, completely adjustable skirt form and hem-measurer, too. What a boon when you're making or shortening skirts! You simply slip the skirt on . . . pin up the hem, following a line of measurement points at the skirt-length you want . . . then stand back and look!

Instantly, you see how the skirt will look on you because the form's measurements are your measurements. No longer will you have to rip out seams or re-do hems because a skirt hangs too high in front or sags in the back.

Takes Guesswork Out of Sewing

Perhaps the biggest thing about this dress form is that you can make it "gain" or "lose" when you do — thanks to its simple adjustments that let it duplicate all your basic measurements.

Women who have used some of the more expensive forms know how they have to rip and re-sew in order to fit clothes on them. But not with this new time-saver! Because it is bendable and flexible, you simply bend in the shoulders to slip a dress on. This saves hours of needless work. The real satisfaction, however is when you put the dress on yourself! You have the thrill of seeing a "custom-fitted look," just as though your dress had been made for you by your favorite seamstress!

Saves time, temper, tears . . . a dozen ways

Every woman knows it's the needless mistakes, the temper-provoking extra work and the petty exasperations that take the fun out of "making your own." Believe me, ladies, this new form is so virtually mistake-proof it puts the fun right back into making your own clothes.

With it, you can quickly make your too-tight or too-loose clothes really fit like new again.

You can remodel last year's alterable suits and dresses into chic new Spring fashions.

You can even make yourself a brand new Spring wardrobe . . . and do it in much less time than it usually takes! With a terrific saving in dollars, too!

Completely Adjustable

Imagine this! You can widen or take in the diaphragm . . . even raise, lower, flatten or fill out the busts individually!

It comes with a separate belt-fitter that adjusts to duplicate your own midriff.

In fact, all the form's measurements adjust to duplicate your measurements so exactly that whatever fits it will also fit you!

Made of unvoiced fabric bonded to sturdy Kraft stock, this is one dress form that's both light-weight and durable. It stands on its own "skirt" — requires no extra costly stand! Yet when not in use, its nine sections fold out flat and tuck away in a bureau drawer.

30-Day Home Trial

Previous models of this remarkable dress form have won editorial praise from such distinguished magazines as VOGUE PATTERN BOOK, LOOK, AMERICAN MAGAZINE and McCALL'S PATTERN BOOK. Yet for the same low price of only $3.98, this new 1962 model is vastly superior — and much easier to use!

We know you will be truly delighted once you try it. This is why we are making this generous trial offer. Mail the coupon today. Use the dress form for a full month. Then if you can honestly bring yourself to part with it, we'll mail you a full refund . . . Don't put it off. Be the first in your area to own a new 1962 Universal Dress Form!

The Significance of Easter

By ARTHUR W. AYERS,
Pastor of Nimmo-Salam Methodist Church

The greatest, single historical event in the Christian world was not the birth of Jesus, or even His life or crucifixion, but His resurrection. It was this event and His post-resurrection appearances that formed the spring-board for the writing of the four Gospels and all of the New Testament scripture. Had not the resurrection occurred, we would only have the story of a good man who was willing to die for what he believed. There are many such stories, and impressive as they are, they could not and do not kindle within our lives the eternal hope that causes us to change our lives and follow the paths that this man taught. Without the Easter story, Good Friday, Maundy Thursday and Palm Sunday would lose their significance. Without the Easter story there would, in fact, be no Christian Church.

In Jesus Christ we have the final and complete revelation of God. By His birth, He revealed the humility of God; by His life, He revealed the concern of God; by His death, He revealed the love of God; and by His resurrection, He revealed the eternity of God.

Each Easter we are caught up again in this tremendous revelation and it is again made evident to each of us that this life on earth is but the preparation for the life to come. We are seized with the import of the message that the grave is not the end, but truly the beginning; that physical death is but graduation to the greater life—the life that Christ has let us glimpse.

Here then is our spring-board for living. As each of us grasp this climactic event, our faith is renewed and our lives changed. Our petty strivings and our selfish motives suddenly become unimportant and the great and overpowering love of God floods our souls and hearts until within us we burst into that angelic chorus: "AND HE SHALL REIGN FOREVER AND EVER: KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS: HALLELUJAH!"

JFK Visit Tops News

OCEANA—For the first time in the city's history a President of the United States visited here Friday when President Kennedy made a 20-minute stop at Oceana Naval Air Station on his way to Atlantic Fleet Headquarters in Norfolk.

Accompanying the President were Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, Virginia Congressmen Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Sen. A. Willis Robertson, Rep. Howard C. Smith, Rep. Porter Hardy Jr. and Rep. Thomas N. Downing and a long list of military and government dignitaries.

Full Schedule
During his brief visit, the President heard the Marine Band play the national anthem, viewed the Marine Color Guard and received full military honors, including a 21-gun salute. Over 1,000 spectators and newsmen watched the proceedings in roped-off areas on the air strip.

After being greeted by Adm. Robert L. Dennison, Commander in Chief of the Atlantic Fleet, the President shook hands and chatted briefly with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Kellam and Fred A. Haycox, who have long been active in the Democratic Party, and other local dignitaries.

Battling high winds, the Presidential Party left by helicopter for Atlantic Fleet Headquarters in Norfolk where they traveled in a motorcade to the Naval Base. At Pier 12 they boarded the Polaris submarine U.S.S. Thomas A. Edison then proceeded to the U.S.S. Northampton where they got underway for Atlantic Fleet Operations off the Virginia Capes.

Sculptor to Create Statue To Replace Figurehead

VIRGINIA BEACH—A Norwegian sculpture has been commissioned to create a statue to replace the old wooden figurehead once located by the ocean at 16th Street, it was announced this week.

The new statue will be paid for through donations from the residents of Moss, Norway, the home port of the ship that carried the original figurehead.

Made in the form of a beautiful Nordic woman, the wooden piece was washed ashore at Virginia Beach after the Norwegian Bark "Diktator" sank off the coastline in a storm on March 27, 1891.

In memoriam to the heroism of a seaman, Jean Baptiste, the figurehead stood for many years on a concrete block at 16th St. until the elements caused such deterioration that it was taken down in 1953. It finally disintegrated in storage.

The statue, expected to be erected some time in September at the same site, is being donated to the City of Virginia Beach by the Moss, Norway, people for "dangerous and courageous rescue work" in saving all but five of the Diktator's crew.

Most of the ship's company were brought to shore that day in 1891 by lifeboats and a breeches buoy set up at the Virginia Beach Coast Guard Station.

But the pounding surf made the lifeboat useless and tore away the breeches buoy before the captain, J. M. Jorgensen, his wife and infant son could get ashore.

With the infant strapped to his father's back and Mrs. Jorgensen lashed to Baptiste's back, the four tried to swim ashore. But a short distance from shore the infant was swept away and the seaman and Mrs. Jorgensen drowned as helpless spectators watched from the beach. The three are buried in

Contract For Dredging Let

VIRGINIA BEACH—A $250,135 contract to pump sand from Seashore State Park to the storm-damaged beach has been awarded the Atkinson Dredging Co. of Great Bridge.

Work on dredging the sand from an obscure spot at the south end of the park to the beach around 58th Street is expected to get under way in about two weeks.

JWC Cited for Fitness Project

VIRGINIA BEACH—The extensive physical fitness project carried out through schools in this area by the Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County has gained the group state recognition.

President Mrs. Donald Hood was presented an engraved silver plate "for outstanding work in the field of youth fitness" last week at the annual convention of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs at the Hotel Jefferson in Richmond.

The physical fitness project, which included the testing of hundreds of youngsters in both private and public elementary schools for fitness needs, was under the direction of Mrs. Robert Day, youth chairman.

The club also took awards in other fields. Mrs. Robert Fentress took third place in the state for her oil painting and Mrs. Joseph Curran took third place for a smoked infant garment.

A 79 per cent participation in the Virginia Cancer Program brought the club another certificate award.

Also attending the meeting were Mrs. Sam Mason, president elect, and Mrs. V. K. Almond, vice president.

Art Show Gets Financial Help From Citizens

VIRGINIA BEACH—City Manager W. Russell Hatchett, city representative on the 7th Annual Boardwalk Art Show Committee, announced at a meeting of the group recently that contributions from private citizens and organizations to promote the show are already being received.

Four contributions were made before the drive even got underway, he said.

These include: Dudley Cooper, of Seaside Park, $50; Frank Tarall, $25; Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County, $25; and Mr. Hatchett, $25.

Mrs. Dennis Dennis, chairman of the Boardwalk Art Show Committee, stressed that all work on the project is voluntary. The show will be held July 12-16.

Several changes will be made in this year's show, she said. For the first time artists will exhibit only on the boardwalk, not on the hotel lawns and porches and each artist will submit only one painting of his own choosing to be judged in any or all of the six categories.

Each artist may exhibit in 25 square feet, covering approximately 7 feet along the boardwalk rail and 3 to 4 feet in width or approximately the same amount of space as one side of the association's large exhibiting easels. Additional space may be arranged.

No programs will be sold this year, she said, and all contributions will be used to promote the show. Over 800 invitations and entry forms have been mailed to artists throughout the world and one Indonesian painting has been received.

Cash Prizes
Artists, who must be over 18 years of age, may submit original works in oil, watercolor, pastel, graphics, ceramics and sculpture.

Awards and prizes will include: Best in Show, $300; The Maida Roper Award in oils, $100; The Frank DeWolf Award in watercolors, $50; graphics, $50; pastels, $50; ceramics, $50; and sculpture, $100. Honorable mention awards will be made in each category.

Working with Mrs. Dennis are the following committee chairmen: Mrs. W. Carey Penington, recording secretary; Mrs. Gilmore Lee Tibbott, treasurer; Mrs. Gordon Atwill, entries; Mrs. E. B. Merger Protest

Suit Dismissed

PRINCESS ANNE—A suit challenging the constitutionality of the merger of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County was dismissed Tuesday by Circuit Court Judge Robert S. Wahab, Jr., at Princess Anne.

Judge Wahab wrote a 14-page decision in the matter in which he held "that the consolidation agreement and the charter for the proposed city and the procedure followed conform in all respects to the requirements of the consolidation statute."

The decision was a result of a suit filed last December 28 by county resident Littleton B. Walker challenging the Virginia laws pertaining to consolidation. Named as defendants in the suit were the six members of the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors, the five members of the Virginia Beach city council, Commonwealth's Attorney Robert L. Simpson and City Attorney George W. Vukos.

Water Talks Get Started
PRINCESS ANNE—Princess Anne County and the City of Norfolk have started water negotiations but nothing more than preliminary discussions have taken place so far, according to one member of the county group attending the first get-together.

It was reported in the Norfolk press Tuesday that Norfolk had proposed selling the county water at a wholesale bulk rate and that the county operate its own water system. However, ever this was proposed as "some-where to start negotiations," according to Norfolk City Manager Thomas F. Maxwell.

Sidney S. Kellam, chairman of the county water group, said the initial meeting was preliminary in nature and nothing had developed. He declined comment on Norfolk's proposal.

"It was a very preliminary meeting," Kellam said. "I don't have any idea when the next meeting will be held and I have no comment on Norfolk's offer."

Virginia Beach has its own water distribution system and handles its own billing and maintenance. The city's bulk water contract with Norfolk will expire December 31.

Maxwell said it seems improbable to him that the new merged city of Virginia Beach will want two different water supply systems after Jan. 1.

This would be the case if Norfolk continued its retail sale of water to customers in former county areas and its wholesale supply of water to the borough of Virginia Beach after the two communities merge.

Norfolk and Princess Anne-Virginia Beach agreed last month after a long and often heated controversy to begin talks on a long-term water contract.

Haycox Firm Low Bidder on Schools

PRINCESS ANNE—Fred A. Haycox Co. submitted the lowest bid—$789,000—to the Princess Anne School Board for the building of two elementary schools, it was announced Tuesday. The figure underbid the second lowest by only $7,000.

The schools, to be located in Malibu and Pembroke Manor, will be built with federal funds, obtained through House Bill No. 815, providing funds for government impacted areas.

Haycox's bid will be submitted to Philadelphia and finalization should come in the next few days, Ernie Stone, county engineer, said.

Ultra-Modern Buildings
Both schools will be of very modern design with 26 classrooms, and the usual facilities such as cafeteria, library, multipurpose room, office areas and teacher's lounge. Each will contain about 40,000 square feet and will house about 780 to 800 students.

They will be located on previously landscaped 12-acre sites with ample parking and bus loading facilities.

Pembroke School will be adjacent to the existing Aragon Elementary School on Jericho Road and Malibu will

Sandpiper Issues Call For First Try-Outs

VIRGINIA BEACH—Try-outs for the Sandpiper Playhouse's first production of the season, "Brigadoon," will be held next Wednesday and Thursday, April 25-26, at the WTAR auditorium on Boush Street in Norfolk at 8 p.m.

The musical will consist of a company of about 20 singers, dancers and actors.

"We will also be interested in seeing technicians for backstage work," Producer Wade Williams said.

Award Winner
"Brigadoon," written by Alan J. Lerner and Frederick Lowe and the first musical ever to win the New York Drama Critics' Award, will open the Playhouse season June 29 and run two nights weekly throughout the season.

The Sandpiper productions will once again be held seven nights a week, on a rotating basis, in the blue and gold striped tent on 19th Street & Arctic Avenue. The plays will run until September 2.

Six plays will make up the program this year, three to run alternate nights the first five weeks, another three the last five weeks.

The first series includes "Brigadoon," directed by Marilyn Ende; "Under the Yum Yum Tree," directed by Jon Dawson; and the long-time favorite, "You Can't Take It With You," directed by Dean Burgess. Try-out dates for the other two plays will be announced later.

Taking place in the Highlands of Scotland, the play's sets will be designed and executed by Neal Thomas and Bill Britt and the colorful costumes will be made locally.

Among the major roles are: Tommy Albright, baritone, male lead, about 30; Jeff Douglas, male comedy lead, a non-singing part; Fiona McLaren, female romantic lead, soprano in her early 20's; Meg Brockie, alto, female comic lead, in her mid-20's; Jean McLaren, second lead, primarily a dancing role with some singing; Charlie Dalrymple, second male lead, tenor; and Harry Beaton, in his mid-20's, a dance lead.

Second Honeymoon

35 Years Later

VIRGINIA BEACH—The first honeymoon couple to stay at the Cavalier Hotel hope to return today to celebrate their 35th anniversary.

If all goes as planned, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace S. Boughton of Nedham, Mass., will arrive at the hotel today for their first visit since 1927 when the hotel was only three weeks old.

"The hotel was really just a monster sitting up on a hill at that time," Walter Chapman, reservations manager who was with the hotel in the 30's, said. "There was absolutely nothing around it. But it was quite impressive and was a place of distinction along the Atlantic Coast."

Won't Recognize Hotel
What will greet the second-honeymoon couple today should come as a great surprise. Since their visit 35 years ago the hotel has added the Beach Club, improved its spacious grounds and provided many entertainment facilities.

While the hotel was growing and expanding it was also witnessing the worst storms in the city's history, those of 1933, 1936 and the more recent Ash Wednesday storm.

But changes were also taking

Last Supper Well Attended

VIRGINIA BEACH—"The Last Supper" presented last Sunday evening in the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center attracted approximately 1,300 persons and everyone was delightfully pleased with the dramatization.

The living drama was sponsored by the Virginia Beach Methodist Church and was performed by players, from the Elm Avenue Methodist Church in Portsmouth.

The cast included some 50 members of the Portsmouth church. In addition to the drama the program here included one hour of music and worship.

Governor and Kellam Tour Beach

Gov. Albert S. Harrison Jr. (left) and Virginia Beach's Sidney S. Kellam, National Democratic Committeeman for Virginia, took time out from the Presidential visit festivities Friday to tour the beach. The governor last toured here two days after the March 7 storm and was amazed at the restoration. He predicted that the resort "will be in full operation by Memorial Day," thanks to individuals and businesses that had pitched in to complete the work. (Photo by Simmons)

Milady Wigs

Second Hair-do

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH—Ask any woman living at a resort what her greatest beauty and grooming needs are and she will probably say an extra head of hair.

A day on the beach is fun but not when a woman has party plans for the evening. A hair-do filled with sand and salt water is no asset to a lovely cocktail dress.

So what is the answer? Wigs.

There was a time when wigs were seldom openly discussed and women wearing them feared for their secret. But no longer. Today's modern woman considers wigs as important to her wardrobe as foundation garments and proper accessories.

Virginia Beach was a-buzz over wig fashions this week when Mrs. Nathan J. Forbe & Mrs. Irving Greentree Jr., of Richmond, held a private showing of French-made styles at the home of Mrs. Leo Bliley on 54th Street.

Having the Virginia franchise of the imported Merriwigs, the two women travel throughout the state introducing the wigs in private showings before placing them in beauty salons for sale. The wigs, which come in 21 different shades ranging from jet black to platinum blonde, are made of human hair, sold to the manufacturing company by French women.

French Hair Best

Unusual as it may seem, the hair texture of French women is superior to any other country in the world, seconded only by Germany and Belgium, Mrs. Greentree said. This difference is probably attributed to diet and weather conditions.

Most of the wigs cost in the neighborhood of $150 and, with proper care, should last from two to three years.

"By proper care I mean that they should always be placed on a wig stand when not on the head," Mrs. Greentree said, "and covered with plastic bags to protect them from dust."

Care of the wigs is one of their greatest advantages, Mrs. Forbe said. They can go for weeks without being restyled and need dry cleaning only twice a year.

They may be styled at the beauty salon or at home merely by dampening the hair and rolling it. But they must never be washed because it will shrink the lining and ruin the shape.

When considering a wig a woman should choose a color as near her own hair as possible, the two women said.

If a brunette buys a platinum wig it will only be a costume piece," Mrs. Greentree said. "Wigs should be bought with the idea that they will be used for any dress on any occasion."

Husbands Like Them

There have been terrific reactions from husbands about the wig craze. Most of them are in favor of it. As a matter of fact, the representatives received several calls from husbands during Monday's private showing inquiring about wigs for their wives.

Mrs. Forbe and Mrs. Greentree entered the wig business quite by accident.

While vacationing in Florida last year, Mrs. Forbe was amazed how the women kept their hair-dos in tact when she had seen them only a short time before in the hotel pool. A few polite inquiries revealed that wigs were the answer.

Mrs. Forbe contacted the Florida importer and discussed a franchise in her own home state. Mrs. Greentree, her "closest friend and next door neighbor," joined her and Merriwigs came to Virginia.

The wigs are carried at Virginia Beach at Taylor-Burgess and the Cavalier Hotel Beauty Salons. It usually takes two to four weeks delivery since they are ordered, by color preference, from the Florida importer.

Baseball Time

The Spring of the year causes one to turn his attention to the out-of-doors, sunshine, the budding of trees and to major league training sites and the beginning of a new American and National League pennant chase.

Our national past time has produced many exciting pennant races and this year will be no exception. The American League still has the Yankees to contend with, and Detroit has given indication of finally making a bid for a share of the glory along with Baltimore and possibly Chicago. The long ball hitter will play a big part in deciding the eventual outcome of the race and with Mantle, Maris, Berra, Blanchard, Howard, Skowron and Boyer, the Yankees pose too much power for the remaining clubs.

BRYANT

In the National League the return of baseball to New York has caused many of the old Giant and Dodger rooters to show the old spirit that was once the pride of the National League. In three games to date snow, rain, and sleet have plagued the Polo Grounds but not the enthusiasm of the fans.

Many stories have come from the annals of the Dodger-Giant series and of them the most amusing was the incident that occurred in the 30's with the Giants and Dodgers going down to the win in one of the tightest pennant races to that time. The game was played in old Ebbets Field and the Dodger management had sold virtually every available seat in the house, and had actually sold space on the outfield grass along the foul line and fences. Bands were playing and cloth pennants were waving as the Dodgers prepared to do battle with one of the stronger Giant teams in history. In the bottom half of the 6th inning Giant outfielder Joe Medwich sent a short pop fly down the left field foul line about 10 rows deep into the fans along the foul line that were sitting on the grass. As the Brooklyn left fielder neared the foul line the crowd opened enough to form a path to the ball and as the catch was made a roar of approval could be heard all over Flatbush. In the top of the 6th Medwich who had fouled out was now stationed in left field when a Dodger batter lifted a fly ball down the foul line in incidentally the same

Beach Fisherman Lands Big Ones

Special to the Virginia Beach Sun-News — Stuart, Florida — Fred W. Steadman of Virginia Beach caught a 20 lb. 4" Dolphin and a 20 lb. Barracuda while fishing with Captain R. Hill on the "Tammol" in the Gulf Stream off Stuart. The Stuart Sailfish Club conservation group awarded the colorful citation in recognition of the Barracuda and Dolphin.

Medwich went after the ball and just as before the crowd opened up, and Medwich not believing his eyes went in to make the catch. As he reached the ball the crowd slammed shut on him and one by one pieces of his uniform began to emerge from the crowd until finally Medwich had nothing on but his shorts.

Many stories have been told of the Coggins Bluff Flatbush series and at last the local fans are once again getting to see a resemblance of some of the players that once graced their parks. Gil Hodges, Junior Gilliam, Don Zimmer, and most famous of them all the colorful manager of the 34 Dodgers Casey Stengel himself will remake the mets a team of interest.

Down in Houston, Texas the majors are making a strong bid for the recreation dollar from that area and Paul Richards the master who built the Chicago & Baltimore team is going to try once again to do the same thing in the National league. To date he has won the Grapefruit circuit and is 3 and 2 in regular season play.

The People of Norway Revive a Romantic Story of the Sea

The story of the famous sinking of the Norwegian bark "Diktator" off the Virginia Beach coast on March 27, 1891, is a story that never loses its romantic appeal and this week the story has been revived with the news from Moss, Norway, that the people of that city are donating a figurehead to replace the original that stood for many years at 16th street and the Oceanfront.

The original figurehead was made of wood and was taken down in 1953 because of extreme deterioration. The figurehead depicts a beautiful Nordic woman and was one of the few pieces of the "Diktator" recovered. It was erected as a permanent monument to one of the ship's crew members and the eternal bereavement of the ship's captain, J. M. Jorgensen.

For many years Captain Jorgensen would return to Virginia Beach and place flowers on the Ocean waters here in memory of his wife and young son, who perished in the wreck of 1891. The crew member was a John Baptiste, who tried to save Mrs. Jorgensen and her son. All were drowned and are buried in Elmwood Cemetery.

Now the people of Moss, Norway, have raised funds to replace the figurehead. They have commissioned one of their country's most famous sculptors to create the new figurehead. According to plans the figurehead will be placed in its original location in September.

The story of the "Diktator" is a beautiful story that may be told over and over again without losing its interest. The people of Virginia Beach will be grateful to the people of Norway for reviving this beautiful tale of the sea.

Suit Dismissal Clears Way For City-County Consolidation

The decision handed down Tuesday by Princess Anne Circuit Court Judge Robert S. Wahab, Jr. in the suit challenging the consolidation of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County could hardly be termed as unexpected. The suit was dismissed.

With this suit out of the way it appears that the two political will merge into a single city on January 1, 1963. Much work is to be done in bringing about this transition and the two governments are busy quietly working out details that accompany such a transition.

Judge Wahab based the court's decision in the merger protest suit on the fact that the procedure pursued and the charter agreement were according to the existing laws of the Commonwealth. In his words, the consolidation seems in no way regnant to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Virginia or the Constitution of the United States.

Approval of the merger of the two areas was given convincing by the people in a vote held last January 4. It is now up to these people to help make the new city the greatest in the land. This can be done by cooperation by everyone and a spirit of unity.

We believe the new City of Virginia Beach, in a very short while, will be the largest city in Virginia and with that distinction will go the reputation of being the best city in Virginia.

Beach's Newest

Rathskeller in Debut

VIRGINIA BEACH — A German idea, modified with the American touch, resulted in one of this resort's most unusual eating and entertainment facilities—the Rathskeller Lounge.

Owned and operated by John Hoey, the Rathskeller will open for business Friday at 4 p.m. and will remain open year round seven nights a week.

Having no outside entrances, the new lounge is accessible only through the adjoining Lunkhorns Steak House, 2014 Atlantic Ave. When the swinging doors (50 lbs. apiece) are pushed aside, a large room with an international flavor is revealed.

The oak-paneled walls are decorated with aluminum shields of 10 German cities and imported beer steins of varied size and design. The handsome wall benches, ranging from six to nine feet in length, are of oxidized leather upholstery, the tabletops are of 2-inch stained mahogany, and the 25½ pound captain's chairs were imported from Switzerland.

The rustic design and decor are all original, compiled only after Hoey had visited other Rathskellers all over the country.

"It took me three years to figure out how I would do this," he said. "Americans wouldn't be seen in a real German Rathskeller; they are so dark and dingy and often-times dirty. What I wanted was a modified Rathskeller, built the way Americans would like it, but retaining the atmosphere."

Food will be an important item in the lounge, featuring every imaginable type of pancake in the morning, a full line

Cox High Tid-Bits

The persistence of the students still endures at Cox High despite the fact that each student anxiously counts the remaining days of school and carries a burdening fatigue from cramming for six weeks tests.

An added attraction at the Rathskeller will be party sandwich platters, with 50 different type sandwiches to choose from, prepared and ready to pick up within 45 minutes for the hostess who finds herself with an unplanned party group. These party platters, which will also feature relishes and extra tidbits, can be made for any size group.

Seating 120 persons, the lounge will remain smoke-free with its own electronic air cleaner and will have a copper hood over the open grill.

This week-end a combo will provide live music and guest musical groups will appear on the bandstand periodically throughout the season.

The lounge will be open daily from 10 a.m. to midnight until the season gets underway then it will remain open from 7 a.m. to midnight except on Saturdays when it will be open until 2:30 a.m. The Longhorn will be open to serve food from 4:30 p.m. to midnight.

The Rathskeller construction, unusual in detail and design, was done by O. S. Jamell and Company.

CONTEST WINNER

VIRGINIA BEACH — Mrs. Callie Rothwell of 203 Woodhurst Road, London Bridge, won a week's vacation for her family at the Cavalier Hotel.

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

Why all this fustled and festivity over a 20-minute event, I kept asking myself as I joined the crowds Friday afternoon at Oceana Naval Air Station for a brief glimpse of President Kennedy. After all, he's only a man and I've seen him on television thousands of times.

But newspaper people have a certain obligation to their readers to bring news to them first hand and bring word descriptions of happenings that they are unable to see. So, with the thought tucked in the back of my mind that a mere glimpse of the Big Man was hardly worth the time and effort, I joined many other reporters on the same assignment.

GET THERE EARLY!

Under instructions that news personnel should report to the base an hour and 15 minutes before the President was to arrive, we gathered in a building adjoining the air strip, dreading the long wait.

But the wait went almost as quickly as the President's visit. Representatives from all the area newspapers, radio and television stations chatted amiably, adjusted cameras and compared notes while the Navy personnel briefed us on where we were to stand and what was to be expected.

After nearly 30 minutes we were transferred to another building, apparently used to house fire trucks since the entire front opened onto the vast air strip. An ambulance sat in readiness with its motor running and its staff keyed for any emergency. I kept wondering what would happen to the reporter's calm, self-assurance if the President's plane should have difficulty in landing. Chaos, no doubt. But this, thank goodness, didn't happen. Everything went along right on schedule.

The wind was vicious. It literally tore at the clothes and I kept envying all the men with their short haircuts as mine stood straight on end and I'm sure made me resemble something akin to the Wild Gal from Borneo.

Shortly before the plane's arrival we herded into a roped-off section near the scheduled landing spot. By this time the snappy Marine band and color guard had made their way to the field and stood in formation.

A crowd of brave spectators had also gathered and were being buffeted by the high winds. But no one seemed to mind.

The first plane to come in was the White House news staff, a crew of representatives from newspapers all over the world who follow the President nearly every time he moves. It was an odd assortment of men and local newsmen had a great time watching them at work.

Vice-President Johnson's plane was the second to land and excitement started building as guns boomed a welcome.

RIGHT ON TIME

At precisely 3:15 the big white jet carrying the President and a staff of top brass touched down on the runway. Reporters and cameramen rushed to the rope for the best vantage point. And I thanked my lucky stars that Dick Dyer from Boise Studio was there so I wouldn't have to worry about my incompetent efforts with the Polaroid.

Security guards preceded the President down the ramp. Then there he was.

President Kennedy is somewhat smaller than I expected. He is shorter (some reporters claimed he was wearing elevated shoes; perhaps for his back injury, I didn't see them) and he is thinner. His famous hair, immediately caught by the wind, is a lighter shade of brown than most pictures show. But his face is just as Americans have to know it, strong and handsome with a smile that makes you feel like a long-lost friend. As usual, he was carrying his hat in his hand.

In easy strides, unhurried and casual, he walked to the small white platform where he stood with Adm. Robert L. Dennison as the band played the national anthem. He shook hands with Fred A. Haycox, Sidney Kellam, Mrs. Kellam and other local dignitaries and received full military honors before walking by the crowd to the waiting helicopter that would take him to Atlantic Fleet headquarters in Norfolk.

The whole proceedings took less than 15 minutes. But I doubt if anyone went away disappointed. From the time he stepped off the plane, President Kennedy dominated the scene and entranced the crowd. There was little cheering, but it was not necessary.

And I was wrong. He is more than just a man. He's the President of our country and I'm glad I had an opportunity to see him.

Legion Helping With New Flags

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia Beach will have a new red, white and blue 50 star-spangled look on Armed Forces Day, May 19th, and on all days of patriotic significance as a result of a campaign launched by Princess Anne Post No. 113, according to Post Commander James E. Piley, Jr.

Business establishments will be provided with new embroidered flags which will be attached to a brass eagle on a 12 ft. steel pole. Sockets will be installed at the curb by the Legion.

The City will store the flags when not in use. They will provide a truck and men who will raise the flags on appropriate occasions, and take them down at sundown.

In approving the plan City Manager W. Russell Hatchett declared "the City of Virginia Beach is pleased to co-operate in this project to assist in a wider display of the Flag of the United States."

Jack Thompson, Chairman of the Legion's Americanism Committee who is in charge of the "Fly-the-Flag" Committee declared:

"In these times with the world threat to our freedom it is increasingly important that the American Flag be flown to demonstrate our pride in American Institutions and our determination to remain free."

Produced by a Marine Corps reserve volunteer training unit in California, the movie is narrated by Jack Webb of "Dragnet" fame. It will unveil the vast arsenal of modern weapons that the Marines maintain in the role of a force in readiness.

Mr. Van Cantfort, program manager of WAVY-TV, said it is the finest military public service film he has ever seen. It is so good that he decided to place it in fine viewing time.

This will be the first general public viewing in the state of Virginia. It was procured through the cooperation of the Norfolk Marine Corps Air Reserve and with the direct approval of the public relations office at the Pentagon in Washington, D.C.

View Science Projects

Friends School Science Fair Noisy But Successful Event

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH — The fifth grade at Friends School sounded more like a factory than a classroom Friday with bells ringing, fans whirling and radios blaring.

But it was all right with teacher Joyce Logie. The school's annual Science Fair was underway and most of the noise was attributed to the electrical exhibits.

The fair is one of the highlights of the year. Parents are invited in, from 1 to 2 p.m., to view the science projects and the children are given an opportunity to explain their work.

About 40 fourth through 7th grade students entered over 50 exhibits this year. Each youngster selected his own subject, usually chosen from topics covered in the classroom work.

One of the most outstanding entries was a large, extensive exhibit on the human anatomy by 5th grader Charles Doughtie Sewall. Spread out on a big table were models of the skull, knee, bones and other parts of the body and a neat, complete pamphlet explaining the functions of the various parts.

"This is more than just an exhibit," Charles explained. "It's my hobby. I want to be a doctor and I've been collecting this stuff for about three years."

Most of the activity in the room came from the electrical display of Lee Tolson. Lights were blinking and batteries were fast at work operating an open fan and exposed radio set.

The exhibit had its hazards despite its effectiveness. "I've already been shocked once today on this thing," Lee said.

Keep Away! Lee didn't have to worry about inquisitive little hands upsetting his exhibit but Bob Brooke wasn't quite as sure about his display of model airplanes. He warned viewers with a sign stating "Do Not Touch—or Else."

Things were quieter in the 4th grade room where a bird calendar by Eileen Davis explained the various types of birds, their bills, feathers, migration and other information.

There was also an array of plant life, shells, terrariums and other projects.

The 6th and 7th grade projects were on view in Teacher Ruth Halko's room and the subjects covered everything from foods and chemicals to flowers and birds.

The entire 6th grade worked on birdlife planted flower seeds to watch them grow and made booklets on nutrition.

Georgia McKelkin displayed a food testing project in which she showed how to determine whether or not certain foods contain fats or starch and George Davis III explained the operation of the microscope.

Caroline Newnam worked on chemical reactions and processing. Stephany Smith exhibited a terrarium explaining the hibernation of certain animals, Jane Waller and Maro Abbott showed living plants in a terrarium and Joann Maher made a chart showing the different types of clouds.

Steven Eng took a flask of lukewarm water, added yeast and sugar and demonstrated how the yeast, as it starts to multiply, creates carbon dioxide which inflates a balloon.

Cancer Battle

More Funds Join Fight

The American Cancer Society, in its annual report issued recently declared that in 1961 more funds than ever before had been contributed — $36,942,955 in gifts and legacies.

Highlights in the Society's report were:

The death rate from uterine cancer has hit a new low of 13.3 per 100,000 women—half of what it was 25 years ago when it was the leading cause of death among women from cancer.

The over-all cure rate from cancer is up; with drugs, surgery and radiation, one out of three is now being cured. Twenty-five years ago it was one of seven.

Intensified research in chemotherapy, viruses and immunology offers hope of new cures and possible immunization.

Affiliation of the Eleanor Roosevelt Cancer Foundation with the American Cancer Society in September added new dimensions to the Society's programs:

1. financing physical facilities for cancer research in this country, and 2. providing cancer research fellowships outside this country in cooperation with the International Union Against Cancer.

According to a government scientist, the U.S. is two decades ahead of the rest of the world in virus studies and may be the first to confirm the growing belief that viruses cause some human cancers.

Unless new progress is made total deaths from cancer during the 1960's will probably be about 3,000,000 in the U.S.

In the field of research, the report says, the Society, in 1961 supported more than 1,000 experienced investigators and thousands of assistants, technicians and trainees. Some of the specific areas in which the scientists are engaged are: 61 working on leukemia, 35 on virology, 172 on biochemistry, 33 on immunity, 63 on chemotherapy, 28 on lung cancer, 55 on new and improved methods of diagnosis, 18 on breast cancer, and 19 on uterine cancer.

The cytological test — study of cells cast off in body fluids — developed by Dr. George N. Papanicolaou and improved methods of treatment are credited for much of the drop in the death rate from uterine cancer. Also responsible for the striking decrease in the death rate is the fact that more and more women are having regular health checkups, including the "Pap" smear test, for uterine cancer. In 1961, the Society, in cooperation with the General Federation of Women's Clubs, launched a "Conquer Uterine Cancer" campaign which seeks virtually to eliminate uterine cancer as a cause of death. The disease now takes 14,000 lives annually.

Also, in 1961, the Society launched a public and professional educational campaign to drastically reduce the death rate from cancer of the colon and rectum. A regular checkup, including a proctoscopic examination, could dramatically reduce the number of deaths from this disease which now strikes 70,000 each year causing more deaths—nearly 40,000—than any other cancer.

Research, public and professional education, and service — and new awareness on the part of the public and profession that much can be done about cancer — have resulted in the fact that there are more than 1,000,000 persons alive in the U.S. cured of cancer. Twenty-five years ago there were only 160,000.

Public contributions to the 1961 April Cancer Crusade have gone to support the Society's programs during 1962 and are apportioned in the following ratios: research, 33%; service to the cancer patient, 20%; public education, 10%; fund raising, 10%; administration, 8%.

Art Exhibit

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Art Association will hold an Open Membership Exhibit Friday through Sunday at the Waverly Hotel Gallery at 22nd Street and Atlantic Avenue.

All artists holding membership in the Art Association may exhibit works of oil painting, watercolors, graphics or sculpture but the work must be original, recent and not shown in previous membership exhibits.

Paintings must be called for Tuesday between 2:30 and 4:30 p.m., Mrs. John H. Doyle Jr., exhibit chairman, said.

Miss Ruth Epperson, photography chairman for the association, presented a program on "Slides of Our Year's Activities" last night when the group met at Price's Hilltop Store. Annual reports were given by the officers and committee chairmen.

State Highway Work Expands

Full-scale operations began recently on a 181 million dollar highway construction program which has been slowed down by winter weather since November the State Highway Department reported.

From November to April 1, road work has to be curtailed, but grading and paving that do not interfere with traffic are continued if the weather is favorable.

Most of the current construction is on the interstate system, where 227 miles of new road and 220 bridges are being built at a cost of nearly 134 million dollars.

Construction on the primary system will total about 30 million dollars. Federal-aid projects on secondary roads will total nearly 9 million dollars, and federal-aid urban projects will come to more than 8 million dollars.

The largest volume of work ($59,500,000) is under way in the Cupeiper District, where work continues on Interstate 66 in Fauquier County, the Capital Beltway (Interstate 495), and Interstate 95 south of the Shirley Highway. The Bristol District, where work continues on sections of Interstate 81, is next in volume with work amounting to $29,100,000.

The Fredericksburg, Salem, and Richmond Districts each have about $21,500,000 in projects under way. The Suffolk and Staunton Districts have about $10,500,000 worth of work, and the Lynchburg District, which has no interstate construction, has work amounting to about $6,700,000.

April is also the month for starting bituminous resurfacing of worn highways and remaking pavement lines. Heavy-duty asphalt will put new riding surfaces on 475 miles of heavily traveled primary and secondary roads, and regular bituminous surfacing will be applied to nearly 4,000 miles of the more lightly traveled hard-surfaced roads throughout the state.

About 7,000 miles of primary roads will receive new painted lines. This year, for the first time, barrier lines will be painted yellow in accordance with standards set forth by the American Association of State Highway Officials. Dash & edge lines will continue to be painted white.

PRINCESS ANNE — Seabreeze Farm will not be open as originally planned during the Princess Anne County Tour of Historic Garden Week April 24, according to an announcement made this week by a spokesman of the Princess Anne Garden Club.

Toured by Hundreds

It will be the first time in many years that the history-laden home and acres of gardens located on Glebe land of Lynnhaven-Parrish, now owned by Miss Evelyn Collins Hill, has not been open to the public.

The change was made "because of unforeseeable circumstances," the spokesman said.

The rest of the tour will proceed as planned with four homes, one garden and one church open between 10 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Information centers will be located at the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce.

To be open are: Daniel Whitehurst House — "Longview," now owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Buffington, which was built in 1793. Its gambrel roof, Flemish bond brick and exaggerated irregularity of doors and windows are most attractive and it is reportedly inhabited by the friendly ghost of a Civil War veteran.

Thomas Lovitt House — "Rollingwood," now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Maury Riganto, with its building date, 1776, recorded in one of its bricks. Fully restored, it features a gambrel roof and lovely antique furnishing and is surrounded by rolling spacious grounds.

Kellam Home — Home of Judge and Mrs. Richard B. Kellam and Robert Kellam—the original part of the house was built in the 17th century and was added to in 1824 and again in 1900. The paneling on the downstairs fireplace walls is from the Ives House in Blackwater and it is furnished with interesting antique pieces.

Garden of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kellam—the handsome, informal gardens surround a large home of colonial design.

Nimmo Church — Built on land granted to the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1791, the church was built soon after that date and was recently extensively restored.

Adam Thoroughgood House and Garden — Built by Adam Thoroughgood between 1636 & 1640, it is the oldest brick house in America. It was recently restored and is owned by the City of Norfolk. The garden was reconstructed by the Garden Club of Virginia through funds from Historic Garden Week and is an

New Mental Hygiene Head

By JOY HAKIM

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Atlantic Mental Hygiene Center will have a new director on July 1.

Dr. J. N. Williams, chief of the Neuro-Psychiatric Service at Portsmouth Naval Hospital, will take over the local mental health clinic the day after he retires from the Navy.

The center has been under the aegis of Dr. Patricia Pearce since its formal opening in September of 1960.

Dr. Pearce will leave the clinic May 1. She is moving to Texas with her husband, an aeronautical engineer with the astronaut program, and will take a residency in child psychiatry at Baylor University.

Dr. Williams has long been interested in clinic work. He helped out at the Atlantic Mental Hygiene Center during its early months, before the formal opening. When the clinic officially opened five of his patients were carried over.

He has been acting director of the Portsmouth Guidance and Counseling Center. He is president of the Portsmouth Assn. for Mental Health and chairman of the current Bell-ringer Campaign.

Dr. Williams is a native of Richmond and a graduate of the Medical College of Virginia. He was director of the Bureau of Mental Hygiene in Richmond and was also in private practice for ten years.

He expects his work at the mental health clinic to be similar to the work he has been doing at Portsmouth — in other words, the examination and treatment of illnesses.

The Atlantic Mental Hygiene Center, located at 2022 Atlantic Avenue, serves residents of Princess Anne County, Virginia Beach and the Eastern Shore counties of Accomac and Northampton.

The clinic is open to white and negro patients of all ages. The largest percentage of patients, however, are under 40. Fees are based on the ability to pay.

Dr. Williams said that at the moment he has no new plans for the clinic but hopes, "to keep up the high standards set by Dr. Pearce."

Dr. Williams lives in Birdneck Point with his wife and two teenage children.

He is looking forward to working at the Atlantic Mental Hygiene Center and hopes to have a little more time to pursue his hobbies, "gardening and most sports."

Mrs. Foster I. Gilbert, president of the advisory board of the clinic, commented on his selection. "We are very fortunate to have Dr. Williams, he is an excellent administrator and will add a lot to the clinic."

JAMES M. WEST

James M. West, airman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. West of 994 Broadway rd., Virginia Beach, Va., is serving with Training Squadron 23 at the Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Kingsville, Tex.

The squadron trains student carrier pilots in the Navy's advanced training program in air-to-air gunnery, missile employment and advanced jet tactics.

News for HOMEMAKERS

Articles Prepared by the Princess Anne Extension Service

FLOOR COVERINGS TO SUIT YOUR ROOMS

Floor coverings are your largest and most important house furnishings selection. For a well furnished home 20% of the living room and dining room house furnishings budget is usually spent on the rug and from 10% to 15% of the bedroom budget should be spent on rugs. Many young and talented homemakers are cutting the cost by making large braided or hooked rugs to be used in the living room and dining rooms. These may be moved to the bedrooms when the budget permits the desired rugs for the living room, the dining room and the hall.

Build your color scheme around your rug, coordinating the colors and pattern of the walls and furniture covers. Key the walls and floor colors to get the effect you need. For instance, light green walls with medium green rug will make your room appear larger, cocoa brown walls and beige rug will make the room darker and appear smaller. Medium tones of your favorite color gives more satisfaction than light tones that soil easily and dark shades that show tracks and surface dirt. Leading color trends for rugs are taupe gray, beige, green, mauve, cinnamon brown in plain, tone-on-tone and textured rugs. Rugs in adjoining rooms may exactly match or blend. You might use a plain rug in the living room and hall and a floral or textured rug in the dining room.

SIZE

There are two popular sizes for room-size rugs, the walk-to-wall carpeting for the room that would otherwise need a new floor or floor finish and the rug with a narrow margin of floor (6 to 12 inches) showing all the way around. Forget the 9x12 rug. Measure your room and get the width of broadloom (which comes in 9', 10½', 12', 15', and 18') that most nearly leaves the 6 to 12-inch margin.

Have the merchant who sells the rug to cut out around the hearth and other jogs to make the rug fit the room. If you must work on a budget try using the largest hooked or braided rug you can afford, to draw your furnishings together at the center of interest. This is better than buying two or three small rugs. Or use Nundah rugs imported from India. They have a white felted ground with colored embroidery. In large sizes they look well in informal rooms. Loop-pile, sisal, and hand woven rugs are inexpensive and give fairly good wear. Some loop rugs come with a rubber base backing to make them stay on the floor without slipping.

PLAIN OR PATTERNED
Attractive rooms can be worked out with either plain or patterned rugs. However, the plain, textured or tone-on-tone rugs allow more flexibility in choosing well decorating, draperies, and slip cover fabrics. Your rug should last a long time through a number of changes of wall and window decorations. Have a patterned rug as you want it but don't blame it on the children. You can get hardwired, textured and tone-on-tone rugs that are easy to care for and those that are less likely to grow tiresome than patterned rugs.

Don't buy a gaudy design just because your local merchant says that it is a good seller. Insist on good subtle colors and good design and the local merchants will make them available. American Orientals had best be left in the stores. They fade and are "boss" of the decorating scheme. If you own an imported Oriental, of course, you will build your decorating scheme around it, using plain fabrics and wallpaper to pick up colors of the rug.

Plain and textured carpet or rugs make the room appear larger. Floral carpet makes the room appear small. The effect you want will help you make your decision.

Remember when choosing a rug that your floor covering is a long time investment. The utmost care should be taken to see that it will suit the family needs and not grow tiresome. If the choice must be made between quality and size you will get more effective decorating by choosing the right size in lower priced carpet or rug.

Use the rug as a coordinator for colors in wall, woodwork, furnishing, and also of colors of adjoining rooms. Secure a rug that will show tracks least and one that will be easy to care for. Avoid extremes in styles. A rug cushion prolongs the life of the rug, makes it safer and more luxurious. If scatter rugs must be used for a budget room, remember that one larger rug at a center of interest will do more than three small ones. Care saves wear—keep rug free of grit, spots and film.

SHRINE UNITS OFF ON GOODWILL TOUR

Saturday, April 21, the uniform units of Khedive Temple Shrine will join in a pilgrimage to the "Peanut Country" of Tidewater, stopping off at several of the cities and towns to parade and present the various units performing drill patterns or rendering musical selections.

In addition to the Arab Patrol, Khedive Band, Chanters, Color Guard, Drum & Bugle Corps, and Oriental Band, there will be the Clowns and Hill-Billies making fun for the children.

Illustrious Potentate, Brock J. Scott, has arranged the following schedule of appearances:

Following the parade in Suffolk, the units will go to the Suffolk Shrine Club to join other members of Khedive Temple at a "Shad Bake."

Phones Have Many Uses

Developments in telephone service for the home have been so rapid in the past few years that today many families are unaware of the number and the variety of telephonic servants at their beck and call said L. F. Patrick, manager of the local Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia.

Telephone service has come a long way from the single black phone in the center hall. It has blossomed into a variety of charming colors that can be fitted to suit the whole family's needs and comfort.

Said C&P manager Patrick, there can be extensions, where needed, in different shapes and sizes—the wall phone, the Princess with the built in night light, as well as the conventional type phone.

Of the 1.1 million telephones in C&P territory more than 300,000 are extensions, of which some 200,000 are in color.

Also families now can have the revolutionary Home Interphone. This new system permits a wide range of intercom services from answering the door to baby sitting, plus the handling of outside calls from every phone in the home.

For those who like a chime, instead of a ring, a new Bell Chime is available. It provides a choice of three sounds — a loud bell, a low bell, and a melodic chime.

There are volume control phone sets for the hard-of-hearing as well as those for mothers with overly vocal youngsters.

Another item growing in popularity, said C&P manager Patrick is the private phone and listing for the teenager presented by parents as a special incentive reward for help around the house, good grades, or other desirable performance.

MARRIED LIFE

Young Actor: "I've got a job at last, father. It's a new play and I'm a man who has been married twenty years."
Father: "Splendid. That's a start anyway, my boy. Maybe some of these days they'll give you a 'speaking' part."

ASST. HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT TRANSFERS

Miss Lois Erdman, the Assistant Home Demonstration Agent in Princess Anne County has received a transfer to work with the Agricultural Extension Service and the 4-H Club Department in the State of Michigan.

Miss Erdman has become quite familiar to most of the 4-H Club members in this area, and her many talents and services will be missed a great deal. However, I am sure that her ability in working with youth programs will be greatly expanded and she will continue to build the 4-H Club program as time goes on. Best of luck to Miss Erdman in her future exploits.

F. W. COX HIGH SCHOOL

The Princess Anne County 4-H Public Speaking Contest was held in the auditorium of the Frank Cox High School, on Thursday, April 12. Contestants from the 4-H Clubs throughout the County participated in this contest and the winners will be announced in next week's column.

The Senior winner of the County 4-H Public Speaking contest traveled to Petersburg, Virginia, on Saturday, April 14 and competed with 16 other senior county winners from the counties in the Southeastern Extension district. The winner of the district contest will also be announced in next week's column.

Public speaking is one of many activities in which 4-H Club members have an opportunity to better prepare themselves to become our citizens of tomorrow. In participating in the Public Speaking event, the Club member not only learns how to make a good speech, but also the value of being able to speak before groups and the benefits that are reached because of this ability.

4-H RECORDS UNDER EVALUATION

Record books which have been completed during this 4-H Club year are now in my office for evaluation in order that they may be judged and proper recognition given to those 4-H Club members who have done outstanding work in this field.

Many of the 4-H Club projects have not been completed as of yet, due to the fact that they are projects which must be carried out during the summer months, however, these projects will be held over for evaluation next 4-H Club year. The outstanding records will be recognized, and awards given at the County Achievement Program which is to be held in May.

I am pleased to announce that 4 Princess Anne County 4-H Club members have submitted Achievement Records to be entered in State competition. These records are as follows: Miss Ginger Oliver, Home Economics; Miss Sharon Fenton, Home Management; Mr. George Lee, Beautification of Home Grounds; Mr. William W. Turner, Forestry and Wildlife. The winners in the State 4-H Achievement Record Competition will be announced shortly. Hats off to these 4-H Club members who are doing such a fine job with their records.

4-H CLUB LEADER RECOGNITION BANQUET NOW BEING PLANNED

Plans are now underway by a sub-committee of the agricultural committee of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce for the Annual Leader Recognition Banquet for 4-H Club leaders in Norfolk and Princess Anne counties.

Tentative plans indicate that Mr. Jack M. Tyree, State 4-H Club Agent, will be guest speaker for the program. Other guests to have a part on the program include Mr. D. T. Rogers, Jr., District Extension Agent, Mrs. Ann W. Frame, District Agent in Home Economics, and several members of the agricultural committee of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce.

The Committee planning the Leader Recognition Banquet consists of Chairman Jerry Doorman, Jack Thomas, Assistant County Agent in Norfolk County, and myself.

COUNTY ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM TO BE HELD IN MAY

Plans are now underway for the Annual Princess Anne County 4-H Achievement Program. At the Achievement Program, 4-H Club members throughout the County are recognized and awards are given for outstanding work in all of the different 4-H Club project fields and other areas.

The planning of this program is now being done by the 4-H County Council, with the assistance of the County Extension workers. Definite plans will be announced in the near future.

CAMP FARRAR PLANNING PROGRESSES

Plans are now underway and the programs are already outlined for the many different 4-H Club Camp weeks to be held at Camp Farrar on 85th Street, Virginia Beach.

Junior 4-H Club members from Norfolk and Princess Anne counties will have an opportunity to attend 4-H Camp at Camp Farrar on the week of July 30 through August 4th.

Senior 4-H Club members will be able to attend Senior Camp the week of August 6-11. I hope that all 4-H Club members and their parents will make a note of the Camp dates and make plans for as many as possible to attend the 4-H Camps. This is a week during the 4-H Club year in which the Club members have an opportunity to fellowship together in a program that is so designed that they can receive valuable training as well as participate in a well-rounded recreational program. The 4-H Camp is well supervised by many VPI Extension Agents throughout the State as well as adult volunteer leaders. At least two qualified lifeguards are on hand at all times when swimming takes place.

This is a 4-H Club week from which lifetime members may be obtained.

Dodson Gains Highest Selling Honor in Autos

VIRGINIA BEACH—William P. Dodson has been awarded Chevrolet Motor Division's highest selling honor.

Dodson, a member of the sales staff of Clark Chevrolet Corporation was named to membership in Chevrolet's "Legion of Leaders" honor club at a special award banquet attended by members from the Division's Richmond Zone. This is his 8th entry into the select group of Chevrolet salesmen.

For over a quarter of a century Chevrolet has recognized its leading salesmen. The first "Honor Organization" was inaugurated in 1926. Now, 36 years after its inception, the "Legion of Leaders" is considered the most rewarding recognition program for salesmen in the automotive industry. Dodson was also named to the "Hall of Fame" of Chevrolet's truck sales honor club. This is a singular honor attained by very few Chevrolet salesmen.

NEWS FOR VETERANS

Although most students enrolled under the War Orphans Educational Assistance program are pursuing college studies, eligible children may also take training in business and vocational schools.

Students who have finished high school, including students who drop out of school when they pass the age of compulsory attendance, may enroll for business or vocational schools approved by the State Board of Education.

Eligible students are those generally between the ages of 18 and 23 whose veteran parent died of injury or disability incurred in wartime service, or in some cases of extra-hazardous peacetime service. The other parent may still be alive. These students may receive as much $11.00 a month for as many as 36 months when pursuing full-time approved courses.

All children entitled must go through a course of advisement by Veterans Administration education and vocational counselors. For those children not going to college Virginia has several vocational schools, and there are also several business schools as well as hospitals offering nurses training.

Rebel '300' Is Getting Classy Field for Race

Ned Jarrett, national stock car champion from Conover, N.C., and Ralph Earnhardt, Kannapolis, N.C., have signed for the Rebel 300 convertible classic at Darlington Raceway, May 12.

Jarrett, who is currently battling in defense of his title, will drive a 1962 Chevrolet and Earnhardt a Pontiac.

Today's entries are the third and fourth in the $40,000 classic. First-day signers were Dave Pearson, Spartanburg, S.C. in a Pontiac and Nelson Stacy, Daytona Beach winner of the last Southern 500 in a Ford.

Jarrett finished tenth in the 1961 Rebel 300 and sixth in the Southern 500. Earnhardt, one of the most promising of last year's crop of rookies, was seventh in the 300 and ninth in the 500.

The Rebel 300 field is limited to the fastest 32 qualifiers in time trials May 10, 11.

The holiday event, the only convertible stock car classic in the nation, commemorates Confederate Memorial Day and has been dominated by Ford. Of the five runners, Ford has captured four and last year had a one-two finish when Freddy Lorenzen passed Curtis Turner two laps from the finish.

Fireball Roberts, Daytona Beach, is the only two-time winner giving Ford their first victory in the inaugural Rebel 300, 1957 and repeating in 1959 to score Chevrolet's lone win.

LONDON BRIDGE—Princess Anne Stables will hold a Summer Riding Camp in conjunction with its School of Horsemanship from June 18 through August 27 under the direction of Mrs. R. A. Midgett Jr.

Camp will be in session Mondays through Thursdays from 9 a.m. to noon and on Fridays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Transportation will be provided in the Virginia Beach and London Bridge areas.

Harbor Corp., a group of local and statewide businessmen with Reid Ervin of Virginia Beach as president.

Horse Shows Planned
Field trips will be taken to other riding establishments and horse shows are being planned for July and August.

Each youngster will be assigned his own horse or pony by the week and will be taught every phase of caring for his mount and equipment, including an elementary course in stable management that will not require heavy physical work in the barn.

In addition to the camp, a series of 10 weekly classes will be held for beginners and students unable to ride in camp. These classes will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning June 26, from 4 to 5 p.m.

Daily mid-morning snacks will be provided and a picnic lunch will be included in the Friday program.

Plans for next year are already underway, Mrs. Midgett said, and will include provisions for boarding students and swimming and art instruction as well as the morning riding camp.

Mrs. Midgett may be contacted evenings at Princess Anne 426-2882.

W&M Students To Get $1,000 Grant of NAHB

WASHINGTON—A student at the Norfolk, Va., College of William and Mary will receive the 1962 scholarship of $1,000 awarded by the Women's Auxiliary of the National Association of Home Builders.

The award is the seventh annual scholarship presented by the NAHB Auxiliary in honor of its first president, Mrs. Hope Bettilyon, who lives in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Funds for the scholarship are raised each year through the activities of the 55 local NAHB Auxiliaries throughout the country.

Mrs. Dale Witt, Virginia Beach, Va., selected the College of William and Mary as the recipient school, in line with the custom that the immediate past president of the National Auxiliary has the privilege of naming the school. Mrs. Witt was the 1961 Auxiliary President.

The school itself selects the winning student from among applicants interested in home building.

Dr. Lewis Webb, president of the College of William & Mary at Norfolk, said the scholarship will be of "wonderful assistance to some deserving student and our scholarship committee will see to it that it is awarded to the worthiest applicant."

Mrs. Witt presented the check to Dr. Webb at a Women's Housing Conference which was held recently at Virginia Beach under the auspices of the local NAHB Auxiliary.

Notes from Your

STEALING

Husband: "If a man steals — no matter what — he will live to regret it."

Wife: "You used to steal kisses."

Husband: "Well, you heard what I said."

I heard somewhere that before long it will be time for the bulbs you didn't get planted last fall not come up.

GIVE YOURSELF A TREAT

4-H Club Members from Princess Anne County will have 19 mature grain-fed steers to sell at the 12th Annual Portsmouth Junior Steer Show and Sale on May 9th. Any person may purchase a steer, a half, or a quarter of a steer for their home freezer through our office.

Based on last year's carcass yield and price of choice beef, a person can expect top quality beef at a price much less than you pay at the meat counter. Steers average from 900 to 1000 pounds and our office can make complete arrangements to help you in putting into your freezer the finest beef available. Contact our office immediately if you would like to buy some real beef.

Sheep Shearing

We have completed the sheep shearing for those sheep that were scheduled to be sheared during the past week. We would like to inform all of you who have sheep and have not had them sheared at this time to contact Mr. Elmer Hershberger, Route 2, Princess Anne, Virginia. Mr. Hershberger will be glad to make arrangements with you to get this job done.

Hold on to your wool. Don't sell your 1962 wool crop until you heard from us. Arrangements will be made in the very near future for a County Wool Pool. Prices should be similar to those of last year. You will be notified of the price by grade, which will be offered by the Pool. Don't sell your wool until you get this price.

Sweet Potato Varietal Demonstration

Melvin Williams, at Back Bay, is conducting a demonstration for the Extension Service on five different varieties of sweet potatoes.

The seed was obtained from Tom Nugent, Plant Pathologist, at the Virginia Truck Experiment Station. The varieties are: Centennial, Nugget, Gold Rush, V 2158, and Porto Rico 109.

The seed stock has now been bedded. They will be set out separately and harvested separately. Yield and quality will be obtained on all the 5 different varieties.

Melvin will offer back to other growers in the County a percentage of the seed stock which is produced from these 5 different varieties.

Corn Minimum Tillage Demonstrations Ready to Go

If everything goes well, the 3 Minimum Corn Tillage Demonstrations will be planted on Tuesday, April 24. The 3 demonstrations will be conducted by Robert White, of Pungo, Ralph Frost, at Hickory, and Dawley Brothers, at Princess Anne.

Mr. Paul McKown, of DeKalb, will furnish the seed corn and Todd Equipment Co. will do the planting. Growers will be notified by letter when the demonstrations have been planted and requested to view these demonstrations from time to time.

Petal Fall Spray for Peaches

Now is the time to apply this important spray for the control of certain insects and diseases of peaches.

Apply the spray when half of the petals have fallen. The materials to use per 100 gallons of spray are: 1.5 pounds of 15 percent Parathion, plus .3 lb. of 50 percent Dieldrin, plus either .5 lb. of Dichloro, and 3 lbs. of Captan or 5 lbs. dry wettable sulphur.

If this combination is too complicated for the small homeowner, we would suggest that you use the all-purpose spray which is available from most hardware stores and chemical dealers.

For more information, contact our office, and we will be glad to assist you in your individual spray programming.

VIRGINIA EFFICIENT IN HOG NUMBERS

Virginia furnishes only 27% of the hogs slaughtered in the State. We must increase production to furnish the expected increase in population. We are barely holding our own in numbers. This demand should first be met by doing a better job with what is now being produced and then by increasing numbers on each farm to where the farm is economically balanced to make the most efficient use of facilities, labor, feed, and equipment.

A balanced farm operation is said to be one having 1/2 its income from the sale of livestock.

A NEW ADDITION

The Art of Listening Prayer
by The Rev. Edmund Berkeley
Galilee Episcopal Church

Most people think of prayer as petition, asking God for things for ourselves. This begins to be a habit with us who are brought up in Christian homes as children at our mother's knees, more the pity. As we grow older we learn that prayer is also like the thumb and fingers of our hand, the thumb standing for Adoration or Praise, the forefinger for confession, the Middle Finger for Thanksgiving, the Ring Finger for Intercession, and the little finger for Petition. That leaves the wrist thru the veins of which the life-giving blood comes into the hand, and this most important part, yet least thought of part of the hand denotes for me Listening Prayer, the most important kind of prayer.

Prayer, as has often been said, is a two-way street, when it is real communion between our souls and God, not a one-way conversation. If we get quiet, preferably in the morning, before the business of the day begins, and in a customary place of prayer, in or beside our beds or at some private family altar or place of worship, a favorite chair before a favorite sacred picture or crucifix or cross, thoughts from God will begin to rise into our hearts and minds.

Especially will this be so if we take a piece of paper and a pencil into this prayer period with us, and label the Four Christian Fundamentals of Character, Absolute Honesty, Absolute Purity, Absolute Unselfishness, and Absolute Love. If we write down what comes to us, we will note that God seeks to us and touches our lives here and there, at this point and at that, seeking to change our self-centered wills into conformity with his will.

We must write immediately what comes to us or, if we wait we will be tempted to rationalize and not do God's will. If we wish to check this guided or listening prayer, we can check it with someone we love and trust to be sure it's not just our subconscious desire welling up to us.

Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Daniel, David, Job, Isaiah—all the patriarchs, prophets, kings, not to mention the Apostles and Disciples like Paul and John, have followed our Lord Jesus Christ himself in this listening prayer, which is so important.

Samuel is an outstanding example of listening prayer. "Give me Samuel's ear, the listening ear, O Lord," as the old hymn says, Samuel heard God's voice in the Temple in the quiet of evening time, but it took Eli to be a check and interpreter to him; and thru Samuel after he listened, God made known his will for Eli and for the nation. Thus it has ever been with real spiritual leaders of the nations since the Jews day, and it can be with us today.

Since the first Easter, the Cross has remained the one great and enduring symbol of Christianity because it best expresses the meaning of faith. Like a precious jewel, the Cross shines with many facets of truth.

† The Cross signifies the hope of faith. It reveals God's love for us in the sacrifice of His Son. It is our assurance of His promise of salvation.

† The Cross signifies the challenge of faith. It reveals God's love for all men which we must share. It is the motivation of Christian action.

† The Cross signifies the victory of faith. It is the pledge of God's loving purpose in saving the world. It is the source of peace.

What does the Cross mean to you? On Easter—this greatest festival of our Faith, will you come to Church and discover its message?

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a crucible of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which, without the moral and material support, runs to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The MIXING BOWL ...
IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food fads and tables... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

Regarded for hundreds of years with the deepest suspicion, fruit in the Eighteenth Century became The Fashion. Fresh cherries were a wicked extravagance. They came up, ripe and red as rubies, from the Kentish orchards — by barge along the Thames — to Covent Gardens.
Here in the dawn light they were spilled into costermonger's barrows — along with oranges from Lisbon, China limes, lemons from the West Indies — and were cried all the day through the streets of London, thus:

"Cherry-Ripe, Cherry-Ripe Ripe, I cry, Full and faire ones;
come and buy."

On Good Friday morning only, the cherries were candied or glaced — to be baked into Hot Cross Buns and hawked about the streets, still warm from the oven. Of all the famous buns and small cakes of England, the Hot Cross Bun is the most familiar and the most durable. Cross bread is very old and, being old, is full of pagan symbolism. To the pagan world the cross indicated the four quarters of the moon and the bread was sacred to the gods of the ancient Aztecs and Incas and to the moon goddess of the Egyptians. The sensible Greeks and Romans, seeing that their gods were so fond of it, started eating it themselves. In England, the early Christian church adopted a cross bread from the old Saxon rites—made it respectable and traditional as a breakfast bun for Good Friday. By 1733, "Hot Cross Buns" had become a street cry in England and the inspiration for a folk chant that every child knew — "Hot Cross Buns, Hot Cross Buns; one-a-penny, two-a-penny, Hot Cross Buns."

In America, it is customary to eat Hot Cross Buns throughout the forty days of Lent and they are a familiar sight in our neighborhood bakeries. But how delectable they are when freshly made at home, and how simple they are to make. Our recipe uses hot roll mix which eliminates much of the work, but none of the flavor or the fine yeasty smell. Each bun is crammed full with red and green bits of glace cherries and bears a brave, bright whole maraschino cherry.
Our second recipe is for Bosworth Jumbles. The old tale has it that the recipe for the jumbles was dropped on Bosworth field by Richard of Gloucester's butter-fingered cook — that it was snatched up by young Henry Richmond, first of the Tudors, at about the time poor King Richard was vainly bartering his kingdom for a horse! Dropping the jumbles themselves might have provided a devastating defense action and changed the course of history — as it is plainly impossible to eat, fight and run at the same time. Try them yourself and see if you can stop eating them.

Cherry Hot Cross Buns
(Makes about 18)

1 package (14 1/2 ounces) hot roll mix
3/4 cup warm, not hot, water

1 egg
3/4 cup chopped green glace cherries
3/4 cup chopped red glace
cherries
1 1/4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
5 teaspoons milk

Whole maraschino cherries, with stems, for garnish
Dissolve yeast (in package) in water; blend in egg. Mix in hot roll mix and chopped cherries.
Cover and let rise in a warm place until dough is doubled in size. Flatten dough on lightly floured surface. Shape into 1 1/2 inch balls and place on greased baking sheets. Let rise in a warm place until doubled in size. Using scissors, cut deep cross in each bun. Bake in a hot oven (400°) 10-15 minutes, or until golden brown. Cool slightly.

Combine sugar and milk; mix until smooth. Pour into Crosses.
Top with whole maraschino
cherries.

Bosworth Jumbles
(Makes about 3 1/2 dozen cookies)

3/4 cup butter or margarine
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 egg
2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3/4 cup chopped maraschino cherries (about 15 cherries)
Cream butter or margarine and sugar together. Mix in egg.
Add flour and cherries; mix well. Shape dough with hands into lengths 6 inches by 1/4 inch.
Place on greased baking sheets in "S" shape. Bake in a moderate oven (350°) 10-15 minutes.
Cool 5 minutes; then remove from baking sheets.

Now let's visit the beautiful Renaissance city of Mons — in Belgium. It is Easter morning, the new, still crisp air bears the voices of church bells, as they chime the triumph of the Resurrection — of the new season of Spring and hope. It open windows the sun streams in.
The fresh breeze brings the odors of sweet meadow grass and reborn flowers, and catches in return the fragrance of holiday cakes and pies, cooling on the kitchen window sills.

As the days of fasting have drawn to a close, a procession of holiday roasts and sweet meats have merged from believe ovens — in anticipation of the Easter feast. When the family returns from Church on Easter morning, there will be roasts of pig-forest game, fresh bread and Bergamotte pears, baked

17 Bands Enter Band Festival

VIRGINIA BEACH — Seventeen high school bands, with a total of 1,425 students, have already accepted invitations to participate in the Virginia Beach Music Festival June 14-16, according to general chairman Charles H. Forbes, Jr.

The bands will represent the following cities: Asheville and Washington, N.C.; Norton, Chisholm and Emporia, Va.; Simpsonville, S.C.; Calhoun and Avondale Estates, Ga.; Huntington and Summerville, W. Va.; Providence, Scottsville and Henderson, Ken.; Birmingham and Ozark, Ala.; Leesville La.; and Hialeah, Fla.

Under co-sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce and Forbes Candies, the festival will cost about $8,000, Forbes said.

Most of this money will be raised through program advertising and advance ticket sales. Tickets are on sale in the music departments of elementary, junior and high schools throughout the county and at the Chamber of Commerce office.

"We urge the citizens of this area to buy a book of 10 tickets," Forbes said, "to help us promote this festival."

During the 3-day event, the bands will maintain a full schedule of activities at the Virginia Beach High School Stadium and music companies will open exhibits in the school building.

Marching events will be held June 14 and 15 every 15 minutes between 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. and concerts will be held every 40 minutes from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Ticket holders may enter the Stadium grounds any time during the three-day period.

On June 16 at 2 p.m. all bands will participate in a parade through Virginia Beach. That night there will be a dance and special show for members of the visiting bands. At this time winners of the competitive drills and concerts will be announced.

The grand prize will be a certificate for $1,200 for expense money to bring the winning band back to the 1963 festival. Each student will receive a medal and the school will receive a trophy.

New Fire Group Being Organized For Plaza Area

PRINCESS ANNE—Residents of Princess Anne Plaza, Malibu, Birchwood Gardens and King's Grant will hold their third Volunteer Fire Department meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the Davis Corner Volunteer Fire Dept.

The two previous meetings of this group determined the name of the new fire company to be the Lynnhaven Fire Co. No. 1. It will be made up of volunteers from the four developments.

At present the Lynnhaven No. 1 has 46 active members and one charter member, John Aragona. The group has acquired land at Club House Road and Rosemont and have obtained the services of an architect to draw plans for the proposed fire house. The charter has also been submitted to the state.

Two working committees have been set up—the building equipment and nominating committees. Nominated officers will hold office until January, 1963.

Monday's meeting will be to elect officers and view the fire apparatus housed and used by the Davis Corner Department.

Men over 18 years of age in Princess Anne Plaza, Birchwood Gardens, Malibu and King's Grant are urged to attend the meeting to help establish a very necessary organization for these communities.

Immediate fire protection in this area is a must! Help others to help yourself—attend the meeting Monday and urge others to attend.

Revival Service Set for Oceana

OCEANA—Rev. Frank Mays is the guest evangelist for the revival services now in progress at the First Assembly of God located on Virginia Beach Blvd. at East Lane, in Oceana, Va. The services begin at 7:30 each evening and will be concluded Sunday evening, April 29th.

As president of the Potomac District Christ's Ambassadors, Rev. Mays is director of the Assemblies of God youth program. His responsibilities include the supervision of an annual convention and a youth camp representing some 200 churches. The youth of these churches sponsor the "Speed The Light" program. This program provides for planes, boats, cars, bicycles, printing presses and all necessary equipment for foreign missionaries to help them in their efforts to teach and reach the people of the world with the Christian Gospel message. Over 800 missionaries in 76 foreign lands have received help from this "Speed The Light" program.

Rev. Samuel D. Beller, Jr., pastor of the church encourages you to attend these services.

African Women

Strange World For Rhodesians

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

BIRDNECK POINT — Thousands of African women each year leave their tribal villages for the suburban life when their husbands take jobs in the city. Here they are suddenly thrust into an alien world of modern conveniences where their primitive backgrounds make them strangers to their own people.

In native villages the wife knows exactly what is expected of her but when she moves to the city she must find her place in society. The adjustment is great but it is extremely necessary because she will hold her husband back if she does not progress with him.

But those wishing assistance in adjusting get a helping hand from Wyn Wilson, an easy-mannered woman with reddish hair whose soft voice carries a trace of her native Irish accent.

Miss Wilson is employed as a social worker by the municipality of Bulawayo, the second largest city in Southern Rhodesia. There are 180,000 Africans in the area she serves and sometimes it seems as if all of them have problems.

Through her work with the advancement of women, Miss Wilson was awarded a grant by the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, in which she is very active, to attend the three-week Status of Women session at the United Nations. There are 21 countries represented in this session and she was sent as BP&W delegate from Southern Rhodesia.

At the end of the session recently Miss Wilson was selected for a State Department grant to visit communities throughout America so that she could take some of the ideas from this country back to Rhodesia.

Visited Here
Miss Wilson took time out from her cross-country tour to spend the Easter holidays with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Farmer of Birdneck Point. She and Mrs. Farmer are sisters-in-law who had never had an opportunity to meet until this visit.

"This is the most beautiful place I've ever seen," Miss Wilson exclaimed as she looked out over Linkhorn Bay from the back yard of the Farmer home. "The dogwood trees are so lovely. We don't have them in Rhodesia."

Slightly burned from too much Easter Sunday sun, she marveled at the swimmers she had seen on the beach, explaining that the water in Rhodesia, though beautiful, is contaminated by snails. Persons swimming in the water are vulnerable to a disease of the blood similar to leukemia.

Most of Miss Wilson's work centers around Mpopoma, a settlement of nearly 4,000 homes very much like America's housing projects. The one-story houses, costing about 500-600 pounds ($1,000), are mostly inhabited by unskilled workers and their families. Many of the men do domestic work since they are untrained for anything else.

Kiwanis Moves Into Mexico

Kiwanis International has just established its first club outside the United States and Canada, R. G. Boshier, president of the Kiwanis Club of Virginia Beach, announced today.

Boshier said the Kiwanis Club of Tijuana, Baja, California, Mexico, established on April 17, was the first club organized outside of English and French speaking North America in the 47-year history of the international service organization.

News of the historic event came from I. R. Witthuhn, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, President of Kiwanis International. The service organization's headquarters are in Chicago at the Kiwanis International Building, 101 East Erie Street.

In accordance with Kiwanis policy, the new club of Tijuana was sponsored by, and assisted in its organization by, neighboring Kiwanis clubs: The Kiwanis Club of San Diego and the Kiwanis Club of Chula Vista, Cal.

Seventy-one charter members made up this first Kiwanis club in Mexico. Senior Benjamin Garcia Montiel, an official of Agua Caliente Race Course, is the president of the club.

A large delegation of Kiwanians from the San Diego area crossed the border into Tijuana tonight for the permanent organization meeting. Formal charter presentation will take place on May 15.

Elk Lodge Idea Planned

VIRGINIA BEACH — A discussion meeting looking to the possibility of establishing a Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks Lodge in Virginia Beach was held here this week.

Herbert L. Willard, a past exalted ruler of Lodge 82 in Portsmouth, was on hand to discuss the matter with a group of interested Virginia Beach businessmen. Willard explained that the Elk movement has 1948 lodges in the United States with approximately 1,500,000 members. It is the oldest and largest type organization of its kind.

No date was set for the next meeting of the group. However, the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce will serve as a clearing house for the proposal. Any one interested in establishing an Elk Lodge here should contact Mrs. Julia Nelms at GA 8-1922.

Active Group

Troop 378 a Winner

VIRGINIA BEACH—Boy Scout Troop No. 378 of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church have been an active group of boys this year, having eight scouts who earned the Order of Golden Ax, six who will be eligible for Camp Philmont and several others with outstanding honors.

Face the Elements
To win the coveted Golden Ax award, Scouts must be credited with an overnight camping trip each month out of the year, often pitting their scouting knowledge against extreme weather conditions.

Winning this award are Ryan Amburn, Louis Hubbard, Mike Hallock, Charles Sanders, John Ort, Stanleigh Phillips and John Wolfe.

Camp Philmont, located at Cimmaron, N.M., is one of the highlights of the scouting year. In order to attend, scouts must be 14 years of age, be a First Class Scout and earn a portion of his trip expenses, usually amounting to over $40.

Local Boaters Land Locked by Sand Dredging

VIRGINIA BEACH — Local boat enthusiasts found themselves land bound Sunday when they tried to leave Broad Bay. The dredge pumping sand from Seashore State Park to the storm-damaged beach had locked itself in and made the canal impassable.

In order for the dredge to get to the narrows, Col. J. D. Snow, District Engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, said, it had to scoop a pathway through the shallow water.

Canal Spot Worse
The worst spot is where Long

Creek meets the beach canal. The dredge draws between five to six feet of water and was unable to get through the shallow water at this point.

The dredge operator, working on a close schedule, decided to dredge the sand from the canal in order to get through. He was hemmed on one side by a bulkhead, Col. Snow said, and by "riff-raff" on the other side.

The operator deposited the sand along the edges of the water but it sifted in behind the dredge as it made its way to the narrows, closing the canal. Several boats were stuck in the sand Sunday afternoon.

"We are very much upset over this," E. H. Church of the Cavalier Golf and Yacht Club Board of Governors said Wednesday. "Many of our members have contacted Col. Snow and he assures us it will be corrected immediately."

The yacht division of the Cavalier has an opening scheduled May 12 with many visiting boats expected to attend. With the canal closed they cannot reach the Cavalier Club.

"Our pleasure boats cannot get in or out with the canal the way it is," Ray Cassett, Commodore of the yacht division, said. "The dredge will be in the narrows for three months. If something isn't done before it leaves it will ruin our summer season."

Col. Snow said that the Army Engineers, who are overseeing the dredge work through the Atkinson Dredging Co. of Great Bridge, will send in a smaller unit to clear the canal within the next few days.

"We will certainly have the canal open by May 12," he said. "We are doing survey work now to see about correcting it. We will work through the county to see where they want the material deposited."

When the dredge work is completed, Col. Snow said, the narrows will be greatly improved. Improvement have already been made to Rainey's Gut, he said.

Three Direct Next V.B. Play

By SUZANNE WHITEHURST
VIRGINIA BEACH — The forth coming Virginia Beach Little Theatre play, "The Philadelphia Story" has the distinction of having not one director but three. However, only one, Rich Newman, is participating actively in that role for the show itself. The other two fulfill the roles of mother and daughter on stage demonstrating that if the talent is there, you can direct at any age.

The youngest director, Holly Winters, plays the part of Dinah Lord, the vivacious teenage sister. With the same ambition it took to make her a tennis champion, she directed the Norfolk County High School senior class to first place victory in a competition with "Three on a Bench."

Joan Sawyer, who plays a young mother, began acting at 17 and went on to a string of accomplishments including "Woman of Chiallo," "My Eileen" and many others.

Started Own Theatre
Upon moving to Texas she discovered a Theatre available. There she set about borrowing money to build a stage and a theatre.

Money Key Success Factor for Schools In Athletic Field

By FLETCHER BRYANT
Virginia Beach Sports Club

College football today is big business and no one knows this more than the coaches who are fired each year by schools with strong alumni groups. Money is the key to success and without it a good solid athletic program on a big time level is doomed. Schedules are made up as many as 5 or 6 years in advance and unless schools are going to maintain a uniform program they cannot hope to offer the public an attractive game week in and week out.

William and Mary is a shining example of a school not being uniform through the year. The W&M football schedule has been made for several years and they must play these games without the manpower to compete equally. Why? The reason is simple, each year W&M brings in 12 or 13 scholarship athletes in comparison to the schools on their schedule like Army, Navy, Tulane, Richmond, and Florida State who bring in 4 or 5 times that number.

By reason of sheer numbers W&M is at a distinct manpower disadvantage. Recruiting is also made difficult by the fact that no good high school athlete wants to play on a losing team, especially if he is good and one of the stronger colleges is interested in him.

The result: W&M must go after the second rate high school athlete instead of the so-called "blue chip" boys. In order to get the blue chip athlete a school has to sell the boy on its curriculum, athletic physical plant, schedule, won and loss record, and his place in their future plans. When the only thing a school can offer is a good academic program and a beating every Saturday, it is often difficult to convince a boy the school is the best.

I am quick to agree that fame on an athletic field is secondary to an education, but I must admit it all enters in to the final choice of the young well-trained athlete.

In 1948, 1949 and 1950, Virginia Tech won only one ball game in three years and the school was in a sad state mentally and athletically. The coach resigned under pressure and a decision had to be made as to which way they were going to go. They decided to continue to play a representative schedule and eventually go big time.

Frank Mosely was brought in as head coach and athletic director and today the school is striving to field the best possible team it can within its budget and at the same time lower its entrance requirements or academic standard. The theory is that fans will pay to see a good team and fans help buy scholarships. Without a good team there are no fans, and without fans no money, no money, no athletes—and without athletes the school loses.

Three years ago Virginia produced one of the finest high school athletes and scholars in the states history. Tom Windinger was all-state football and state 100-yard dash champion. He graduated tops in his class and attained the highest entrance exams

Thunderbird Major League This league rolled tonight with sadness. The untimely death of one of our finest bowlers and sportsman leaves us with an empty spot it will be impossible to fill. Clarence Husk of Team No. 3 has rolled the final frame. The game of bowling has suffered a great loss.

Sealy Posturepedic eked out 2½ points from Kelly Supply to remain the leaders. Andy Holland was high man with a fine 236 game and 612 series. Vic Barnett aided the cause with a 559. For Kelly Supply the high roller was Charley Bollen with a 554. Charley, incidentally, fired a tremendous 705 set last Sunday while rolling in the BPAA handicap team tourney.

Coaches pulled themselves out of the cellar by taking Team No. 8, 3 out of 4. Ray Dixon with a 546 and Dick Dickson with a 552 led Coaches. Ron Glass with 564 and Mal Bishop with 557 were the high men in Team 8's losing cause.

Chix Restaurant added to the humiliation of Tastee Freez by taking all four. This puts Tastee Freez in the cellar, the spot they have barely been avoiding for many weeks. Dick Dickson was red hot with games of 227, 201, and 220 for a great 648 set. Tom Moore added a nice 557 and Jack Huenerberg a 540 to completely bury the ice cream peddlers.

Virginia Beach Transfer managed to take 3 out of 4 from Team No. 3 and thereby narrowed the gap between them and first place a slight amount. Jimmy Wolcott continued his fine bowling with a 591 and Paul Holder and Art Roy came up with a pair of 550's for the truckers. Chuck Runyon rolled a respectable 568 in the losing cause.

League Standings
	Won	Lost
Sealy Posturepedic	40	16
Va. Beach Transfer	24 1/2	18 1/2
Team No. 3	32	24
Chix Restaurant	29	27
Kelly Supply	23 1/2	32 1/2
Coaches	22	34
Team No. 8	20 1/2	35 1/2
Tastee Freez	19 1/2	36 1/2

score ever achieved at the Naval Academy. Why did he choose to go to Georgia Tech? Not because of its Engineering school but because of its all-around physical plant and academic standard.

A good football or basketball team affects the entire spirit of the campus, alumni and friends of a school. In 1950 VPI was down so far that the student body was considering changing the nick name from Gobbler to something a little meaner. The band sat in the stands & played at practice to pep the boys up and it was all to no avail. The fortunes of a college are sometimes reflected by its athletic teams and today in Virginia I feel that some of the schools are realizing the importance of sports and are striving to put Virginia on the map with the likes of Army, Navy, LSU, and Notre Dame.

U or R Gets Boost The business men of Richmond have been pouring 50 thousand a year into the Univ. of Richmond to build a bigger and better team. This is the 3rd year of the program and should begin to bear the fruits of victory.

The University of Virginia has finally done away with tradition and is beginning to make its bid for the athletic dollar.

VMI is never down simply because they do not pretend to be a big time school athletically. They have a well rounded program with balanced scheduling and year in and year out they play interesting ball in all sports.

College athletics are a big factor in many schools today & I do not believe that a school should sacrifice honor, integrity and academics just to satisfy a few rabid alumni. But I do believe that a balanced program athletically and academically will create a better atmosphere and produce a better finished product.

BENJAMIN R. JOHNSON Benjamin R. Johnson, airman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. & Mrs. Robert H. Johnson of 4048 K Route G33, Virginia Beach, was graduated, March 30, from the Aviation Familiarization School at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn.

Private Owned Course Remodeled

Aerial view of improved Highland Links Golf Course

New Highland Links Conversion June 1

By GENE MOORE

PRINCESS ANNE — The second public golf course in the new City of Virginia Beach will come into being when Highland Links Country Club completes its conversion from a Speed Links to a regular course sometime around June 1.

The course actually opened last summer but golfers didn't care too much for the idea of hitting two balls off the tee, which is the way a Speed Links operates. So the first of January the club started converting it to a regular 9-hole course.

There are six holes already completed and the other three should be finished by June 1.

The course covers 44 acres of a beautifully landscaped area with 18 man-made lakes, four of which are in play.

Swimming in the lakes are a number of wild ducks who are already so accustomed to golfers that they will huddle in a group and stand patiently beside a fairway until the players have passed, then proceed unalarmed to the next lake.

Golfers find that Highland Links offers a variety of interesting and challenging holes. It is designed for the average golfer rather than the expert and the long drivers often find themselves in trouble—either in a sand trap or a lake—since the hazards are usually located about 200-250 yards off the tee.

Of the nine holes, two are par 5, three are par 3 and four are par 4, totaling 2,980 yards. A brief description of these holes includes:

- No. 1—a par 5; 478 yards, narrow fairway requiring three straight shots with two sand traps guarding the green.
- No. 2—a short par 3; 135 yards, with a green bordered by woods on the right and a sand trap and lake on the left.

- No. 3—a 400 yard fairway requiring an accurate second shot since the left front of the green is guarded by a lake and a cedar tree guards the area about 30 yards short of the green.
- No. 4—210 yards, par 3, requires a good long tee shot, a lake and sand trap guards the right front approach of the green, another trap to the left front and yet another at the left rear.
- No. 5—golfers may take a breather on this 155-yard par 3 since the hole is straight from the tee with a sand trap bordering the left side of the green.
- No. 6—a 350-yard par 4 where the player must hit an accurate tee shot over a lake for the first 160 yards then the fairway opens up to a sand trap and a lake bordering the left side of the green.
- No. 7—372 yard par 4 with a sand trap 255 yards from the tee to catch long hitters and a lake on the right side of the green.
- No. 8—294 yards par 4, requiring a 184-yard tee shot and a 100-yd. approach shot around a very sharp dog leg to the left, with two sand traps at the turn, and the green bordered on the right by a lake.
- No. 9—427 yards par 5, said to be the shortest par 5 on any course in this area, requiring a well placed tee shot onto a plateau which is 200 yards from the tee, then a lake, 45 yards wide, directly in play. The green is guarded by two lakes with only a narrow passageway access to the green so the second shot should be about 227 yards.

Highland Links is owned and operated by James P. Sadler of Virginia Beach. D. A. Barnes is the golf pro, Marvin Taylor Jr., is his assistant and Mrs. Barnes takes care of the snack bar.

The club not only offers a top notch golf course but also has a practice fairway for short irons and 1,130 square feet in a putting green. The clubhouse provides the pro shop, snack bar, lounge, game room and locker room.

Future plans for this outstanding facility call for an upstairs on the clubhouse to house a dining room and bar and a ladies locker room.

Fishing Event Opens Tuesday

The Fifth Annual Virginia Salt Water Tournament, sponsored by the Salt Water Sport Fishing Association of Virginia, will open Tuesday, May 1, 1962 at 6 a.m.

Open and free to everyone fishing in Virginia waters, the Tournament runs through October 31st and anglers capturing fish meeting minimum Tournament standards, will receive a handsome hand-lettered full colored wall plaque.

The Tournament last year awarded more than 1360 Citation plaques to anglers from 22 states for outstanding catches.

The Virginia Tournament, which was inaugurated in 1958 to promote and develop Virginia's sport fishing industry, originally listed 15 eligible species for the annual six-months contest. In 1960, the list of eligible species was expanded to include 22 of the more popular game fish commonly taken from Virginia waters. There is one minor change in the list of eligible species for 1962, the wahoo with a minimum weight requirement of 20-pounds will replace the white perch.

Handsome inscribed silver trophies will be awarded to the anglers capturing the heaviest of each of the 22 eligible species. Special plasticized Sportsman-ship plaques will be awarded to anglers who release white marlin or tarpon, unharmed, regardless of size.

Never a Dull Moment in Solving Problem Another Is Created

Just when it seemed that pumping sand from a small area of the Seashore State Park was a wonderful and logical solution to the sand need of Virginia Beach up jumps another problem created by the dredge working its way into the park area. Getting the sand from the park is still a good solution and the problem that has arisen should soon be solved.

The problem developed as the dredge cut its way into the Seashore State park area. The cutting action deposited sand and fill in the channel used by small pleasure boats to such an extent that these boats could not get through the Narrows and to Lynnhaven Inlet and the open sea.

It was only natural that the boaters became upset when they were virtually "landlocked" over a delightful Easter weekend that was just right for taking the boat out for a good workout. However, the problem should be solved within a few days.

Colonel J. D. Snow of the Army Engineers has assured the boat people that the channel will be dredged very soon and would certainly be open by May 12.

So it would appear that solving one problem may create another. It certainly has in this case but all should be in order within a matter of days.

Annual Lions Club Broom Sale Is Worthy Project

Next week the Lions Clubs of this area as well as throughout District 24 of that organization will conduct their annual sale of brooms. It will actually be the eleventh year for this district in participating in this project.

Each year eager members of the Lions Club here in Virginia Beach and those in Princess Anne County have turned to canvassing the residential sections to raise funds for their many worthwhile community building projects.

The broom sale this year is scheduled for next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Most of the solicitation is done at night since the Lions learned long ago that they must call when the breadwinner is at home.

Sight conservation is the principal mission of Lions International and this fine organization has done a tremendous job in helping to save the sight of many youngsters and at the same time improve the sight of many individuals.

The broom sale is a very significant project and as in the past we feel certain that this community and area will again lend its support to the Lions.

Up to the Individual

There is a danger that regulations concerning alleged frauds and irregularities by people connected with one of this country's stock exchanges may create the idea that the securities industry has more than its share of shapers.

It will be highly unfortunate if that turns out to be the case. For it simply isn't so. In fact, the protection offered the 15 million or so people who have become stock buyers is about as complete as human ingenuity can make it.

The securities industry, in all its ramifications, is regulated by both federal and state authorities. But this is by no means the end. The New York Stock Exchange, which is the country's principal organization of its kind, has voluntarily imposed extremely stringent regulations of its own devising. It recognizes the fact that there are bound to be bad apples in every barrel. But so far as the securities industry is concerned, it is determined to see that the bad apples are held to the absolute minimum.

No one can guarantee that any stock, or any other kind of property for that matter, will increase in value. What the Exchange is doing is to insure that any investor will have available full and accurate information concerning any corporation in whose issues he may be interested. But it can't force the potential investor to take advantage of this. If he listens to "hot tips," and is receptive to the blandishments of telephone dynamiters who work for the modern versions of bucket shops, he is asking for trouble.

Information is free for the asking from reputable, established brokerage houses. And the only intelligent, successful investor is an informed investor.

Fondest Memories Centered Around Dinner Table

At home we are surrounded by those who love us and whom we love. This is a state of affairs usually taken for granted. We are not afraid of losing this affection, we are confident of their devotion, so sometimes are careless about many small ways of showing this feeling.

Mealtime should be fun time for the family. If you have ever been away from home for any length of time, I'm sure you have thought "What I would give to be eating with the family to night." Some of our fondest memories of childhood are centered around the dinner table.

Meals Take Time

It has been said that about one-half of man's time and energy go into providing the family with three meals each day. This includes raising the food, earning money to buy it, the planning, to say nothing of the cooking, serving, and cleaning up after each meal. With modern food processing, much of the "get-ready" is done in factories instead of homes, but the food business occupies a large part of much of our population.

Mealtime should be much more than just a means of getting food. It's a chance for the family to share the interesting events of the day—as well as to discuss plans and current interests of each member of the group. In these busy days of many individual interests and activities, families tend to grow apart unless they have some time for happy sharing of the events of the day. Mealtime offers the best chance for this, because the satisfaction of eating tasty favorite foods gives a relaxed happy attitude. Sitting close around a table also gives a feeling of "one-ness" to the group. Through this daily contact, members come to develop deep bonds of love and loyalty.

Values of Sharing
Mealtime is an activity all can share in, not just to eat, but to help plan, prepare, serve or clean up afterward. Where mother, father and all the children share in all these activities, it really makes mealtime—fun time. Everyone enjoys things they have an active part in.

Sharing Preparation
Mother may be "chief cook" but father and children often enjoy taking their fling at being "chef"—and trying their hand at preparing certain "favorites". Encouraging youngsters to do some of this gets their interest in the mealtime, helps to get poor eaters to enjoy it, and may hold some who tend to "bolt and run" off to some other interest.

Some families have "men's night" when father and the boys take over to give mother and the girls a change. This is fun for everybody if planned in this spirit. Remember we enjoy things more when we have a part in planning and doing them. Incidentally this gives everybody a greater appreciation of all that is involved in getting a meal.

Outdoor

Everybody enjoys a change and informal outdoor meals are usually popular, especially if well planned, kept simple, and a few favorite foods included. Paper equipment simplifies KP duty, but may be more expensive than plastic or metal if you eat out often. Plan so the food is just as good quality and well cooked, not smoky, dirty, or cold (when it should be hot).

Some Rules at Mealtime

To make mealtime fun time, everyone has to know certain ground rules and observe them such as: (1) Don't bring up problems or unhappy experiences at the table. (2) Don't discuss foods "I don't like." (3) Don't "scold" any member of the family at mealtime. (4) Encourage every member to take part in conversation. Try to discuss topics all will be interested in. Children like to tell what happened at school, which bird or flower they saw for the first time.

New Queen for Auto World To Be Announced

CHARLOTTE, N.C.—A new Miss Automotive World will be crowned here on Monday night, May 7.

The third annual contest, sponsored by Charlotte Motor Speedway, will be held at Ovens Auditorium.

The new queen, who will be crowned by last year's winner, 19-year-old Nancy Ann Harrison of Spartanburg, S.C., will represent various segments of the automotive industry as a public relations emissary during the year. She will also reign at the May 27th World 600 late model auto race at the speedway.

The contest is held in conjunction with a press party and banquet.

The public will get a chance to attend the function this year for the first time. Speedway officials said a limit of 100 tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis for the banquet, beauty contest and social hour. A number of prominent NASCAR drivers will be special guests at the affair. Tickets may be obtained at the speedway office, 108 Liberty Life Bldg.

Miss Ann Parrish of The Charlotte Observer has been named supervisor and coordinator of the contest, which is open to all girls between the ages of 18 and 25 who have never been married and who are at least five feet, four inches tall.

Rhodesians

In order to help the women progress, Miss Wilson sets up groups to teach them housework, cooking and child care because most of them are uneducated. There are 10 languages spoken in Rhodesia so she must work a great deal of the time with an interpreter.

Forms Women's Clubs

She also helps the wives organize women's clubs so that they will create an interest in their new surroundings and get to know other women. Although most of the African men wear western clothes, the women continue to wear their tribal dress of long cotton toga-like garments, she said.

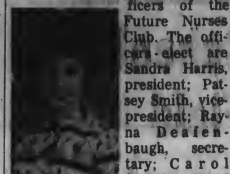

The weather in Miss Wilson's adopted country is dry and hot with only two cool months. October is known as the "suicide month" because it precedes the rainy season and is extremely uncomfortable.

When Miss Wilson completes her American tour in July she will make a report on the Status of Women at the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club meeting in Oslo, Norway. After a visit with her family in Belfast, Ireland, she will return to her social work in Rhodesia, a country she loves and "hopes never to leave."

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

The power of words is a frightening thing. One word misused or out of place can completely subvert a thought or idea. This horrifies writers.

I'm building up to something, you know. With one word I aged a man considerably. I'm referring to the story on last week's front page about the couple returning to the Cavalier for their 35th wedding anniversary. It stated: "Walter Chapman, reservations manager who was with the hotel in the 30's..." Anyone who knows Mr. Chapman knows darn good and well he couldn't have been with the hotel in the 30's—the Child Labor Law would not permit it.

Obviously the article should have stated he was at the hotel then—he was only a boy. My apologies to Mr. Chapman for aging him so. Wouldn't it be nice if all of us could erase that many years with a word?

KIDS, NOT CATTLE

But I'm not the only writer who goofs (small comfort). A society headline in one of the dailies came out with "Mother of Four Stears..." which turned out to be an article on Mrs. John Dennis, general chairman of the Boardwalk Art Show. This didn't mean, of course, that Mrs. Dennis is the mother of anything but four nice children. It meant that, even as a mother of four, she is steering the ever-growing, popular art show. But that wasn't the first impression.

A few weeks ago I had an opportunity to do a story on two families, the O'Neals and Bowdens, who lost everything, including two loved ones, in the March 7 storm.

Recently I received a letter from Norris Austin, the postmaster at Corolla, N.C., near where the two families lived. So impressed was I with his words that I would like to pass on to our readers some of the things he had to say.

"Perhaps there was no greater loss on our coast than what these families suffered from the storm. There was a lot of property damage which can be replaced, but there is nothing that can replace in our hearts the loss of these two fine citizens.

"As far back as I can remember Mrs. Eva O'Neal has always been collected for the Red Cross and even though she didn't live to see them help her own family I know she believed that they would in time of need. I can remember back as a child in school when each year one day in March Mrs. O'Neal would visit the school and collect for the Red Cross and give us a talk about them.

"Even though many of us didn't believe that they would help in time of need it was hard not to give as she was such a firm believer in them.

"Mrs. O'Neal was an outstanding citizen in many ways and was loved by young and old alike. When anybody was sick or needed help Mrs. O'Neal was always right there to lend a hand. She lived a life dedicated to helping others. Everybody in these small villages are saddened by her passing and her and her good work will long be remembered.

"Mrs. Bowden, who was in her late eighties, has contributed greatly to our communities over the years and was greatly respected by all. That is why I think that your article, in a small way, was a tribute to them by letting the public know of the good they have done.

"Wouldn't it be a nicer world to live in if more of us had the brotherly love and respect of our neighbors that these two women have shown during their life time?"

Yes, Mr. Austin, the world would be a much nicer place with more people like Mrs. Bowden and Mrs. O'Neal. Thank you for your lovely eulogy to them.

KNOW YOUR FABRICS

Just as an architect designs a house with his building material in mind, so too, do dress designers envision certain materials for each style they design. To assure satisfactory results you must choose a fabric suited to the pattern you select. To make this easy for you, most pattern companies list suitable fabrics on the back of each pattern envelope. Unless you have a great deal of experience with fabric, and its properties, you would be wise to confine your choice to those listed on your envelope. Watch also for any warnings, indicating that certain styles are most suitable for stripes, plaids, nap fabrics, or diagonal designs.

After choice of fabric, the next most important thing is the way it is handled. For instance, you may choose a design well suited to corduroy, purchase the fabric, but if you are not aware that corduroy is a nap fabric, and must be handled in a specific way, your garment will not be a success.

Certain fabrics, such as stripes, plaids, velvets and corduroys do need special handling, and if you are just starting to sew, it's smart to begin with easy-to-sew, firmly woven fabrics, either in solid colors or small all-over prints. Later on, you can progress to the more difficult ones.

Needless to say, you want your garment to flatter you, and to maintain its good looks. A knowledge of fabric type, fabric content, and the properties of various natural and synthetic fibers will enable you to choose your material with confidence, and enjoy the results of your efforts.

Consider your own figure when you select your fabric. The correct fabric can flatter you as effectively as the correct style, for it can make you appear shorter or taller, slimmer or fuller. Pick wisely.

Check the label for information concerning content, washability and resistance to creasing. Follow washing or dry cleaning instructions carefully.

Most of today's fabrics are ready for the needle immediately. If the cloth is of inferior quality, it may need to be shrunk. If wool, sponge it; if cotton, wash it. Don't waste your energy on a fabric of poor quality - not only is it difficult to work with, but it will not show off the design to good advantage.

Check the label for color fastness of all fabrics. Viscose and acetate fibers now are given a solution dye to insure complete, permanent color fastness.

More fabrics are washable today than ever before. Cottons, some synthetics and even some wools with a special finish may be hand or machine washed. Again, check the label for this information. If you still are not sure, test a small sample of the cloth by cutting a small square and drawing around it on a paper; after it is washed and pressed, check with the original outline to see if it has shrunk.

Before You Cut

If your fabric is wrinkled or creased from being folded in the bolt, press carefully on the wrong side.

You may have to straighten uneven ends. Draw a crosswise thread; then cut along this thread. If fabric can be torn, cut through selvedge (the woven edge of the fabric) and tear across width. If selvedge pulls tightly, clip slightly about every six inches.

Occasionally, during the process of manufacture, fabrics with crosswise threads become pulled diagonally. To straighten, pull fabric diagonally in the opposite direction till crosswise threads are straight and squared with selvedge and even with edges of cutting table.

AFTER EASTER—WHAT?

The word "after" has led many people to have great hopes and plans for the future only to find disappointment. "After I retire and can take life easy, I will take a world tour or move to Florida, etc." some have said. But when retirement time came, financial reverses and poor health made it impossible to fulfill a life-long plan.

So it is that after Easter many have a let-down feeling and great disappointment in their hearts. They have faithfully kept the Lenten season—they have given up things and sacrificed much as they have remembered this great passion week with its dramatic story of tragedy and triumph! The arrest, trial and crucifixion of our Lord: the dramaturgy of the injustice and savagery of men whose hearts burned with jealousy! On Easter morning we find a sudden change from sadness to the summit of joy; for Christ is risen from the dead! This joy soon dissipates and we go back to the routine of life waiting to re-live next Easter again! But should this be so?

After Easter—What! Should we not carry the joy of this risen Christ in our hearts?

The New Testament church was to do its greatest work after Easter. Before Easter, it was the works which Christ did in person, the teachings He gave and the foundation of Christian example by His life including His demonstration of authority as the head of the church. But after Easter it is now the church that begins its function. For 40 days they continued to enjoy the personal presence of Christ in His bodily form. However, another great event was in the making as Christ ascended into heaven. His parting words to those who "stood watching" was to go to Jerusalem and tarry for personal endowment of power.

We hear much about space and the sensational achievements of man in putting a human into orbit. Man is capable of even greater marvels than he has reached today. So also the after-Easter Christians were to witness an astonishing event that was to cause serious questions as to the sanity of this fascinating phenomena. It was the great event after Easter that put the church into "orbit"; for it was through the heavenly visitation upon the "upper room" worshippers that God sent the Holy Spirit to empower and embolden the church to be able to come forth and "fill all Jerusalem with their doctrine." Surely God has not changed His plans for the Christian church today!

Communism has made phenomenal gains through deceit, subversion, conquest and many methods of psychological warfare to conquer and enslave the people. If there ever was a force superior to Communism, it is God's power. Atheistic Communism has been emboldened by the weakness of the Christian Church! After Easter should come the empowering of God's Holy Spirit to make bold every Christian to an active, zealous life for Christ and not a lukewarm, passive place in the church.

Those post-Easter Christians were commanded by Christ to "wait for the promise of the Father." I am sure it would still be the divine will for us to have no "After-Easter Hangover," but the boldness, authority and irrefutable spirit which possessed the church recorded in the book of Acts should be the desire of every real true follower of Christ.

REMOVE WARTS!

Amazing Compound Dissolves Common Warts Away Without Cutting or Burning. Doctors warn picking or scratching at warts may cause bleeding, spreading. Now amazing Compound W penetrates into warts, destroys their cells, actually melts warts away without cutting or burning. Painless, colorless Compound W, used as directed, removes common warts safely, effectively, leaves no ugly scars.

Baby chicks can't talk—we know that. But we wonder what this little chick would think if chicks could think? Probably he's bewildered... a great big world... great big problems... an orphan already... and hungry! Yet, there's deep meditation here. Man is often like that little baby-chick; bewildered, confused, wondering... especially those on the threshold of a new life or venture. We don't know all the answers, of course, but we do know some! We do know how to reach our Creator (PRAYER), how He reaches us (BY HIS GRACE).

We also know that the most serene place for such communion with the Creator is in church. Here you'll find many answers to many problems. It's worth a try, isn't it?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a "schoolhouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four good reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

PRICE'S SALESMEN

WIN SALES AWARDS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Three salesmen at Price's Hilltop Store tallied up $1,511 in awards in a sales contest that ended March 31. It was announced this week by J. B. Wood, vice president of the firm and manager of the local store.

Jim Hale, with $546, and Dave Swoope, with $515, tied for top honors in the sale of television products. They were the top two salesmen in the entire Price's organization for the 3-month contest.

Bob Johnson, winning $450, was second top salesman in volume in the competition with six other Price's stores.

The Hilltop store, with a whopping 250 per cent of quota in Kelvinator sales, led all other Price's stores and received national recognition for this outstanding sales performance.

"This outstanding sales record is due largely to the wealthy economic conditions of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County," Wood said.

New Apartments Under Construction

A typical living and dining room in new apartments here

New Apartments Here Will Feature Two, Three Bedrooms

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia Beach will soon have a group of deluxe co-operative apartments. Princess Anne Manor, rising between Holly Road and Seapines Avenue, will contain 16 apartment units.

E. H. Webb, a Norfolk real estate man, is in charge of the project. He has built eleven similar co-operatives.

His partners are T. H. Nicholson, a senior vice-president of the Bank of Commerce, and A. E. Searles, a contractor.

According to Webb, "Princess Anne Manor is going to be de luxe throughout, there's nothing at the beach like it."

The apartments will sell for $25,000 for the two bedroom models and $29,000 for three bedrooms.

All of the apartments will feature paneled dens, separate dining rooms and two baths.

The kitchens will have stainless steel double sinks, garbage disposals, Tappan "400" ovens, and built-in birch cabinets.

Garages will be included and laundry rooms with dryers and attachments for the owner's washing machine.

The colonial style apartments will be landscaped and planted. The lawns will be terraced on several levels.

Webb is planning on a November 1 completion date.

School Engineer Gives Views on Future Designs

PRINCESS ANNE — The schools of tomorrow will probably have deep carpeting to replace the terrazzo and tile flooring and have air conditioning throughout, according to County Engineer Ernie Stone.

Carpeting, Stone said, will not only add beauty and luxury but, more important, be easier to maintain and will help keep the classrooms quieter.

Now under construction by the Princess Anne County School Board is a type of carpeting that has the pile impregnated in a foam rubber mat about an inch thick. It will take a great deal of wear but when heavily used spots, such as doorways and teaching stations, become worn the carpeting can be removed and replaced with patches that will blend in within a few weeks.

Take Little Care
Classroom maintenance will be kept at a minimum with such flooring, he said. They can be vacuumed in much less time than the present floors are scrubbed and waxed and will not show the scuff marks from the multitude of little shoes. The carpets will require a thorough cleaning only twice a year and will have a life expectancy of about 10 years.

Though the initial cost of installation will be more than the tile or other flooring, carpeting will pay for itself in maintenance and wear, Stone said. It will also be valuable from the psychological standpoint, since children become quieter and more orderly in a carpeted room.

Air conditioning will keep the schools cleaner and quieter by cutting out most outside noises such as traffic and sonic booms from overhead jets. Children will not be as restless and unattentive during warmer months if the classrooms are kept at a cooler temperature.

Colors are used liberally in the schools today but will be used more lavishly in the future and there will be more of an influx of natural woods.

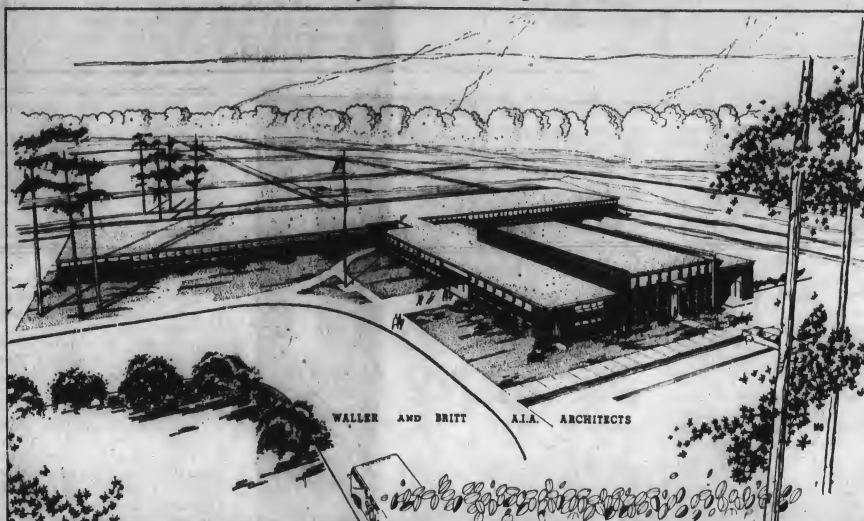

Several changes may be seen in kitchen equipment. This equipment now costs about $15,000 per school but may jump to $25,000 when such things as electronic ovens and other modern conveniences are installed.

10-Second Lunches
But the cost will be nominal when compared to the time it will save in food preparation. The electronic ovens, for instance, will provide hot meals in 10 seconds from frozen foods prepared in advance.

The School Board is seriously considering the possibility of plastic containers and may be dropped in boiling water, as is, to produce deliciously attractive, steaming hot meals.

Before such methods can be used in schools, however, freezers must be installed and more loading space for the food truck made available.

The Princess Anne County schools were the first to use window wall construction, glazed paint washable walls and electrical heating. Now, once again, they may make school history by being the first to use carpeting, air conditioning and electronic ovens.

All this for $11.50 per square foot

Blood Donors Get Reminder

In an effort to foster a greater degree of participation among the civic and fraternal organizations of Virginia Beach, Knights of Columbus Council No. 4632 has urged all groups to support the Red Cross Bloodmobile visit of Friday, April 27.

In a letter to the organizations Grand Knight Anthony Thomas stressed the importance of continued support for this vital function both for the forthcoming visit and in the future.

The entire Red Cross Bloodmobile program is useless without the voluntary donors who give their blood that others may live. Every minute, or the time it takes to read this reminder, 8 pints of blood are used to treat the ill and injured in this country. This amounts to over four million pints a year. That date again is Friday, April 27, from 12 noon to 6 at the Convention Center.

It is expected that if only one quarter of the members of the thirty organizations contacted by the K of C responded by donating blood, Bloodmobile records at the Beach would be surpassed.

Three new members were welcomed into the fraternal organization at the meeting of April 18. Accepted in a First Degree exemplification were William F. Augustine, Reginald A. Barber, and Harley F. Thompson. This exemplification was one of a series planned in the membership drive now in progress.

Beach Fossil Hunter

By JOY HAKIM
VIRGINIA BEACH—Virginia Beach has a group of experienced fossil hunters.

Their finding: shells, vertebrae, coral, sponges, barnacles and other fossils from the Miocene Period. (That's 20 million years ago.)

Their ages: 12 and 13 years old.

Who are they: The eighth graders at Country Day School. Mrs. H. Gray Parker, the science teacher, is enthusiastic about shells and fossils. She is a member of the Fossil Club of Hampton. This entitles her to dig in the Rice Pit there. (The pit is named after a Mr. Rice who owns the land. Findings in the pit have been established by the Smithsonian Institute as belonging to the Miocene Age.)

Last week Mrs. Parker, three other adults and the seventeen eighth graders spent the day digging at the pit.

They were thrilled and overwhelmed with their findings, which included many rare species.

It had rained the day before their trip. This made for good digging — but muddy eighth graders.

In fact the mud was the feature of the outing that everyone wanted to talk about — Nancy Strassberg left a boot in the mud, and it took three girls to pull Dawn Burton out.

At noon they found a clean mud-hole, washed up, and had lunch.

Back home they scrubbed their findings (and themselves) and then put the fossils on display for the whole school to see.

And they prepared a program to explain about fossils to the lower school (6th and 7th grades).

They showed off their specimens—a petrified crab claw, ancient scallops, oysters, olive shells, "Chinese hats", and many others—and they compared them with modern shells.

Karen Masterson was inspired to wax poetic (with help from Longfellow):

By the shores of Hampton Roads,

By the shining harbor inlet,
Went the eighth grade on their field trip,

Loyalty Day

Loyalty Day, May 1st will see close to one hundred new 50-star United States flags flying along the streets of Virginia Beach, according to Americanism Chairman Jack Thompson of Post 113 American Legion.

"May 1st has been a traditional day when communists show their colors and conduct demonstrations against the free world," declared Mr. Thompson, "this year President Kennedy in issuing a proclamation declared it a day when we should show our 'unwavering devotion and loyalty to this nation' and there is no better way on a single day like this than to fly the flag which is the symbol of our determination to remain free."

The Legion declared they have received enthusiastic response in their campaign. The City of Virginia Beach will raise the flags and lower them for the first time under this plan which was set for Armed Forces Day as the first occasion, but the date has been advanced because of what the Legion stated was a greater demand than anticipated.

To Organize

Plaza Church Petitions

PRINCESS ANNE PLAZA — The petition committee and the pastor, the Rev. Wentz J. Miller, of the Presbyterian Chapel at Princess Anne Plaza recently presented an organizational petition to Dr. Donald G. Miller, moderator of the 197th stated meeting of the Norfolk Presbytery.

The committee consists of William C. Bell, who made the presentation, Charles W. Beard, William D. Wright and Cecil M. Harrison.

Upon approval of the petition, June 10 of this year was set as the organizational date, bringing to an end the work of Rev. Miller who served as Field Minister for the Norfolk Presbytery Home Missions Committee.

Rev. Miller was assisted in his endeavor by an advisory group from the Home Missions Committee consisting of Oscar Ferebee, sub-committee chairman, Dr. Edward H. Jones and Paul Hirschbiel.

The chapel now holds Sunday services in the Princess Anne Plaza Elementary School and will continue at this location until building plans can be completed.

The first increment, designed by Harold Wagner, will consist of a fellowship hall, to be used as a temporary sanctuary, and an education facility. The building will be located on five acres on Rosemont Road at the end of Plaza Trail in Princess Anne Plaza.

Saving $'s

County Gets Quality At Less Cost In School Construction

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

PRINCESS ANNE—County Engineer Ernie Stone has created quite a name for himself and the Princess Anne County School Board by designing and building elementary schools for exactly half the cost of the national average.

Today's county schools cost the taxpayer about $8 per square foot compared to the national average of $16. The figure is even more amazing when you consider that the building must also include its own well water system and sewage disposal, two facilities that are usually provided by the city.

The county schools are among the most modern and complete in the state, so how can they be built for such an economical rate?

Planning and Design
This is a difficult question to answer, Stone said. Certainly they have all the necessary requirements and the very best materials. So Stone believes that planning and design are the two major money-saving factors.

Many months of planning go into a school before it even reaches the drawing board. Then several architects contribute their ideas, they are modified with the engineer's and the composite produces a plan complete to the most minor detail.

So complete are these drawings that the finished product includes not the slightest superfluous or excessive feature. Each light switch, each brick and each tile is well accounted for.

Another factor that saves the taxpayer money is a double-duty maintenance crew. These men are trained to supervise the construction and work closely with the contractor. This saves additional fees for overseeing. It also means that by the time the school is completed the maintenance men know the buildings so well they can put their finger on every outlet, pipe and valve, cutting down on repair time.

Also, because the school is so well planned, the construction time is cut considerably, saving many manhours. Once a building is started the contractor is never stopped to make changes. After a design is perfected it is used for several schools. But the life expectancy of a design is only three years. At the end of that time others must be made because of the changes in the educational field and new and better materials being made available.

Proving that design is the important factor, Norfolk County borrowed a set of plans from the Princess Anne County School Board and built the school for less than any they had undertaken before.

Saved $100,000
The cost of a school usually averages close to half a million dollars. In 1954 the county built Linkhorn Park Elementary School at a cost of $500,000 for 20 classrooms. Today they are building 26 classroom schools with more and better facilities for about $400,000, although the cost of materials have increased 20 per cent.

Schools cannot be built with bargain-priced materials. The very best must be used. But the cost is cut by utilizing the best engineering possible and including all labor saving devices.

More goes into school designing that meets the eye. The buildings must be planned with the thought in mind that they will not only be used for educational purposes but for libraries, churches and civic centers. They are also used as a haven of safety in a community and can be used in emergencies as evacuation or refuge centers.

They must also be designed for future expansion. Though unseen by the naked eye, each school has built-in electrical facilities that may one day provide television and ducts that may provide air conditioning.

Much has been said about cutting the cost on elementary schools but the county has also done wonders with the high school costs. The national average for high school construction is $19 to $21 per square foot. The county's new Kellam High School, scheduled to open this fall, has cost about $11.50 per square foot.

"We are proud of our wonderful school buildings because of their maintenance and beauty," Stone said, "but also because they were built with the absolute minimum of the taxpayer's dollar."

WTAR-TV

Local Men Promoted

VIRGINIA BEACH — Two local men have been promoted to the position of vice president of the WTAR Radio-Television station. The promotion was announced last week by Robert M. Lambe, president and general manager.

William A. Gietz, who resides with his wife, Barbara, and two children on North Alanton Dr., was named vice president of sales. He has been with WTAR since 1950, having come to the Tidewater area from the National Broadcasting Company. He graduated from Union College in 1948 and served in the Navy during World War II.

Gietz was named local sales manager in 1956 and, in 1961, was promoted to general sales manager of WTAR-TV. A member of the Norfolk-Portsmouth Sales Executive's Club, he was one of the winners of the club's awards for outstanding sales work in the area.

He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Virginia Beach, the Virginia Beach Assembly and the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce.

Jack B. Prince, a resident of 7703 Atlantic Avenue, was president of WTAR AM&FM Radio. He came to WTAR in 1958 from a public relations position with Capital Airlines in New Orleans. After two years as an account executive, he was promoted to local sales manager and, in 1960, became director of WTAR Radio.

At 27 he was one of the youngest men in the state to ever serve in such a position. In 1950 Prince won the Distinguished Salesman Award presented by the Hampton Roads Sales Executives Club.

Both positions become effective immediately, Lambe said.

GALILEE CHANCEL TO BE DEDICATED

The dedication of the newly completed chancel of Galilee Episcopal Church will be held on Sunday, April 29th at the 11:15 a.m. Service.

It was given by the Women of the Church who raised the funds for this work over a period of years. The tablets over the altar, the marble retables, the cross and the clergy stalls have been given as memorials by several individuals of the Parish.

The architect for beautification of the Chancel was Mr. Milton Grigg, an outstanding ecclesiastical architect of Charlottesville, Va.

The MIXING BOWL...

IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food facts and fables... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

brane. Cook in boiling water for 5 minutes. Cook onion and mushrooms in butter for about 5 minutes. Combine cooked rice, pimiento and peas with onions and mushrooms. Fill green pepper cups with rice and vegetable mixture and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Serve hot with sliced tongue.

Tongue Tid-Bit

1 ripe medium-sized avocado (mashed)
¼ cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons crumbled bleu cheese (optional)
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
1/8 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon white wine vinegar
Whip together all ingredients except tongue. Place each tongue cube on a wooden pick and stick each pick into any desired holder, such as cabbage or grapefruit — any one of your liking. Place avocado mixture in bowl. Serve as a dip for tongue cubes.

Another vegetable that goes well with beef tongue is spinach.

Spinach with Onions

2 packages of frozen spinach (cooked and drained)
1 tablespoon flour
½ stick margarine or butter
1/8 teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup coffee cream
Dash black pepper
3 hard-cooked eggs.
Melt butter and saute onions until clear. Blend flour in until smooth. Add cream and cook until thickens. Stir constantly. Place well-drained spinach in baking dish. Sliced hard-cooked eggs over spinach. Pour over sauce and onions. Sprinkle with fine buttered bread crumbs and bake until heated through.

Have you explored the meat counter lately? This might be a new adventure that is if you discover some cuts of meats that go unnoticed. We, too often turn to the old faithfuls. One cut to consider in your exploration is the cured and smoked beef tongue which introduces an entirely new flavor and texture. Many consider it a delicacy and then there are some who won't even try it.

Beef tongues range in weight from 2½ to 5 pounds. In addition to the cured and smoked tongue you may also purchase the sugar cured or fresh tongue. They are cooked in gently simmering water using the fork-tender test as a guide to doneness.

When sliced tongue is served hot a colorful complement might be vegetable stuffed green peppers. For cold "day after" service cut the tongue into cubes to be speared on wooden picks and dipped into an avocado-blue cheese mixture.

From Martha Logan of Swift and Company comes some helpful suggestions for carving beef tongue. For serving hot, allow the tongue to cool slightly after removing from the water. The bones and gristle should be removed from thick end and the skin peeled off from the thick end to the tip being careful not to roughen the surface of the tongue. Use a sharp knife and starting at the tip make lengthwise slices. As you proceed toward the thick end change the angle of the slices so that the slices are cut crosswise when the thick end of the tongue is reached. Cut ¼ inch slices to serve hot. For cold service chill the tongue for easier carving. When carved into 1/8 inch slices for serving cold, a 2½ pound tongue will yield about 24 slices.

Cox High Tid-Bits

Over 300 science, art and fiction books purchased by the Cox High library from the Book Fair at the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center will add much to an expanding library and the education of ever growing students.

Class unity seems to be a main goal at Cox. To strengthen this goal, the 8th grade students have elected these people as their leaders: Thom Gallagher, president; Bennet Haynes, vice-president; Nancy Holland, secretary; Jackie White, treasurer; Ruth Ann Miles, historian; and

Karen Mattox

Sue Stone, reporter. These students will be the 9th grade class officers next year.

The Lynnhaven Convalescent Home has been adopted by the Sigma Alpha Beta Tri-Hi-Y. This club plans to send birthday greetings to those in the convalescent home.

As another service project for Sigma Alpha Beta Tri-Hi-Y, they ordered brochures from all the colleges in order to supply the library and guidance office with the needed information.

The Key Club ordered pamphlets and other sources of datum on various countries for the library.

As a last reminder, the Key Club is sponsoring a Variety Show, April 27-28, from 8:00-8:30 p.m. in the Cox High auditorium. The price of admission—students, 35c and adults, 60c. Everyone is welcome to attend!

Charlotte '600' To Be Rich Race

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Total posted awards for the May Speed Festival at Charlotte Motor Speedway this year will be in excess of $110,000.

Climaxing the Festival will be the annual World 600 late model auto race on Sunday, May 27. The "600" is the longest and richest race of its kind in the world.

Speedway trustee Robert N. Robinson said today that official entry blanks for the "600" and champion events have been mailed to all drivers and car owners of the National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR).

The "600" winner's share of the $110,225 total awards will be $24,800 plus lap prizes. The speedway is guaranteeing $4,000 in lap awards at $10 per lap to the leader, and is accepting sponsorship from business firms and individuals of $25 per lap for the 400 trips around the high-banked 1½-mile paved race course.

Not included in the "600" winner's share are cash awards at stake in two 50-mile races on May 20, qualifying time trials May 23-26, a 15-mile Race of Champions and a 30-mile qualifying race on May 26, and other special events to be staged.

Automotive accessory manufacturers have posted some $25,000 of the total awards, the claiming of which will be contingent on drive use of the various products.

NASCAR drivers will start checking in at the speedway on May 19 to prepare and test their late model sedans for the "Twin 50's" on May 20.

The World 600 starting field, restricted to the fastest 50 qualifiers this year, will be determined during four days of time trial attempts May 23-26. More than 60 entries are expected.

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862... the same year that

IN VIRGINIA, General Robert E. Lee defended his capital city of Richmond against the invading "bluecoats." Virginians toasted their gallant General with foaming steins of beer.

For then, as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation. But beer means more than enjoyment to our state. The Brewing Industry contributes more than 8 million tax dollars to Virginia yearly—money that helps support our hospitals, schools, and parks.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

Notes from Your COUNTY AGENT

HEAD OF THE CLASS

"How did Junior make out in his latest exams?"
"Oh, he's doing much better. He was almost on the top of the list of those who failed."

THE NEWEST IN CORN WEED CONTROL

Weeds cost money. They rob the crop of fertilizer and moisture. Cultivation often ties up labor and equipment which are required for more essential work. Weeds increase the difficulty in harvest. Chemicals are available that "would" give good weed control in corn and permit maximum yields.

Atrazine

More people are talking about using Atrazine this year than any other material for chemical weed control on corn. Atrazine will just about eliminate all cultivations and will control both weeds and grass. Robert White and Ralph Frost are two of our county farmers who are going to be using Atrazine plus many others. They're going to use 2 lbs. of 80% Atrazine in 20 gallons of water per acre. The material should be applied 2 to 3 weeks after planting.

Atrazine will not injure corn when sprayed directly on the corn sprouts or at higher rates than I have suggested. Atrazine can be used without danger to crops in adjacent fields.

On soils extremely high in organic matter, such as Portsmouth and Othello type soils, the rate of application must be increased to 3 lbs. per acre.

Equipment Necessary

The same equipment you have been using is excellent for the application of Atrazine. Our old weed sprayers that we have been using are fine as long as we make some changes which I will point out later. Nitrogen or liquid fertilizer applicators can be used successfully, provided we follow recommendations.

Atrazine is a wettable powder, which is insoluble in water and therefore, special precautions must be followed with these powders as follows:

1. Strainers in your spray line should have screens of 50-mesh material or larger.
2. Use Tee Jet 8002, 8003, or 8004 nozzle tips or equivalent. Smaller sizes are liable to clog.
3. Diaphragm or piston type pumps are less subject to wear than gear or roller pumps and should be considered for use where large quantities of wettable powders are to be used. Pumps should be large enough to deliver 8 to 10 gallons per minute at 50 lbs. a square inch.
4. Mix wettable powder thoroughly with water into a paste or thick solution before adding it to the tank.
5. With wettable powders constant and vigorous agitation is necessary to insure a uniform mixture with water in the tank.

Regardless of the kind of equipment that you use, some type of agitation or bypass must be used in order to keep the material in suspension. Otherwise, it will settle out, you will clog in your nozzles, and uneven distribution of the material.

Weed Control on Soybeans

We have been getting a lot of questions concerning how to control weeds chemically on soybeans, and I thought today we would just chat about some of the materials that are available and the approximate cost per acre and the kind of job that they will do.

Dow Premiere

Dow Premiere or Sinox P.E. at 2 gallons or 6 lbs. per acre has been suggested for several years and used by farmers more than any other chemical for effective weed control on soybeans. The effectiveness of this material applied immediately after planting of soybeans has depended largely on soil moisture and temperature conditions. If these conditions were ideal for rapid weed germination, very effective weed control resulted. Incidentally, the cost of this material is about $10.90 per acre.

Alanap-3

Alanap-3 at 4 lbs. per acre has been used in Virginia for several years. It must be applied only immediately after planting and on moist soil for adequate weed control to result. Weed control by Alanap has been comparable to the results from the use of Dow Premiere. However, occasionally temporary stunting of soybeans has occurred. This stunting is usually associated with rainfall moving the chemical down to the developing root system. The cost of this material at the rate of 4 lbs. per acre will run around $9.50.

Alanap-3 Plus CIPC

The combination of these two materials used at the rate of 2 lbs. of each per acre has resulted in more consistent weed control without soybean injury in the research conducted to date. This combination should be applied immediately after planting. Farmers' use of this herbicide has been small, due to the fact that it costs $9.15 per acre.

Amiben

This material has been tested in Virginia for 2 years with satisfactory results. Recently the Pure Food and Drug Administration cleared it for use on soybeans that are to be consumed, processed or used for seed. This is a pre-emergence material to be used at the rate of 3 lbs. per acre. It has given excellent control of a wide range of weeds. The cost at 3 lbs. per acre is expected to be about $15.

A number of farmers in Princess Anne have used from 1/4 to 1/2 lb. of 2, 4-D per acre with acceptable results. Applications are usually made just before soybeans start to crack the soil surface. This treatment cannot be recommended however, because 2, 4-D might eliminate the stand of soybeans completely. I have seen several situations of soybeans sprayed with 2, 4-D. One situation would give very acceptable results and the other would eliminate the soybeans entirely. In both cases, the same material was used at the same rate, under what we would consider the same moisture conditions on the same soil type. One was acceptable; the other was a 100% failure. Therefore, we can still not recommend 2, 4-D as a practical chemical for use on soybeans.

WATCH OUT

Now is the time to start looking for insects, especially for any worms on pastures and small grain. This dreaded insect does not need a "welcome" sign tacked on a post in order to enter a field. Army worms can cause considerable damage over night. Therefore, farmers are advised to be especially alert for any advances of this insect. Upon first notice of any kind of insect in your pastures or small grain, please notify this office at once. Recommendations must be made on the basis of an individual situation, and therefore, I certainly do not want to make a broad, general recommendation at this time. The effect of animals or the effect upon the seed in the case of small grain is the one thing that we must be concerned with.

Vases Among Art Treasures

One of the great arts of the ancient world might be a question mark today without some excellent collections of household vases.

In the culturally vital 6th and 5th centuries B.C., Greek art was developing from a simple, primitive style of drawing into a bolder, more subtle form. The era was marked by rapid artistic progress and a growing impatience with the archaic drawing systems of the past.

Written descriptions of large 4th and 5th century panels and murals are known, but all of the original work has been lost or destroyed—all but the decorated vases and cups which were used for the storage and use of oils and wines.

These sturdy vessels came from the potter's wheel in only a dozen or so shapes, and the drawings on them were severely restricted in technique and subject matter. But they are priceless records, for their paintings depict, in the only graphic detail available, how the Greeks looked to each other and how their gods looked to them. They also show the same struggle with perspective that must have dominated the larger work of contemporary Greek painters.

Without the vases, observed classical expert Dr. Christine Alexander, a former curator at the Metropolitan Museum, we should walk blindfold through much of the life and art of a time when European genius was making one of its great forward surges.

On Friday, April 27th, the Virginia Museum will end a ten-year search when it unveils "The Greek Line," a new group of ancient vases, the finest collection to be found in any southern U.S. museum.

To heighten details of the vase paintings, photographic enlargements will be placed behind pedestal displays of the actual objects. The huge pictures will be echoes of the lost murals and paintings which adorned the temples of ancient Greece during the time of the birth of western pictorial art. Achilles and Ajax will gamble once more, Athena will burst forth from the head of Zeus, and Perseus will decapitate the Medusa—all in mammoth, god-like size for the twentieth century.

Describing the unusual way the vases and their drawings will be displayed in Virginia Museum Director Leslie Cheek, Jr., said, "You can see a big guy through a small window, if the window is rightly placed."
